TIMES AIR RACERS IN TRIPLE FLIGHT

Willard, McCurdy, and Ely, in Practice Aloft Together, Thrill Chicago Spectators.

ALL EAGER FOR THE START

Times's Special Train with Bulletin Service to Follow Airmen Toward New York Saturday.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Oct. 6.—The crowd which took advantage of to-day's clear weather to visit Hawthorne race track, where the aviators are practicing daily in preparation for the long aeroplane race to New York for the $25,000 prize of THE NEW YORK TIMES and the Chicago Evening Post, and the additional prize of $5,000 offered by Clifford B. Harmon, saw Charles F. Willard in one of the most spectacular flights which he has made so far. J. A. D. McCurdy and Eugene B. Ely, two other flyers who will compete with Willard for the honor of reaching New York first, also made several ascensions each, and at the time of Willard's star flight, both of them, too, were in the air, while the throng cheered.

Willard was in the air for about fifteen minutes this time, and besides making detours out of the grounds to the north, south, east, and west, he thrilled all and frightened some by dropping suddenly from a height of 1,500 feet to within ten feet of the heads of those who filled the open space in front of the paddock. Women screamed and men looked as though they would like to run. One or two men did run. Willard smiled, and when he was within ten feet of them, turned his front control slightly upward and soared aloft again at scarcely diminished speed.

Willard's flights in the afternoon carried him out over part of the route which the airmen must follow to leave Chicago on next Saturday, when they begin the long cross-country race. Willard said afterward that from what little he saw the route plotted Tuesday by Jerome S. Fanciulli, who is now headed toward Cleveland in a pathfinding automobile, plotting the route and setting signals for the fliers, was perfectly satisfactory, and ought to be negotiated without difficulty by the racers.

The contestants, as the day of the start draws nearer, grow more and more eager to be off, and will be as badly disappointed as the Chicagoans who have rushed to buy tickets for the starting day if the beginning of the great race has to be postponed.

Times Special Train to Follow.

THE NEW YORK TIMES has completed arrangements to follow the racers in a special train over the tracks of the Lake Shore and the New York Central Railroads. The train will be a speedy one, capable of keeping pace with the air men even when a favorable wind enables them to reach a speed of sixty or more miles an hour.

Bulletins telling of the progress of the racers will be thrown from the flying train at each telegraph office as it passes along the tracks and these will be sent to THE NEW YORK TIMES and The Chicago Evening Post. The use of a special train insures also the presence at each of the stopping places of representatives of the two papers and a full account of the day's race will be telegraphed each night to New York and Chicago.

The local weather bureau promised unclouded skies for the remainder of the week. Fair weather and light westerly winds is the forecast for Saturday when the Chicago to New York race is scheduled to start.

Early in the afternoon to-day a cold and rather strong north wind was blowing, but by 3 o'clock the wind had died down, and as the afternoon progressed it almost ceased to be a factor to be taken into consideration by the aviators in their numerous ascents.

It was just 3:30 when Willard, who had worried his colleagues by a late arrival, took his machine, the Banshee, out of its shelter tent. The first movement of the Banshee under its own power was a dash across the grounds to the west end of the track, the wind being behind. As soon as the aeroplane was turned about it soared readily, and Willard continued to mount to greater altitudes, sweeping over the course as he ascended. Conditions were then almost perfect for the wind had dropped until it seemed hardly perceptible.

Willard just swept over the grand stand at a height of several hundred feet, then swinging around to the south, he made a cross-country dash. The white planes of his flyer dropped low over adjacent prairies, as though intent on landing, then barely skimmed the neighboring roofs while the observers held their breath.

Three Flights by Willard.

He made altogether three flights this afternoon, each of ten minutes or over. In the second, which began at 4:37 o'clock, he circled about the country, behind the grandstand, turned sharply, "banking" heavily and doubled on his tracks, raced between the judges' stands and finally dipped precipitately toward the ground with an easy glide at the finish. While he was making the second flight he had discovered that his tank had worked loose from its fastenings.

"It was floating around there" as Willard expressed it upon landing. Mechanicians replaced the fastenings and after about half an hour's delay Willard was ready for action again. By this time it was growing dark and there was a movement among the crowd toward the exits. Then in succession the three fliers entered the air and the crowd waited spellbound until the last landing had been made.

On this triple flight Willard remained in air from 5:28 until 5:40 o'clock. McCurdy arose two minutes after Willard, and settled to the aviation field again just two minutes before him. Ely, who had been sailing over the track for six minutes before either of the two others joined him, was the first to land, but for four minutes the three great biplanes wheeled in the sky together, the crowd being moved to rounds of applause as in turn they swept past the grand stand at dazzling speed. Just as Ely was landing Augustus Post rose for a few moments, flying the length of the field.

Earlier Ely, in the Hudson Flyer, Curtiss's biplane, had circled high in air, and for five minutes held the attention of all, diving suddenly toward the heart-shaped pond in the centre of the grounds, checked his plane barely above the surface of the water. McCurdy, who was not entirely satisfied with the working of his engine, made only two or three brief trial flights before he joined Willard and Ely in the last flight of the day, in which his machine behaved admirably.

BOMB WRECKS TWO STORES.

Twenty Tenement Families Imperiled by an Explosion on the East Side.

While twenty families were asleep in the four-story tenement at 434 East Eleventh Street, in the neighborhood which has come to be known to the police as the "Bomb Belt," a dynamite bomb was exploded in the rear of the hall at midnight, just between the two stores occupied on the ground floor by Frank, Salvatore, and Felice Lopez, dealers in oils and wines, and Peter Bisulca, a grocer.

The explosion tore a big hole in the floor of the hall, blew the hall doors of both stores off their hinges, knocked the plaster from the walls, and shattered nearly every window in the house.

The Lopez brothers live above their store. Two of them, Salvatore and Frank, were sleeping in the rear of the store, only a few yards from the point of the explosion. As Salvatore ran out he fell into the hole torn in the floor, where he was found struggling and bruised by Policeman Emerich a little later. In the other store Bisulca, his wife, and their baby were asleep at the time. The plaster from the wall and ceiling fell over the baby's cradle, but it escaped injury.

When Central Office detectives reached the place, they recognized Salvatore and Felice Lopez as two men they had arrested in 1908, when they had a small cobbler shop at 408 East Forty-second Street, on a charge of carrying dynamite. The brothers were discharged in court because the police could prove no criminal intent on their part.

The housekeeper knew no one in the building who had received threatening letters recently, but the police heard that the owner of the building, Pasquale Visconte, of 47 and 49 West 112th Street, had received several threats from the Black Hand.

USED SCISSORS ON HIS LOCKS

Italian Had Just Slashed a Factory Girl's Face with a Razor.

Forgetting their terror, fifty girls who yesterday afternoon beheld a vicious assault with a razor by an Italian on one of their companions in a shirtwaist factory at Jamaica and Sheffield Avenues, East New York, rushed upon her assailant and rescued her.

"Kill him! Spoil his looks, too!" shouted the young women as they struck at the man with shears and other tools and parts of machinery. He brandished his razor and endeavored to use it against them, but a blow on the arm with a heavy piece of wood wielded by one of the girls knocked the weapon from his hand and he fled down the stairs to the street. He made his escape, but carried with him marks about the face and head which the police last night hoped would lead to his arrest.

Marguerita Fisero, a girl of 15 years, living at 2,317 Pacific Street, was taken to Bradford Street Hospital. Knowledge that her regular features had been spoiled for life caused her even more anguish than the actual pain resulting from the cuts. Her mother and the nurses sought to comfort her, but she only wept and wished that she might die.

The police of the Liberty Avenue Station are hunting for an Italian of 19 years known to them as "Musty Gall." It was learned that he had forced his attentions on the girl in spite of her objection and her father's threats, and for several days he had endeavored to persuade her to run away with him. She refused and carrying out an oft repeated threat to slash her with a razor he entered the factory and attacked her as she sat at her machine.

ARRESTED FIRE CHIEF CROKER

As a Judge of Parade He Tried to Pass Police Lines in New Rochelle.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW ROCHELLE, Oct. 6.—Fire Chief E. F. Croker of New York City came up here to-day to be the guest of the city and to act as one of the three judges in the Firemen's Parade of Westchester County. He was arrested on the charge of attempting to get through the New Rochelle police lines, but he succeeded in getting free in time to do his part as a judge. While he was in care of the local police Mr. Croker didn't say much, but he smoked many cigars.

The Fire Chief was on his way from the Executive Committee's headquarters to the reviewing stand. To get to the stand he had to pass through the police lines. Policeman Roy Chenoweth stopped him, and, though Croker identified himself, Chenoweth marched him off to the police station.

No charge was written against him in the blotter. The Chief was permitted to sit in the room of Capt. Edward J. Timmons, while word was sent to Mayor Colwell and Fire Chief Ross of New Rochelle. After an hour he was released.

TSAI SUUN ESCAPES DEATH.

Detectives Seize Would-Be Assassin as Prince Is Boarding Vessel.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 6.—George Fong, a member of the San Francisco organization of the Young Chinese Association, an alleged revolutionary body, was arrested to-day by secret service men as he was about to shoot Prince Tsai Suun, uncle of the Emperor of China.

The Prince was boarding the steamer Chiyo, to sail for home. Fong confessed that he intended to kill the Prince. A loaded revolver was found in the pocket toward which Fong's hand was moving when the detectives seized him. The detectives had received information that Fong would bear watching, and they had him under observance while the Prince and his retinue were boarding the vessel.

"I wanted to be the George Washington of China," said Fong, "and to be the savior of my country, and I thought this would be a good way to begin. I would have killed him if I had not been afraid to shoot for fear of hitting some white people."

CITY GAINED 5,157 IN BIRTHS.

August's Babies Numbered That Much Over the Month's Deaths.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, Oct. 6.—New York City, according to the monthly bulletin issued by the State Department of Health, made a net gain in native population during August of 5,157, its births numbering 11,207 and its deaths 6,050. Manhattan Borough is credited with 5,794 births and 3,054 deaths, the births exceeding the deaths by 2,740, while Brooklyn Borough had 3,661 births and 1,955 deaths, or an excess of 1,706 births.

The total births for the month for the entire State was 18,049, while the deaths numbered 11,998, showing a net gain in native population in the State of 6,051.

There were 103 suicides for the month. Homicides numbered 41, and there were 734 deaths by accident, railroad fatalities leading with 159 and drownings following with 138. The deaths due to horses and vehicles were 33 and lightning 7.

GRAND PRIZE AUTO RACE CALLED OFF

Criticism Following Fatalities in Vanderbilt Cup Contest Causes Action.

CROWDS TOO BIG TO CONTROL

Motor Cups Holding Company Invites Savannah Auto Club to Hold the Event on Southern Course.

The international automobile race for the Grand Prize offered by the Automobile Club of America, which was to have been run over the Vanderbilt Cup course, on Long Island, on Saturday, Oct. 15, was declared off yesterday at a joint meeting of the Motor Cups Holding Company and the representatives of the contestants. The cancellation of the proposed race on Long Island is the result of the criticism which followed the running of the Vanderbilt Cup race on Oct. 1, during which four persons were killed and twenty injured.

William K. Vanderbilt, Jr., last night invited the Savannah Automobile Club to submit a proposition for the holding of the race, and the second running of the Grand Prize will probably be held on the same course over which the first Grand Prize was run in 1908.

Yesterday's meeting of the Motor Cups Holding Company was brought about after a meeting on Wednesday at which twelve of the contestants were represented, who appointed a committee to confer with the management of the race in relation to the protection of their drivers, machinicians, and the public. On Tuesday Jesse Froehlich, managing director of the Benz Auto Import Company, notified A. R. Pardington, the representative of President Vanderbilt, that if better protection was not furnished than in the Vanderbilt Cup race, the Benz cars would not start. On the receipt of this letter, the Motor Cups Holding Company returned the Benz entry fees of $1,750 and rejected the three entries.

It was this action of the Motor Cups Holding Company, which prompted the meeting of the contestants on Wednesday. Mr. Froehlich was present with representatives of the Fiat, Marmon, and Marquette-Buick entrants. It was decided to ask the Motor Cups Holding Company for some assurance for a more adequate policing of the course than was provided at the Vanderbilt Cup race.

The meeting yesterday was held at the Automobile Club of America. The Executive Committee of the Motor Cups Holding Company, composed of W. K. Vanderbilt, Jr., Henry Sanderson, Henry B. Anderson, and A. R. Pardington, assistant to the President, were present, and also W. C. Durant of the Marquette-Buick, E. R. Hollander of the Fiat Automobile Company, Washington A. Roebling, 2d, owner of the Roebling-Planche entry; James Joyce of the American Locomotive Company, whose entry was the Alco, in which Grant won the Vanderbilt race last Saturday; Mr. Lutgen, representing the Mercedes entry of George W. Loft; Gaston Plaintiff, representing Henry Ford, and W. B. Easton of the Sharpe-Arrow Automobile Company.

The automobile men informed the Executive Committee that the course must be adequately policed so that the crowd would be kept out of the way of the fast-going cars. If the same arrangements were to be made as during the Vanderbilt Cup race, they feared that there would again be disastrous results. Many of the automobile men suggested that the State Militia be employed to patrol the course, but when informed that it was impossible to use the State troops for this purpose, it was voted on the request of the Motor Cups Holding Company that they be relieved of the responsibility of conducting the Grand Prize race. The meeting lasted several hours and there was considerable discussion before the final action of calling the race off on Long Island was agreed upon.

The entrants then unanimously expressed their confidence in the Motor Cups Holding Company in the conduct of the Vanderbilt race, and went on record as saying that the company employed every reasonable precaution to control the immense crowds that witnessed the race on last Saturday. They realized that the company could take no greater precaution at the running of the Grand Prize, and therefore voted to relieve it of the responsibility of the race for the gold cup.

The resolutions are as follows:

"At a joint meeting of the Executive Committee of the Motor Cups Holding Company and the entrants in the Second International Grand Prize scheduled to be held on Long Island on Saturday, Oct. 15th, 1910, it was, by unanimous vote of the entrants present, with full knowledge of the fact that every reasonable precaution was taken to control the immense crowds attracted to the Vanderbilt Cup Race held on the 1st instant, and further, realizing that no greater precaution can be taken for the Grand Prize Race, and upon the request of the Motor Cups Holding Company that they be relieved of the responsibility of conducting the said Grand Prize Race,

"Resolved, That the request of the Motor Cups Holding Company be acceded to; and it is further unanimously

"Resolved, That the thanks of the entrants be extended to the Motor Cups Holding Company for the sportsmanlike manner in which the Vanderbilt Cup Race was conducted, and for their offer to conduct the Grand Prize Race, should it be the desire of the entrants."

The list of fatalities and injuries at the Vanderbilt Cup race this year was the largest in the history of the classic event. The course, according to the drivers, was not in the best of condition, and the police who were patrolling the course were unable to control the crowds. The people rushed on the course when the machines passed them, and many persons were injured. One death occurred when a touring party was on the way to the course over the crowded roads before daylight. Two mechanicians were killed outright as a result of accidents to the racers, and two drivers, Stone and Chevrolet, were injured, Stone's condition being serious.

Before the race the management protected the dangerous turns. Fences six feet high were erected, Manager Pardington says, on the Massapequa, Hicksville, and Westbury corners, and also at the corner at Smith's Hotel near Westbury. The crowds paid no attention to these barriers, and got on to the course in spite of the efforts of the rural police to keep them within safe territory.

SAVANNAH WANTS RACE.

Committee Coming to New York to Arrange for Holding Event.

SAVANNAH, Ga., Oct. 6.—Mayor Tiedeman received a telegram to-night from W. K. Vanderbilt, Jr., advising him that the grand prize automobile race which was to have been run over the Long Island Motor Parkway on Oct. 15 had been called off. Mr. Vanderbilt suggested that Savannah make application at once for handling the event.

Officials of the Savannah Automobile Club took the matter up with the Automobile Club of America to-night. Mayor Tiedeman wired Secretary Fosdick in New York that the Savannah Club is prepared to enter into negotiation at once, and that a delegation will be sent from Savannah to New York if the proposition will be entertained.

INDIANAPOLIS, Oct. 6.—The management of the Indianapolis Speedway, on being advised to-night that the grand prize race on the Vanderbilt course had been called off, telegraphed to A. R. Pardington of New York, manager of the race, an offer of a purse of [illegible] if it should be transferred to the Speedway here.

DEMOCRATS FIGHT IN FANEUIL HALL

Then Gubernatorial Candidates Withdraw and Mansfield Is Named Temporarily.

HE WILL WITHDRAW SOON

Special Committee to Name Head of Ticket—Convention Takes Two Ballots and Foss Leads.

BOSTON, Friday, Oct. 7.—Frederick W. Mansfield of Boston was nominated for Governor of Massachusetts by the Democratic State Convention at 1:30 o'clock this morning, after wild disorder, in which fists were freely used, had forced Congressman Eugene N. Foss, James M. Vahey, and Charles S. Hamlin to seek harmony. Two ballots had been taken under the Australian system, each consuming several hours, when the riot began. On the first Foss had 383 votes, Vahey 302, and Hamlin 295. On the second Foss lacked only 4 votes of victory, with 438 to 425 for Vahey, and 20 for Hamlin, most of the Hamlin men having tried to nominate Vahey.

It was agreed that Mr. Mansfield should withdraw within seventy-two hours and that the choice of the party's candidate should be made by a special committee. The committee named to chooes the final candidate for Governor and Lieutenant Governor and to fill any vacancies that may arise is as follows: Robert J. Crowley, of Lowell; William B. Hayes, of Springfield; John A. Maynard, of Boston and Frederick J. McLeod of Cambridge. It will choose a fifth member, and the five will have absolute power to create the new candidate.

The balance of the State ticket was made up as follows:

Secretary of State, A. L. F. Charest, Holyoke.

Treasurer, Gen. B. F. Peach, Lynn.

Auditor, Charles Paine, Barnstable.

Attorney General, [illegible] Ratigan, Worcester.

After the announcement of the second ballot delegates swarmed up over the press seats to the platform. Chairman Thayer called for the police, and twenty officers struggled to the stage. They succeeded after some difficulty in pushing the ardent delegates back upon the floor of the convention hall.

Martin Lomasney, the Boston Eighth Ward leader and a Foss supporter, and Congressman John A. Kehller, a Hamlin backer, hung tenaciously to the edge of the platform demanding the right to speak. A second effort of the officers to clear the stage resulted in the starting of several fights. Fists were used freely and at 12:25 half a dozen mix-ups were in progress with the chairman unable to secure order.

At 12:30 A. M. a recess of twenty minutes was declared by the Chairman. Scarcely any one left the hall. In fact, the mêlée was at its height. Delegates were pounding each other in and about the press boxes and the newspaper men were driven from their section. The officers experienced difficulty in separating the combatants and reserves were called in. When the twenty minutes was up the Chairman had been unable to get sufficient backing through delegates or police to carry on the convention.

As a last resort a conference of the leaders of the convention was called just before 1 o'clock to attempt to agree upon a new candidate for Governor. Then the police and more sober-minded delegates quieted the combatants, and the convention awaited the result of the consultation.

Those who were included in the conference were Martin M. Lomansney, William F. Murray, Frederick J. Macleod, John F. McDonald, and C. F. Jennings, representing Mr. Foss, and James H. Vahey, Congressman Joseph F. O'Connell, James Doyle, Congressman John A. Kelliher, and Daniel A. Coakley, representing Mr. Vahey.

Mr. Vahey at 1:15 A. M. withdrew as a candidate for Governor. He then placed in nomination the name of Mr. Mansfield, and the convention made his nomination unanimous, the other candidates having withdrawn at the conference.

The contest for the Governorship divided the convention into three camps, and there was much bitterness displayed all through the day and evening. The crush was the greatest ever seen at a Democratic convention in Boston. The old-line faction was for Hamlin, who was Solicitor of the Treasury under President Cleveland, but Mayor Fitzgerald of Boston opposed him because of Hamlin's opposition in the municipal campaign last year. Foss was opposed by labor union leaders. Vahey was weakened by his two defeats.

After the platform had been adopted without trouble balloting was begun at sundown. Much delay was caused by the use of the Australian ballot.

Some of the demands of the Democratic platform are:

Tariff revision downward.

Popular election of United States Senators.

A uniform National parcel post.

More speedy and cheaper justice.

Initiative and referendum, direct nominations and reform of the convention system wherever direct nominations cannot be obtained, pre-election publicity of campaign contributions, ultimately the public payment of Congress expenses, and the extirpation of the lobby.

Consolidation of existing commissions and abandonment of the Republican policy of dodging issues by reference to special commissions.

Progressive labor legislation, including the workingmen's compensation act, reform of injunction abuses, shorter hours for women and children, and the eight-hour bill twice vetoed by Gov. Draper.

Local self-government.

Freer trade relations with Canada.

Defeat of Senator Lodge for re-election.

This summary was a new idea and was followed by discussion of the tariff and other issues.

REWARDS CUT TO $35,000.

$100,000 Considered Too Much for Capture of Los Angeles Dynamiters.

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 6.—Rewards offered for the apprehension of the dynamiters who blew up The Los Angeles Times Building early last Saturday morning were reduced to-day from an aggregate of more than $100,000 to $35,000.

The reduction followed Mayor Alexander's statement that in his opinion the total rewards had reached far too high a figure. The reduction, however, still leaves the amount of the rewards greater than any offered in recent criminal history.

Two men were arrested to-day in connection with the explosion. They are Charles Mehr and Frank Russell. Mehr, according to the report of the arresting officers, declared that "the unions have something else up their sleeves."

TWO SHOT DEAD IN CAFE OFF BROADWAY

Fusillade of Bullets Empties a Tenderloin Saloon After Midnight.

TWO OTHER MEN WOUNDED

Only a Blind Pianist and the Bartender Left with the Killed When the Police Arrived.

The Maryland Café, in Twenty-eighth Street, just west of Broadway, was peacefully supplying its regular patronage just after midnight this morning. There was much loud laughter and rattling of glasses from the room behind the bar. Upstairs the young blind pianist was rattling out his merriest tune. Suddenly there blew up one of the tempests that come when two gangs meet. Within five minutes two men lay dead on the floor; one wounded in the side was trying weakly to climb behind the bar, a fourth was seen to collapse, with a wound in his back as he ran to the corner of Broadway.

The men and women who had been in the cafe, running through windows and alleyways, had disappeared into the night when Policeman Crosby of the West Thirtieth Street Station ran into the place.

All that he could find to tell what had happened were the blind pianist, Fred Karney of 239 West Twenty-fourth Street, who had climbed behind the piano; Andrew Conroy, a 17-year-old newsboy, who lives in Second Avenue, Brooklyn, and Morris Reichel, the bartender.

But, face upward in the little vestibule leading into the saloon, a man lay dead. He was a young fellow, and had been shot in the breast. Far behind the row of tables in the rear room another man lay on his back. He, too, had been shot in the breast. A heavy revolver lay on the floor beside him.

According to the story the police gathered, the merriment of the crowd sitting in the rear room was interrupted by the sound of shots coming from the street. The glass of the doorway that separates that room from the bar splintered as the bullets flew.

The men all jumped from their seats and rushed into the bar. As they crowded through the door they saw a group of men looking through the door that opened into the street. According to all the witnesses, it was this gang that opened fire. Some of those from the inner room drew their guns, some had them ready in hand. The bartender ducked and the fusillade began.

Then the crowd rushed for safety in every direction. A policeman running up Broadway, just as he turned the corner, saw a man drop back from one fleeing group, stagger, and fall on his side. He called a near-by taxicab and rushed him to the Bellevue Hospital. He gave his name as Frank Bennaccio of 2,046 Third Avenue. He had been shot in the side.

Another man, one of those who had run from the inner room, was found doubled up behind the bar. The bartender said he saw him crawl there in the midst of all the uproar. He had been wounded in the side also, and a little pool of blood was spreading where he lay. He said he was Joseph Howard, an electrician, of 242 West Forty-second Street. He, too, was hastened to Bellevue by the ambulance, which by this time had arrived.

None of those whom the police questioned could give any explanation of the fight, but in the crowd that pressed around the doorway there was talk of two gangs, between which much bitterness had sprung up of late. They seemed to think that a gun fight within a stone's throw of Broadway was no more than was to be expected.

The Maryland Café is a typical establishment of that neighborhod. It had been crowded to overflowing five minutes before the shooting, and five minutes later not a patron was in sight. There was none to identify the dead men, young fellows both. The rear room is set with tables, and on the floor above are more tables and a piano.

The place is owned by "Chick" Tricker, well known to the gambling fraternity, who is said to have been a marked man for the last three years.

Later in the morning a man who came into the place identified the dead man found in the back room as Frank Mack, who used to live, he said, at 138 East Fifteenth Street. The man who furnished the information was George McLain of 220 West Fourteenth Street.

From behind pieces of furniture, from blind alleys into which they had run, and from among those whom policemen caught fleeing in every direction four men and fifteen women were taken over to the West Thirtieth Street Station. Three of the men were found beneath the stairway in the cellar. They were half suffocated and covered with cobwebs when the police took them out, and were frightened almost beyond the power of speech.

At first it was supposed that a quarrel had arisen in the inner room, which led first to high words and then to bloodshed. But both the bartender and a little newsboy, who showed no intention of running when the crowd did, were sure that the shots began from without, and that those within had recognized their significance and rushed out to do battle. If it was true that the shooters were two hostile gangs, then of the two sides to the battle each killed a man and each sent a man wounded to the hospital.

DRAPER IS RENOMINATED.

Massachusetts Republicans Commend Taft and Piecemeal Tariff Revision.

BOSTON, Oct. 6.—President Taft, ex-President Roosevelt, and Senators Lodge and Crane were all cheered by the Republican State Convention, which to-day renominated by acclamation Gov. Eben S. Draper and the remainder of the present State officers, with the exception of Attorney General Dana Malone, who did not desire a re-election and whose place was taken without opposition by James M. Swift, of Fall River.

The platform, which avoids all mention of Colonel Roosevelt, declares:

> We cannot too warmly commend the Administration of President Taft, and are glad to here express our appreciation of the commanding part he took in securing the enactment of so much wise legislation in the last session of Congress.

As to the tariff, it commends the establishment of a tariff board, approves the "construction which President Taft has placed upon its powers and duties," and declares for "further legislation to define clearly the powers and duties of such board and make it a permanent, independent, expert tariff commission, the function of which shall be to discover and report to Congress from time to time such facts and statistics as will enable Congress to amend the tariff law intelligently and scientifically, according to the principle of protection."

It is further declared revision should be schedule by schedule, that "an examination of the schedules" establishes the fact that the Payne Tariff Law is a downward revision, and that the "charge that the present tariff is responsible for increases in the prices of necessities has been demonstrated to be false."

MAYOR WALKS TEN MILES.

Goes Back to Deepwells for a Few Days of Good Weather.

Mayor Gaynor did not come to the City Hall yesterday. In his absence John Purroy Mitchel, President of the Board of Aldermen, presided over the Board of Estimate at its budget meeting.

At St. James, L. I., the Mayor's Summer home, the understanding last night was that he would remain there until Sunday afternoon or Monday morning.

Mr. Gaynor is not ill or ailing, but wanted to take advantage of what may be the last few days of good weather. He took a ten-mile walk yesterday over the Long Island roads, besides going over his farm pretty thoroughly and inspecting the preparations that have been made for Winter. To-morrow he is to help thresh a neighbor's buckwheat, and will probably put in a strenuous day.

CHEERING CAMPAIGN NEWS.

Republicans Have Carried Lisbon, Anyway, Col. Gleason Notes.

News of the overthrow of the Portuguese monarchy was received with unusual interest at the Republic State Committee Headquarters yesterday. Col. Lafayette Gleason, Secretary of the committee, bought up all the first editions of the evening papers, and was deeply absorbed in them when Ezra P. Prentice, the newly elected State Chairman, dropped in.

"What's the good word this morning?" Mr. Prentice asked.

"Why," replied Col. Gleason, "it does not look so dark for our party this year after all. I see here that the Republicans have carried Lisbon."

NOMINATE SENATOR TAYLOR.

Regular Democrats of Tennessee Replace Patterson—Committee Resigns.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Oct. 6.—The regular Democratic convention to-night nominated United States Senator Robert L. Taylor, known as "Fiddling Bob" for Governor, in place of Gov. Malcom R. Patterson, who resigned the nomination recently because of the movement of the independent Democrats in support of the head of the Republican ticket. John J. Vertrees, who appeared in the Ballinger investigation, was named for National committeeman, vice R. E. L. Mountcastle. Senator Taylor will not resign as Senator unless elected Governor.

The old State Executive Committee resigned in a body.

Former Gov. Vardaman, of Mississippi, addressed the convention in the interest of harmony, saying:

"You are traitors to your ancestors if you give up your principles of Democracy. It must be victory or the end of the Democratic party in Tennessee."

RAIN AND COLD IN SOUTHWEST

Country from Texas to Ohio Deluged—Temperatures Fall 30 Degrees.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Oct. 6.—Deluged by the heaviest continuous rainfall in forty years, a wide strip of country, extending from Eastern Texas northeastward across the northern portions of Louisiana and Mississippi, and over parts of Arkansas, Tennessee, Kentucky, Southern Indiana, and Ohio, almost to Pittsburg, is in places an inland sea.

While the rain continues in the northernmost part of this area, the storm has ceased in the Southwest, and a cold wave has dropped temperatures as much as 30 degrees.

Only two lives are known to have been lost. Mrs. A. J. Burchfield and her grandson were drowned in a rapidly rising stream near Dyersburg, Tenn. Washouts on railroads in some parts of Kentucky and Tennessee are numerous, and many trains are off their schedule. The delivery of mail by rural carriers has been abandoned in some places, and there has been much damage to farm lands and corn in the shock.

20,000 GIRLS TO STRIKE.

Neckwear Workers Vote for One, and the Price of Ties Will Go Up.

Some 20,000 union neckwear workers, practically all of whom are women and girls, will go on strike Monday, it is confidently expected. Their Executive Committee was empowered last night to order the strike.

The neckwear workers want a shorter workday, higher wages, the abolition of the sub-contractor system, and cleaner shops. The demands are general. The workers have been holding meetings of late to talk over their condition. They had a strike last year, out of which they got an agreement, which they declare has been broken by the employers. At first they wanted the employers merely to make a new agreement. Then they worked up their indignation against the middle contractor, who stands between them and many of the big employers, taking part of the money for the work done.

The workers gathered at Cooper Union last night in mass meeting to discuss the matter of a strike. H. Frayne, General Organizer of the American Federation of Labor, and Leonora O'Reilly of the Women's Trade Union League, made speeches. The meeting was enthusiastic, and the workers voted that the Executive Committee should be empowered to order a strike.

$100,000,000 COAL DEAL

Standard Oil Obtains 550,000 Acres from J. V. Thompson of Uniontown.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Penn., Oct. 6.—It is stated on apparent good authority that the biggest coal transaction on record was closed here to-day, when Josiah V. Thompson of Uniontown agreed to transfer to the Standard Oil Company 550,000 acres of coal land, located in Washington and Greene Counties, Penn., and in six West Virginia Counties, representing a transaction of about $100,000,000.

The Greene County coal lands cover about 135,000 acres, and the Washington County block 140,000. The remaining 275,000 acres are located in Ohio, Marshall, Wetzel, Lewis, Harrison, and Monongahela Counties of West Virginia.

For the past fifteen years Mr. Thompson has been taking up coal options through Washington and Greene Counties and in West Virginia. In the early days of his activities he bought many thousands of acres at as low a figure as $10 an acre. Of late years, however, the price has gone up, but it is known that he has seldom paid over $100 an acre. In the deal just closed he disposes of his Washington and Greene County coal at a little over $300 an acre, and receives a good figure for his West Virginia holdings.

NEW REPUBLIC'S CABLE TO TIMES

Portuguese Revolution Successful, Message from Provisional Government Says.

MANUEL IS AT GIBRALTAR

PRESIDENT BRAGA A POET

Regarded as Portugal's Leading Author—His Selection a Great Surprise.

THE REPUBLIC PROCLAIMED

Announcement in Oporto and Other Cities Apparently Received Calmly—Details of Lisbon Battle.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Oct. 6.—THE NEW YORK TIMES correspondent here to-night received the following dispatch from Dr. Alfonso Costa, who is generally regarded as the leading spirit and chief organizer of the revolution in Portugal, and who telegraphs by the authority and on belief of the Provisional Government.

Lisbon, Oct. 6, 11:45 P. M.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The Provisional Government of the Portuguese Republic, to which I belong as Minister of Justice and Worship, thanks you for the publicity which you will give throughout the great Republic of the United States to the expression of the determination of the Portuguese Republic to introduce political morality and reform and progress in internal administration and to strengthen, upon moral and practical bases, the good relations between our country and foreign nations.

The Provisional Government will seek to accomplish, within the measure of the possible, the radical programme with progressive tendencies of the Portuguese Republican Party—that is, education extended to all classes of the population in the widest possible fashion; national defense, naval and military, placed on a sure footing; colonial administration based upon a decent realization of autonomy; absolute assurance of all the essential liberties of the individual; the extinction of abuses in the system of Police Judges and criminal procedure; the expulsion of monks and nuns; the closing of congregational schools; the institution of obligatory registration by the civil authorities of births, marriages, and deaths; the separation of Church and State.

These are urgent reforms which the Government will decree, while at the same time taking the measures necessary to strengthen the credit and finances of the nation.

With the authority of and on behalf of the Provisional Government,

ALFONSO COSTA,
Minister of Justice.

Carlos Malheiro Diaz, a royalist member of the Cortes who is now in London, said in an interview to-day:

"There are men of great energy in the Republican Cabinet. Above all others we must place Alfonso Costa. He for years has been my colleague in the Cortes, and I can assert that we have no man of greater personal courage and of equal talent as a politician. He is our leading orator in the Cortes, holds a chair at the Coimbra University, and is by general consent the best lawyer in Portugal.

"It may seem strange to hear me sing Costa's praises, but Lisbon is not London, and our Parliament is a small place, where every member knows all the other members quite intimately, and lasting friendships link together politicians of totally adverse opinions. Alfonso Costa is a typical revolutionary with brains. He has a stentorian and persuasive voice. He is both powerful and refined. He has finesse and willpower, and he is a born leader of men. It was he who in the Cortes boldly raised all those great questions, including the matter of the royal house's debt, which slowly but surely, as we now see, sapped the edifice of the monarchy. The portfolio of Justice will be an important one in Costa's hands, for I know that among his pet projects is the complete reform of our civil code—reform which, I must admit, is urgently needed at any rate.

"Although the news from Portugal is still scanty, I am ready to assert that Costa has been responsible for the whole organization of the revolution, together with Antonio José de Almeida, who has been made Minister of the Interior. De Almeida is the idol of the people. He is a romantic orator and able doctor who has done a great deal of good.

"I fancied that Costa would be made President," continued Senhor Diaz, "but the Republicans evidently wished to give Portugal and Europe an niable sign that peaceful intentions and a policy of general indulgence are not incompatible with a régime of liberty. Braga is the most sedate, peaceful man imaginable. He detests violence and bloodshed. He is a philosopher and poet and a man of remarkable intelligence and great kindness. Braga, who is now about 65 years old, has devoted his life to study. He has written a great deal of poetry, but his chief work is a history of Portuguese literature in twenty volumes. Altogether he has written some hundred books and is always referred to in our press as the most glorious man of letters of Portugal. He has always been a stanch Republican, but was rather a theoretician than a man of action, and I am sure he must have been astounded by the news of his appointment to the Presidency of the republic.

"For him, who has always led a sedentary life, with a few learned friends, surrounded by his dear and innumerable books, to have been thrown so abruptly into the midst of active politics and to be made the head of the Government while fighting is going on in the streets of Lisbon and the royal palace is being bombarded—what a bewildering experience!

"At any rate, Braga is a man of unlimited talent. His appointment certainly represents the triumph of personality over mediocrity. Too long did the monarchy distribute high offices to men who had no intellectual superiority whatever. Portugal lived for years under a régime of mediocracy, if I may coin such a word, and that has been the main cause of the Republicans' success."

Senhor Diaz concluded by laying stress on the fact that Senhor Braga is surrounded by men of action and practical experience.

The Daily Mail publishes a telegram from Senhor Braga announcing the proclamation of the republic and the flight of the deposed royal family, to guarantee whose lives and safety the Provisional Government has, it is stated, taken every precaution. Senhor Braga adds:

"We have just received the adhesion of the Governor of the intrenched camp of Lisbon, namely, Gen. Alveo Cardeira, formerly Minister of War under the deposed King. The stability of the republic is assured by the desire of the whole country."

KING MANUEL AT GIBRALTAR.

He and His Mother Are Guests of the British Governor.

GIBRALTAR, Oct. 6.—King Manuel of Portugal is now under British protection.

The Portuguese royal yacht Amelie, having on board the King, the Queen Mother, the Dowager Queen, and the Duke of Oporto, entered this harbor at 11 o'clock this evening.

Shortly afterward the King and the Queen Mother came ashore and drove to the Summer residence of the Governor General, Sir Frederick Forestier-Walker, at Europa Point.

Judging from the appearance of the crew which manned the Amelie, they were brought together hurriedly.

TURIN, Oct. 6.—Princess Clotilde has offered to her sister, Dowager Queen Maria Pia of Portugal, grandmother of King Manuel, the hospitality of her castle at Moncalieri, four miles from Turin, where in October will be celebrated the marriage of Victor Napoleon, the eldest son of the Princess, and Princess Clementine of Belgium.

COLOGNE, Oct. 6.—Queen Mother Amelie of Portugal, according to banking information here, had transferred large sums of money abroad in anticipation of the revolution.

The transfers were largely to England, but some were to Continental capitals.

NAPLES, Oct. 6.—The Italian battleship Regina Elena left here to-night for Cadiz, where she will receive cable instructions to proceed wherever it may be necessary in order to take on board the Dowager Queen Maria Pia of Portugal.

TERRIBLE SCENES IN LISBON.

Municipal Guards Surrendered After a Heroic Defense.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Friday, Oct. 7.—A telegram to The Daily Mail from Lisbon, dated Wednesday, says:

"The first sign of the revolt was the presence of rioters parading the streets on Monday night and exciting the populace by versions of the assassination of the Republican member for Lisbon, Dr. Bombarda. Early on Tuesday morning the rioters, evidently by a prearranged plan, fired their signal outside the barracks of the Sixteenth Regiment of infantry.

"Then the trouble began. The soldiers, murdering their Captain, Celestino Costa, burst into the armory and distributed arms to the people. They sallied out with the First Artillery, which joined the revolt. Afterward the soldiers signaled the news.

"At the same time men in motor cars attacked the arsenal with bombs. The effort to gain entrance was repelled, but several guards were killed.

"A general alarm was given, and troops filled the streets, concentrating in the square. There was the greatest difficulty in maintaining communications. The streets were impassable, Municipal Guards, then loyal to the throne, forbidding all traffic. Trains ceased to run, for the lines were cut by the Republicans, who were most thorough in the measures they took.

"I began writing this at dawn on Wednesday. There had been a terrifying cannonade all night long, and it was increasing in violence. Artillery from Santarem, forty-five miles away, had arrived and joined the Republicans. An attack was being made on the Carmo convent, a stronghold of the Municipal Guards. Shrapnel and bullets were falling like hail around the windows, smashing the glass.

"As I wrote Municipal Guards under the windows of the office of the Mundo, a Republican newspaper, had just been shot dead. Ambulances were full of dead and constantly passing. The Red [illegible] was hoisted all over the town, [illegible] the newspaper offices. The [illegible] deserted except for troops. The bakeries had been raided by soldiers for bread.

"Now I am informed that the hitherto loyalist troops have hoisted the white flag and have surrendered to the Republicans. The Municipal Guards, who were absolutely heroic in their defense, have also surrendered."

Thousands Still Loyal.

LISBON, Oct. 6.—While the city of Lisbon is in the hands of the Revolutionists and a republic has been proclaimed, with Theophile Braga as Provisional President, and other prominent Republican constituting the Ministry, there are many thousands in and around the capital who are loyal to the monarchy.

The Monarchists include a portion of the Lisbon troops and troops massed in entrenched camps about the city. These have refused so far to ally themselves with the Revolutionists, and the Provisional Government is taking steps to enforce allegiance.

The people of Lisbon are ignorant of events in the provinces, and it is therefore not known whether the movement is broad enough to sweep the country. Nevertheless the Republicans are proceeding as though the transformation of Portugal into a republic were an accomplished fact, to stand for all time.

For months past preparations had been going on for the overthrow of the King, and it had been definitely arranged to raise the cry of revolt yesterday. It so happened that the King was about to take up his residence at Cascaes, and the warships were ordered to proceed there. The navy, which is the chief support of the Revolutionists, thereupon decided to act immediately; otherwise it would be able to offer no resistance in carrying out the plan.

On Monday at midnight the Republican chiefs, accompanied by numerous partisans, went to the barracks of the Sixteenth Regiment of Infantry. The doors were immediately thrown open to the populace, and arms were distributed to thousands. The barracks of the First Regiment of Artillery were next visited, and the guns dragged forth. The Revolutionists marched to the highest point in Lisbon, a fine strategical position, where artillery was mounted, threatening the town.

The Governmental troops immediately took up a position in the centre of the town, about two miles distant from the Revolutionists, and heavy guns and Maxims were placed in position to oppose the Republicans. Meanwhile the insurgent cruiser Adamaslor steamed up in front of Lisbon, ready for a bombardment, while the cruiser Rafael proceeded down the river, taking her station opposite the seamen's barracks, the inmates of which had joined the revolt.

The cannonading commenced, and the whole town trembled to its foundations. A regiment of Municipal Cavalry made a brilliant charge in an endeavor to take the insurgents' encampment near the railway, but was met with a terrible fire from the artillery.

This regiment was almost completely annihilated, only three men escaping.

Rebels Showed Great Courage.

The revolutionists showed extraordinary courage and sustained an attack on all sides by superior forces for two days and nights.

On Tuesday the Adamaslor shelled the Necessidades Palace, and King Manuel and Queen Mother Amelie were forced to escape to Cascaes, from which place they went to Mafra.

The same night the Adamaslor and Rafael shelled the centre of the town, doing much execution among the Monarchist forces, and finally the latter, tired of the carnage, surrendered.

The republic was proclaimed in the afternoon and the Republican flag was hoisted on the public edifices.

The Provisional Government has issued a communication to the foreign powers notifying them of the proclamation of the Portuguese Republic. The Government has already appointed Civil Governors for the different provinces.

The Brazilian President-elect, Marshal Hermes da Fonseca, motored through the streets to-day with the Provisional President. Both were enthusiastically greeted by the people.

Order has been restored throughout the greater part of the city and patrols are guarding the thoroughfares.

The English cruiser Minerva arrived here to-day to reinforce the cruiser Newcastle, which reached this port while the fighting was still in progress. After receiving notification of the establishment of a new government at Lisbon the British Minister, Sir Francis Villiers, requested an audience of Foreign Minister Machado.

Teixeira de Sousa, Premier in the late Cabinet, and Manuel Fratel, the Minister of Justice, have relinquished the direction of affairs of State to Provisional President Braga and his associates.

Last night attacks were made by revolutionists upon the houses of prominent Royalists, including J. Luciano de Castro, ex-Premier and leader of the Progressives, but representatives of the Provisional Government soon quieted the popular excitement.

PROCLAIMED AT OPORTO.

Republic Also Announced in Other Portuguese Cities.

MADRID, Oct. 6.—News has been received that the Republic of Portugal was proclaimed to-day at Oporto, Estremoz, Selva, Braga, Coimbra, and other places, and that the indications are that the struggle is reaching an end.

The Prefect of Badajo Province has communicated the republican proclamation to the Spanish officials.

The garrisons of Elvas and Setubal, it is reported, remain loyal, but will not combat the revolution.

AMERICA NOT YET NOTIFIED.

No Communication from the Provisional Portuguese Government.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 6.—The State Department to-day received only one despatch on the Portuguese situation, that being a belated message from Minister Gage, whose advices had previously been fully covered by press despatches. Even Viscount de Alte, the Portuguese Minister, who has secluded himself since Tuesday, did not get into touch with the Department.

This Government has as yet received no communication from the Portuguese Provisional Government. When the time comes to recognize it, or to refuse to recognize it, there are ample precedents to govern the American course. Premature recognition has to be guarded against for it constitutes intervention.

Under a clearly recognized international principle, the new Government must be bound by engagements entered into by the old Government. A monarchy may be changed into a republic, and vice versa, but the nation, under the principle of the continuity of the states, remains with its rights and obligations unchanged.

King Manuel was the recipient of a warm message of sympathy from the United States when his father was assassinated. Congress passed reolution of condolence, and President Roosevelt cabled to King Manuel that "the American people feel a peculiar bond of sympathy with the royal family of Portugal in their great affliction." American Minister Bryan later advised this Government that the sympathetic action at Washington "had a very happy effect" at Lisbon.

There is considerable speculation among officials here as to what effect the revolution in Portugal will have on conditions in other monarchical countries, particularly Spain.

SPAIN IS NEUTRAL TOWARD PORTUGAL

Canalejas Says He Does Not Regard the Proclamation of a Republic as Decisive.

FRANCE SENDS A CRUISER

Paris Hears That the Spanish and Portuguese Republicans Planned a Simultaneous Outbreak.

MADRID, Oct. 6.—After a meeting of the Cabinet this afternoon, which was presided over by the King, Premier Canalejas announced in the Chamber that Spain's attitude toward events in Portugal would be the same as that of the other powers.

Señor Azcarate, First Vice President of the Chamber of Deputies, a Republican, made an impassioned speech, declaring that he assumed that the Spanish Government would observe the strictest neutrality in the change of Administration in Portugal, for Spain, more than any other nation, was obliged to remain neutral.

He asked the Government to explain unequivocally the meaning of the dispatch of troops to the frontier, and of three warships to Lisbon. He vigorously protested, in the name of the Spanish Republicans, that they were not permitted to manifest sympathy toward their Portuguese brethren. He said he was filled wih admiration for the Portuguese movement.

Señor Azcarate concluded with a eulogy of Senhor Machado and the other members of the Provisional Government.

Premier Canalejas declared in reply that the Government's advices from Lisbon were so contradictory that it did not consider the proclamation of a republic as a definitive fact. He added that there were persistent rumors that fighting had been resumed at Lisbon, where the Monarchist troops had received reinforcements.

"What is certain," said the Premier, "is that the Spanish Government has received no news of a change of régime from any person occupying an official position in a definitive Provisional Government. We can then only consider the events in Portugal as an insurrectionary movement, the result of which as yet is not known. For, as matters stand, it is impossible for us to recognize a Provisional Government, but, if the new régime is definitive and establishes itself we will recognize it."

After further reference to conditions in Portugal the Premier added:

"We have sent two warships to the Tagus to protect, if necessary, Spanish subjects and to watch events, although our diplomatic representatives have not yet transmitted to us any official news. We have not accumulated troops on the frontier, but have given instructions to those garrisoned there in case of eventualities."

The Spanish cruisers Princesa de Asturias and Emperador Carlos V. sailed from Almeria for Lisbon at 3 o'clock this morning.

The Spanish royal yacht Giralda has anchored off Ferrol.

VALENCIA, Oct. 6.—Marked uneasiness is felt here, owing to the proclamation of a republic in Portugal. To-day civil guards patrolled the streets and a strong contingent was held in front of the quarters of the Republican Club.

The Governor of Valencia ordered the removal of Republican flags, which had been suspended from the windows of many Republican and similar organizations.

Troops are held in readiness for any emergency.

BARCELONA, Oct. 6.—Numerous bands of Radicals paraded the streets to-day until the police intervened and dispersed them.

BREST, Oct. 6.—The Minister of Marine has ordered the cruiser Amiral Aube to proceed to Lisbon.

PARIS, Oct. 6.—Dispatches from San Sebastian say that the Spanish Government had been aware for some time that the Spanish Republicans were plotting with the Portuguese Republicans for a simultaneous outbreak in both countries. Oct. 13, the anniversary of Ferrer's execution, was the date tentatively chosen for the combined effort.

But the Spanish plotters, after canvassing the situation thoroughly, realized that they had little chance of success. Their efforts to win over officers of the army are said to have resulted in failure, while Gen. Weyler plainly intimated that any attempt at revolution would be mercilessly put down.

Nevertheless, many Spaniards are convinced that the success of the Republicans in Portugal means a similar outbreak in Spain, with the probability of a counter-revolutionary movement on the part of the Carlists in the North.

VATICAN STILL HOPEFUL.

Believes Last Word on the Braganza Dynasty Not Yet Spoken.

ROME, Oct. 6.—Although the Papal Nuncio at Lisbon has not yet been able to communicate to the Vatican his opinion concerning the revolutionary movement, the view is held at the Vatican that the last word on the Braganza dynasty has not been said.

The fact that the navy has gone over to the side of the revolutionary element is not considered of great importance, as bearing upon the permanency of the so-called republic, while it is also pointed out that the provinces and the garrisons outside Lisbon may yet have some influence in a definite settlement.

Hope is expressed at the Vatican that the events in Portugal may prove a lesson to Spain, where, according to the Church authorities, King Alfonso is making the same mistake as King Manuel of relying on the Progressive elements, which are unfaithful, while at the same time he is alienating the loyalty of the Conservative Catholics.

ORLEANS IS INDIGNANT.

Declares the Portuguese Plot Was Prepared by Masonry.

PARIS, Oct. 6.—The Correspondence Nationale, an official agency, publishes a manifesto just issued by the Duke of Orleans, brother of Queen Amelie of Portugal. It is as follows:

"Will Portugal, one of the countries most divided against itself—a country, consequently, where monarchy stands forth as a necessary condition for social peace and public safety—will Portugal try the experiment of republican anarchy?

"With emotion our thoughts go out to the royal palace bombarded by rioters, where reigned a prince who was almost a child, and a sovereign, a daughter of France, generous, kindly, heroic. A blow at these sacred heads covers the people of Portugal with infamy.

"But all is to be feared from a plot prepared by Masonry and executed by men, whose hands already are dripping with blood. Kind God, save Amelie and Manuel!"

MACHADO ONCE A VISCOUNT.

He Had a Title When Minister at Washington and Lost It.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 6.—The Cabinet of the new Portuguese Republic is being discussed with interest by attachés of the State Department and members of the Diplomatic Corps, and none of the Ministers comes in for more comment than Bernadino Machado, head of the Department of Foreign Affairs.

Twelve years ago Senhor Machado was Portuguese Minister in Washington, and was then called Viscount De Santo Thyrso. When he left Washington a few days after the death of President McKinley he returned to Portugal and [illegible] afterward returned his title to the Pope, from whom he had obtained it.

When he was made Minister to the United States he scanned the diplomatic list at Washington and felt the need of a title. The only place where real titles of the full sounding sort are to be obtained is Rome, so to Rome Senhor Machado applied. He explained to the Papal Secretary of State that he wanted a title in keeping with the dignity of a Minister. The Papal Secretary agreed to let him have one. So Senhor Machado became Viscount De Santo Thyrso.

Not long after the Minister's arrival in the American capital President McKinley was assassinated in Buffalo. As a zealous news gatherer for his King, the Viscount watched the newspapers closely. Twenty-four hours before the President died some of the more sensational newspapers printed "extras," saying that the end had come. The Viscount did not wait for verification of the reports. He acted at once, cabling Lisbon that the President was dead. Lisbon, being quite as enterprising as its representative, hastened to cable condolences to the State Department.

It would be difficult to imagine a more terrible diplomatic "break." As soon as the Foreign Office at Lisbon learned that the Viscount had beat the entire world by twelve or fourteen hours in sending out the news of Mr. McKinley's death the Minister was recalled.

After the Viscount returned to Portugal he opened negotiations with the Papal Secretary and returned the title.

END OF ANCIENT DYNASTY.

Braganzas One of the Oldest Houses of Europe.

If the Portuguese Republic is not overthrown by a Loyalist counter-revolution one of the most ancient royal houses in Europe will have ceased to be a reigning dynasty.

The House of Braganza dates from the end of the fourteenth century, at which time Affonso, an illegitimate son of King João, or John I., was created by his father Count of Barcellos and Lord of Guimaraes. Later King Affonso V. made him Duke of Braganza. This was in 1442.

When the old line of Portuguese Kings of the House of Avis became extinct by the death of King Sebastian and of his successor, Cardinal Henrique, Philip II. of Spain became King of Portugal in virtue of his descent from a Portuguese Princess. After sixty years of union with Spain the people of Portugal became tired of the arrangement and started a revolution. They proclaimed as their King Dom João, the then Duke of Braganza, he being the nearest Portuguese heir to the throne. The revolution was successful, and the Duke ascended the throne with the title of João IV. Portuguese historians call him "The Restorer."

From this monarch the ruler of Portugal who has just been deposed is descended. Queen Maria II., by her marriage with a Prince of Coburg-Gotha, Fernando, Duke of Saxe, united the House of Braganza with that of the Teutonic sovereigns. Manuel II. was the fourth sovereign of Portugal of the line of Braganza-Coburg.

The Portuguese Crown is hereditary in the female as well as the male line, with preference for the male in case of equal birthright. While the deposed King Manuel is a descendant of "The Restorer," he is so only by the female line, while the Portuguese Pretender, Miguel, Duke of Braganza, who was born in 1853, is a direct descendant of Dom Miguel I. in the male line.

PRETENDER KEEPING QUIET.

Dom Miguel Says He Does Not Believe the Republic Will Last.

MUNICH, Oct. 6.—Dom Miguel of Braganza, Pretender to the Portuguese throne, has no intention of taking a hand in affairs at Lisbon at present. He said to-day that he did not believe the Republic would endure.

The revolution, he said, was not so much the work of Republicans as the outcome of six months' plotting by Conservatives, who were dissatisfied with the Liberal Ministry.

The Pretender is hunting with his brother-in-law, Prince von Löwenstein Wertheim, in Bavaria, but is keeping himself informed of events in the Portuguese capital.

PORTUGAL'S RICH COLONIES.

Germany and Great Britain Not Long Ago Had a Plan to Divide Them.

BERLIN, Oct. 6.—The fate of the Portuguese colonies is a matter of serious comment among diplomatists here.

When Portugal was in great political and financial difficulties in 1897 and 1898 the German and British Governments discussed the eventuality of Portugal being unable to keep a secure hold upon her colonial possessions. It was the plan of the late Cecil Rhodes that the Portuguese colonies should be divided between Great Britain and Germany. Mr. Rhodes talked on the subject with Emperor William, and shortly afterward the text of a so-called secret convention was published. This provided that Great Britain should take over the East African and Germany the West African colonies of Portugal should circumstances arise rendering Portugal unable any longer securely to govern them.

At that time both London and Berlin issued official denials of the existence of such a treaty, but those well informed know that such an arrangement was considered, and they believe that the matter may be reopened if the disorders in Portugal are prolonged.

The colonies which still belong to Portugal, at one time one of the great exploring and colonizing nations of the world, are a good deal more extensive and important than is generally supposed. They are situated in Africa and Asia. In and off Africa there are the Cape Verde Islands, Portuguese Guinea, Prince's and St. Thomas's Islands, Angola, and Portuguese East Africa. In Asia Portugal possesses Goa, Damao, and Diu in India; Timor and other islands in the Indian Archipelago, and Macao and other possessions in China.

Both in population and extent Portugal's largest colony is Angola, West Africa, which contains nearly 485,000 square miles and has a population of more than 4,000,000. Next in size and population is Portuguese East Africa, with a square mileage of 293,400 and a population of more than 3,000,000. Goa consists of about 1,500 square miles and has about half a million inhabitants, while the Portuguese islands in the Indian Archipelago have 300,000 population and measure more than 7,000 square miles. Macao, a tiny settlement in China, has a population of more than 60,000.

Politically, the most important Portuguese colonial possession is probably that in East Africa, owing to its contiguity to British and German territories and the fact that it provides an outlet to the sea for the Transvaal. For some time previous to the South African war the Boers imported large quantities of armaments through the port of Lorenzo Marques, the capital of the province. Lorenzo Marques is one of the terminals of the Delagoa Bay Railway, the other terminal being Pretoria, 290 miles away. Afterward, however, the British came to an understanding with Portugal, and Lorenzo Marques, no longer available for use by the Boers, was of great assistance to the English.

Much of the Portuguese territory in Asia and Africa is rich in undeveloped mineral and other resources.

CHEAPER OIL FOR EXPORT.

The Standard Reduces the Price Ten Points for South America.

Reductions of 10 points in the price of refined petroleum were said yesterday by a representative of the Standard Oil Company to apply only to oil which is being exported to South America. The cut in oil prices, he said, actually became effective in August, and had no connection with the struggle for control of the European markets. Most of the oil sent to South America is of lower grade than that sold in this country.

No reductions in the domestic prices of petroleum have been made by the Standard Oil Company.

HEARST LEAGUE IS WAITING.

Its State Ticket Will Be Settled on Leader's Arrival To-day.

Following their tumultuous Cooper Union Convention of Wednesday night, when John J. Hopper was nominated on the Independence League ticket for Governor and William R. Hearst for Lieutenant Governor, the leaders of the party marked time yesterday and will make no further effort to complete their ticket until to-night, when the convention will reassemble at the Park Avenue Hotel.

Mr. Hearst is due to reach New York this morning on the Mauretania. He will be met by some of his followers and immediately go into conference with them. What his intentions are regarding the ticket no one was bold enough to prophesy yesterday. It is well known that Mr. Hearst did not desire to put an Independence League ticket in the field but had counseled indorsement of the Republican ticket. The question asked most freely in all political camps yesterday was whether he would refuse to run as Lieutenant Governor on his own ticket.

Many League delegates who remained about the Park Avenue Hotel all day discussed a rumor that Mr. Hearst would ask Mr. Hopper to resign and thus make it possible for the Independence League leader to carry out his original intention of having Henry L. Stimson, the Republican gubernatorial candidate, head the ticket. Many of the delegates openly denounced the plan and said that if Mr. Hearst carried out any such plan they would bolt the ticket.

FOR THE SUPREME COURT.

Republicans Expect to Name Justice Whitney—Democrats Favor Delany.

The Republican County Convention will meet at the Eldorado Casino this evening for the purpose of nominating a candidate for the Supreme Court bench to succeed Edgar B. Whitney, who was appointed by Gov. Hughes to fill the vacancy created by the resignation of Justice Henry A. Gildersleeve, and to nominate a Judge of the City Court to succeed Judge Francis B. Delehanty, whose term expires.

It was said at the headquarters of the Republican County Committee that Justice Whitney, though an independent Democrat, probably would be nominated. There is a movement afoot to make Judge Delehanty the nominee of both parties, but no decision has been reached as yet by the Republican leaders as to the nominee for the place on the City Court bench.

The Democratic County Convention will be held this evening, too, at Tammany Hall. The Democrats intend to nominate ex-Corporation Counsel John J. Delany for the Supreme Court and to renominate Judge Delehanty for the City Court.

FOR THE ASSEMBLY.

Republicans Nominate in Many Districts in This County.

Republican conventions were held last night for the nominations of Assemblymen in every district in New York County. In all Republican districts where nominations were made last night the members who served at the last session were renominated.

Many conventions were adjourned without making any nomination, indicating that although the Independence League disregarded the Republicans at its State Convention, the Republicans leaders still hoped that some working agreement might be reached whereby the League will indorse local Republican candidates in some districts.

Here is the list of nominations made last night:

STIMSON CAMPAIGN FUNDS HARD TO GET

Corporate Interests Can't Contribute Legally and Many Wouldn't if They Could.

FIGHT SOON ON IN EARNEST

Roosevelt and Stimson to Speak All Over the State—County Leaders Called Here.

The Republican leaders expect to encounter a good deal of difficulty in obtaining the sinews of war in this campaign. Under the present law the corporations which in past years have contributed so freely to the campaigns of both parties are prohibited from supplying money for campaign purposes to any political organization. Aside from this fact, the managers of the Republican campaign believe that this year the money from the interests that contributed to the Republican campaign funds when Democracy and radicalism went hand in hand will be more likely to give aid and comfort to the opposition in this Gubernatorial year.

Ezra P. Prentice, the newly elected Chairman of the Republican State Committee, said yesterday that he had received a few voluntary contributions, but that as yet no real effort had been made to raise a campaign fund.

"Of course we will need a good deal of money for campaign purposes and we hope for the best, but there should be no concealment of the fact that we expect to experience considerable difficulty in raising funds. We will have to depend on the rank and file of the party to a greater extent than ever and we hope there will be a generous response."

The opening gun in the speaking campaign in this city will be fired a week from to-day at a big ratification meeting to be held in Carnegie Hall under the auspices of the Republican Club. Seth Low will probably preside at this meeting with Henry L. Stimson, the gubernatorial nominee, the principal speaker. Mr. Prentice said last night that in all probability some of the other candidates would speak at this meeting as well.

The two big guns in the Republican campaign will be Col. Theodore Roosevelt and Mr. Stimson. As soon as the Colonel returns from his Southern trip he will be sent out on a two days' speaking tour through the northeastern counties, Clinton, Essex, Warren, St. Lawrence, and Franklin. On account of speaking dates he has in Boston on Oct. 21 and in New Hampshire the following day it will be necessary to cut up the speaking tour in this State to fit his other engagements.

Col. Roosevelt's trips will probably occupy two days at a time, distributed through various sections of the State. Two nights will be devoted to this city, one night in Manhattan and the Bronx, and another night to the outlying boroughs. On the eve of election Col. Roosevelt plans to make a redhot finish to the campaign, beginning in Buffalo and journeying east on the New York Central, with meetings in the larger cities and rear platform speeches wherever a crowd can be got together.

Mr. Stimson will be kept on the go constantly, beginning next week. It is planned to have both him and Col. Roosevelt visit as far as possible every point of importance in the State. The Republicans will make no attempt to dodge the issue if it is made that this is the Colonel's campaign.

To-day Mr. Stimson will meet all the Republican district leaders in this city at Republican State headquarters. Early next week he will confer with all the County Chairmen in the State. Mr. Prentice to-day sent letters broadcast summoning them here for the purpose of talking over conditions in the various localities where they are leaders, and planning for meetings and the campaign generally.

The Roosevelt-Old Guard feud has left considerable bitterness in many of the up-State counties, and one of the most important functions that will fall to the new State Chairman and the candidate for the leading place on the ticket will be to harmonize the factions.

Mr. Prentice had a conference yesterday with President Griscom of the Republican County Committee with reference to the local campaign. This will be continued as usual under the auspices of the County Committee. It is not likely that it will begin in earnest until after the four registration days, the last of which will be a week from next Monday.

Mr. Prentice said last night that he was looking about for a suitable headquarters for Mr. Stimson. It was thought better, he said, that the candidate should have a personal headquarters, as the room at the Republican State Headquarters in West Thirty-ninth Street will be needed for the routine work of the campaign.

The quest of a campaign treasurer has not yet resulted in the selection of any one for the job. Mr. Prentice said a selection would probably be made early next week.

HARMON ORDERS LAYLIN SUED

Seeks to Recover Money Due State from Ohio Republican Chairman.

Special to The New York Times.

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 4.—Gov. Harmon to-day instructed Attorney General Denman to file suit against Lewis C. Laylin, recently elected Chairman of the Republican State Executive Committee to succeed Wade H. Ellis, to recover money due the State as interest on deposits made by Laylin in Columbus banks during his term as Secretary of State.

The case against Laylin is based upon the recent settlement of the Capitol Trust Company of this city with the State Treasury. Ex-Auditor of State Walter D. Guilbert deposited checks received from corporations in that institution and permitted it to have the use of the money free of charge for months. The banks settled by paying about $5,000 and a claim against the Merchants and Manufacturers Bank for $30,000 is still pending. The Howe Senatorial Committee found that Laylin had been maintaining a monthly balance in Columbus banks of $50,346 for about six years. At 2½ per cent. the average amount paid for deposits, he would be liable for $7,552, while at the legal rate of 6 per cent. the amount would be $18,124.78.

Suit will also be brought against Secretary of State Carmi A. Thompson, a member of the Republican State Executive Committee and a prominent candidate for the nomination of Governor at the recent Republican State Convention, to recover money similarly due.

Physicians to Royalty Endorse the Sovereign Food Tonic

Late King Edward's Physician

Dr. Ernest Ott, Marienbad: "I have been using Sanatogen for a number of years in my practice with excellent results. These results have been notably good in the case of elderly people when it was desirable to build up the strength, to stimulate the bodily functions, and to improve the circulation of the blood."

The Czar of Russia's Private Physician

Dr. Ferchmin: "My daughter, who was very nervous and anaemic, has been greatly benefitted by the prolonged use of Sanatogen. Her appetite improved, her weight increased, and the color of her skin became healthier."

The King of Italy's Physician

Dr. G. Quirico: "I have used Sanatogen with marked benefit in the case of weakly children, and in convalescence after long illnesses. I consider Sanatogen a most excellent tonic food."

HEALTH of the monarch is of national—even universal—importance. His care is one of the nation's heaviest responsibilities. His medical adviser is always a man of highest scientific attainments and strictest integrity, who endorses only those preparations which beyond a shadow of doubt are safe and beneficial.

Here is the written opinion of the physicians to six of Europe's most influential rulers upon that wonderful brain and body revitalizer—

Sanatogen
THE FOOD-TONIC

These eminent authorities endorse Sanatogen because their investigations have satisfied them that it is the scientific and worthy preparation for tired, worn-out nerves and debilitated, overworked bodies—a wonderful source of strength and endurance. And their endorsement but voices the sentiments of more than 12,000 practising physicians the world over. Such proofs must be conclusive that Sanatogen is the logical food tonic for you.

The King of Saxony's Private Physician

Surgeon General Prof. Dr. Tillmanns: "I am, and shall always be, a great admirer of Sanatogen."

The Late Emperor Frederic's Private Physician

Professor Tobold, M.D.: "My experience points to the fact that patients suffering from nervous exhaustion after influenza, a common occurrence, and who present the troublesome symptoms of neurasthenia, by using Sanatogen, in a comparatively short time regain strength and vitality."

Emperor of Austria's Private Physician

Surgeon General Dr. Kerzl, of Vienna: "I have been using Sanatogen with splendid results and recommend it continually and everywhere because I am thoroughly convinced that it is an excellent food-tonic."

W. S. HUPPUCH NAMED AS DIX'S SUCCESSOR

Democratic Candidate's Business Associate Is New Chairman of the State Committee.

PLANS A VIGOROUS CAMPAIGN

Along Conservative Lines — Public Tired of Wild West Methods, He Says—Leaders in Harmony.

It took just eleven minutes yesterday afternoon for the Democratic State Committee to elect a new Chairman and to reelect its other officers. Winfield S. Huppuch, a business man of Hudson Falls, Washington County, was elected Chairman in place of John A. Dix who resigned when nominated by the Democratic Convention at Rochester last week for Governor. Mr. Huppuch was the unanimous choice of the committee and Mr. Dix said he was well pleased with the selection.

There was an unmistakable air of harmony and confidence among the members of the State committee when they met shortly before 1 o'clock on the roof garden of the Hoffman House. There was a full attendance and no signs of any disagreement. Charles F. Murphy, leader of Tammany Hall, who was instrumental in deposing William J. Conners as State Chairman, sat beside Mr. Conners, and William H. Fitzpatrick, who defeated Conners as boss of Erie County, chatted pleasantly with his old enemy. The impression was universal that a good clean candidate had been named for Governor and that everyone intended to forget cast differences and get out and hustle for the success of the ticket.

It had been agreed the day before to give the State Chairmanship to Charles E. Treman of Ithaca but at the last moment Mr. Treman's physician objected to the plan on account of Mr. Treman's ill health, so another up-State man was picked out. George E. Van Kennan nominated Mr. Huppuch.

"The platform framed at Rochester," said Mr. Van Kennan, "is the strongest one the Democrats of this State have had in many years. The Rochester Convention also nominated an able, fearless and independent candidate. He was nominated by the united Democracy of the entire State of New York. The influences which brought about his nomination were simply the fact that the people of the State require tranquillity in business affairs. They want to be let alone. They have had enough of reckless agitators.

"Our candidate is able, clean and progressive. Now we should go further and nominate for Chairman of the State Committee a business man, one who is in thorough sympathy with the business interests of the State. I therefore nominate W. S. Huppuch of Hudson Falls."

William H. Fitzpatrick of Buffalo seconded the nomination and the election was made unanimous. Mr. Huppuch, who is a typical business man in appearance, plain-spoken, with a habit of going straight to the core of a proposition, was escorted to the platform and made a short, terse speech of acceptance.

"I think the up-State Democrats will appreciate the selection of an up-State Chairman," he said. "It will be my aim to conduct this campaign in such a manner as to give the people a business campaign along conservative lines, just the kind of a business administration your candidate will give when he is elected. I think it is about time the people of New York thought about getting a business administration when a Republican United States Senator makes the statement that $300,000,000 a year could be saved in running the affairs of the country. It is time we got back to a business administration.

"The first and foremost duty of every Democrat in the State during this campaign is to restore confidence in business. It is time to do away with this Wild West method of campaigning that is being made. I'll try and show you that you did not make a mistake in selecting me for your State Chairman."

Charles H. Glavin of Saratoga County was then elected to fill Mr. Huppuch's place on the committee. The other vacancy from the Onondaga district has not yet been filled, the committee appointed to investigate the claims of two rival candidates not having yet reported. Arthur A. McLean of Orange County was reelected Treasurer of the committee; John A. Mason, Secretary, and Charles White, Sergeant at Arms. Secretary Mason then announced that the usual assessment of $200 would be made upon each member for campaign expenses, and the committee adjourned.

Winfield A. Huppuch was born in Buffalo 47 years ago. He was educated in the Buffalo public schools and a business college there, and early in life moved with his family to Sandy Hill, now known as Hudson Falls, where since young manhood he has been one of the leading business men of that section of Washington County. He was married in 1884, and has two sons, one 21 and the other 24 years old. He is co-Director with Candidate Dix in at least eight business firms, and has long been a close personal friend of Mr. Dix. He is First Vice President of the Standard Wall Paper Company of Hudson Falls, Vice President of the Iroquois Pulp and Paper Company of Thompson, N. Y.; President of the Decorative Company of Saratoga, President of the Standard Textile Company of Glens Falls, Vice President of the Albany Securities Company, Vice President of the People's National Bank of Hudson Falls, Vice President of the Glens Falls Trust Company, President of the Quiatchouan Paper Company of Hudson Falls, Vice President of the Masonic Temple Association of Hudson Falls, and a Director of the Adirondack Trust Company of Saratoga.

"I am going to start right in and make a vigorous campaign," said Mr. Huppuch after the committee meeting. "I will go back home to-night and return here on Monday. In the meantime our campaign plans will be completed."

"I am well pleased with the selection of Mr. Huppuch for State Chairman," said Mr. Dix. "He is just the type of a business man we need. The names of several good up-State men were considered, but the choice finally fell upon Mr. Huppuch, whom I have known many years, and the committee will have nothing to regret in his selection."

STIMSON SPEAKS AT UP-STATE FAIR

Republican Candidate at Fonda Declares He's of Country Stock Though City Born.

OWNS REAL FARM, HE SAYS

First Speech Outside of New York City Non-Political—He Says at Kingston He's Progressive.

Special to The New York Times.

FONDA, N. Y., Oct. 6.—Henry Lewis Stimson, Republican nominee for Governor, was the guest of the Montgomery County Agricultural Society this afternoon at its sixty-ninth annual exhibition, and several thousand people gathered at the fair grounds here to hear his first speech up-State. He arrived on a special car attached to the westbound train due here at 1:40 and was conveyed to the fair grounds in an automobile and spent a short time inspecting the exhibits.

Mr. Stimson, who was introduced by Karl Isburgh, Republican nominee for Assemblyman from Montgomery County, told his auditors that although a New York City man by birth he had come from up-State stock.

"My great-great-grandfather's," he said, "was one of the first families that moved into Windom, Greene County, and the farm is still in possession of the family.

"The country boy can go back to the associations of boyhood," said the speaker, "while in the case of the average city boy he has nothing left to remind him of his earlier days. I felt this so keenly that as soon as I was in position to do it I moved back to the country on a farm in the township of Huntington, Suffolk County. It's a real farm, five miles from the nearest town, and if it wasn't for the rural delivery we would be practically isolated. I remember the distinction which Gov. Hill once pointed out at a fair between the farmer and the agriculturist. The farmer gets his income out of the land and the agriculturist puts his income into it. I am afraid if the distinction was applied to me I would have to qualify in the second class."

He called attention to the growing importance throughout the country of the movement back to the farm and to the efforts which are being made to make farm life attractive.

Mr. Stimson will return to New York to-night. He plans to stop off at Albany to bid good-bye to Gov. Hughes, whose administration ends to-day.

KINGSTON, N. Y., Oct. 6.—Henry L. Stimson, Republican candidate for Governor, on his way to Fonda to-day, said: "The issue is clearly drawn. The Republican Party nominated a progressive ticket, with progressive candidates, on a progressive platform. The choice lies between the progressives and the reactionary party."

Asked what effect he considered the Independence League and its platform and nominees would have upon the other parties and their nominees, Mr. Stimson replied: "I am a Republican."

ALBANY, N. Y., Oct. 6.—Albany received a brief visit to-day from Henry L. Stimson, Republican nominee for Governor, who stopped here on his way from Fonda to New York to bid good-bye to Gov. Hughes. He missed seeing the Governor, however, as the latter's train left the station a few minutes before Mr. Stimson arrived. Finding that Gov. Hughes had gone, Mr. Stimson at once resumed his journey. He expects to devote the rest of the week to conferences with Republican County Chairmen from various sections of the State at Republican State Headquarters in New York. His speechmaking itinerary, which is being arranged by Chairman Prentice and others at State Headquarters, probably will not begin before the middle of next week.

ROOSEVELT GOES SOUTH.

His Speeches in Insurgent Territory Will Be Watched Closely.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 6.—Col. Roosevelt left New York at 3:30 o'clock this afternoon on the Southern and Western trip that is to keep him out of the State until the evening of Oct. 14. For the next nine days the New York State campaign is to be left to itself so far as he is concerned, except for such collateral help as it may derive from some of his speeches.

In view of the outcry raised against him in the insurgent country because of the Taft and tariff indorsements of the Saratoga platform, the speeches in Indiana, where he is to devote an entire day to assisting Senator Beveridge, will no doubt attract the widest attention. It is a delicate situation which Col. Roosevelt will have to meet.

He faces the problem of making clear again the planks of his own platform, which he set forth on his last Western tour, without seeming to derogate from the force of the Saratoga declaration.

The Colonel was so much occupied with the New York convention and its work that he had no time to prepare any of the speeches for the present trip, which will add to the interest of what he shall say when he gets back to the debatable ground.

New York City again showed its carelessness about the comings and goings of the Colonel when he started on his trip to-day. He had spent some time in his office at The Outlook building in the morning, clearing up what work he could before going away. There was no crowd to see him depart, and at the station in Jersey City hardly any notice was taken of him when he boarded the private car Grassmere. Neither at North Philadelphia nor at West Philadelphia was there any demonstration on his account, but at Wilmington a small crowd had gathered at the station. The Colonel remained in his car, reading, most of the time during the run to Washington. The first speech is to be at Bristol, Tenn., to-morrow morning.

GUN EXPLOSION A MYSTERY.

Board Can't Determine Why 12-Inch Rifle Burst on Georgia.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 6.—The Board of Inquiry that investigated the bursting of the big twelve-inch fifty-ton gun on the battleship Georgia off the Virginia Capes on Sept. 22 finds that it is impossible to determine definitely the cause of the accident in its report to Acting Secretary of the Navy Winthrop.

The accident, the board said, is similar to those that have occurred before to this type of gun, a type that should be replaced soon. The board recommends that a sample of the powder charge used be sent to the proving ground at Indian Head for pressure test.

THE HUNDRED POINT MAN

An Advertisement by Elbert Hubbard

¶ Some time ago I wrote to a banking friend inquiring as to the responsibility of a certain person. The answer came back thus: "He is a hundred point man in everything and anything he undertakes." I read the telegram, then pinned it up over my desk where I could see it. That night it sort of stuck in my memory—I dreamed of it.

¶ A few days after I met this hundred point man. One thing that impressed me about him was his neat, quiet way of dressing. There was no fuss or muss about this man. He was straight, clean and clear. He reminded me of Hugh Chalmers.

¶ By the way, though Hugh Chalmers managed the largest cash register factory in the world, and is now managing the automobile works that bear his name, he has always found time to dress well.

¶ Hugh Chalmers' appearance is a business asset. He has met on equality the big business men of this country and of Europe. His genius for business management and his appearance were his cards of introduction.

¶ The young man who wishes to succeed in the business game should look well to his clothes and see that his clothes look well. Saks & Company specialize on dressing men of the Chalmers type. The young man who wishes to parallel the success of Chalmers should not forget the fact that Chalmers always chooses his clothes with care.

¶ Young New Yorkers intent on making good should consult Saks & Company. They know what you ought to wear and will give you advice gratis. Faith in yourself and Saks clothes spells success.

A Musical Instrument That Defies the Power of Description

Try for a moment and think how you would describe the most inspiring music you ever heard—whether it was some magnificent organ recital or a rare performance by some famous orchestra. You will appreciate then something of our present difficulty. For we have, to talk about, perhaps the greatest musical achievement of the age—an instrument of such wonderful musical powers as to dwarf the faculty of description.

The Aeolian Orchestrelle

Think of being able, after dinner at night, to go into your drawing room, sit down at an instrument, and—without the slightest knowledge of music — produce the most awe-inspiring classic ever composed.

Or, if it better suits your mood, render the full score of the delightful musical comedy you may have enjoyed the evening previous—playing it perhaps better than the orchestra played it.

Think of being able, by a slight movement of the hand, to command a flute or a cornet solo with violin accompaniment in true virtuoso style. And, at will, to swing in the full orchestration of a score of pieces—each one in rare harmony with its fellows.

Think of doing this yourself—interpreting the music as a master interprets—actually creating the most exquisite harmony known to mankind. All this, and more, is possible with The Aeolian Orchestrelle. For besides affording you personally — and every member of your family—the music which most appeals to you, it provides you with entertainment for your friends such as is rare indeed.

It makes available in your own home all the musical enjoyment for which you have had to seek outside. For which you have had to don evening clothes, after a hard business day, and mingle with crowded audiences.

It gives you a mastery of many instruments without a moment's time spent in study, where others have spent years in acquiring the same mastery over one.

And this creative power that The Aeolian Orchestrelle affords will mean to you greater pleasure — because it means more enduring pleasure—than would a steam-yacht, an automobile or any other means of enjoyment that is purchasable.

It is because we realize the limits of description that we urge you to visit Aeolian Hall and convince yourself.

An attractive model of The Aeolian Orchestrelle of about the same size as an Upright Piano, can be purchased for $400

There Is A Great Difference In Coffee

THAT is why some people believe all coffee to be harmful—the foundation of this impression is based on the use of the wrong coffee—coffee that is not properly roasted, not thoroughly cooked. The slightest difference in the roasting will change its entire character and effect. If over-cooked it is bitter and unpalatable, if under-cooked it is indigestible and lacking in flavor. It must be just right in every respect to be right for you.

WESTERN UNION CUTS SURPLUS $13,731,143

BAD BOOKKEEPING BLAMED

Failure to Set Aside Proper Reserves for Depreciation Is One of the Responsible Factors.

An audit of the books of the Western Union Telegraph Company undertaken by public accountants at the instance of the new management which took over control of the company's affairs from the Gould interests in the last year has resulted in a decision by the Executive Committee of the company, made known after a meeting yesterday, to cut down the surplus as previously reported by more than $13,731,143, which even after adding the surplus earnings of the past year leaves the company's surplus at $7,733,692 on June 30, 1910, compared with $18,867,461 on June 30, 1909. The public accountants found that the property of the company was overvalued in the balance sheet as issued in the report for 1909 and preceding years, and that proper reserves had not been set up for depreciation. These facts were embodied in a report made by Price, Waterhouse & Co. to a special Auditing Committee of the Western Union Directors, of which Edward J. Hall, Jacob H. Schiff, and Henry A. Bishop were members. This report was yesterday approved by the Executive Committee, which in a statement accompanying the report announced that "in accordance with the present policy of the company that as a public service corporation all its affairs be given the fullest possible publicity for the benefit of both stockholders and the general public," it had been ordered that the report be printed and a copy sent to every stockholder.

It was a matter of comment in the financial district yesterday that in advance of the publication of this report the stock of the company had been rapidly advancing in the open market. This advance while it was in progress last week gave ground for the surmise that the American Telephone and Telegraph Company, which in the last year acquired the Gould holdings of Western Union stock amounting, it was understood, to about 20 per cent. of the whole, was increasing its holdings. This was denied in Boston by President Vail of the American Company. At the Western Union offices after the issuance of the report of the Special Auditing Committee it was said that none of the officers of the company had anything further to say on the subject, and both officers who were retained from the old management and those who came to the company along with the new régime refused to comment on the report.

Beyond stating that serious defects had existed in the accounting organization of the company, the report of the special chartered accountants does not specifically lay any fault at the door of the old management of the company in respect to the conditions which they discovered existed in the accounts. On behalf of the present management of the company it was said unofficially that the new interests did not look upon the report as in any sense an indictment of the old management. Bookkeeping methods have improved, they said, and there were some old companies like the Western Union which had not kept up with the times in the matter of accounting methods. What this failure to keep up with improvement in "accounting methods" means to the stockholders of the Western Union Telegraph Company is indicated succinctly in the paragraph in the accountants' report which deals with the surplus account which sets forth the following reductions in the surplus of the company:

Reduction of the book value of telegraph lines and equipment to the estimated appraisal value.	$5,595,039
Liability to Gold and Stock Telegraph Company in respect of proceeds of sales of securities prior to June 30, 1909, understated in balance sheet on that date	2,219,874
Loss on revaluations of investments	1,709,545
Reserves required at June 30, 1909, for bad and doubtful accounts, &c., and for accrued liabilities	1,706,633
Reserves for depreciation of cables to date	2,000,000
Reserves for contingencies	500,000
Total	$13,731,143

These reductions cut the surplus down to $5,136,318, and to this was added the surplus net earnings of the past year, amounting to $2,597,373. The cost of telegraph lines and equipment carried on the company's books at $133,573,703 after revaluation by the engineering concern of Westinghouse, Church, Kerr & Co., were entered in the revised balance sheet prepared by the chartered accountants at $127,978,617. Real estate was credited in the new balance sheet at $5,908,445 compared with $5,009,192 in the old balance sheet, this item showing a change of about $800,000 in favor of the company. In addition to the charges made against surplus the accountants set up among liabilities an item of $12,382,901 for deferred non-interest-bearing liabilities in respect to sums realized on securities acquired in connection with leases of subsidiary companies, but this item is offset by increases in the value of security holdings entered among the assets of the company. Thus while the surplus is greatly reduced the aggregate assets and liabilities as stated in the new balance sheet are about $10,000,000 larger than in the old balance sheet.

Referring to the accounting system followed by the Western Union Company under the former Gould management the chartered accountants say in their report:

"In order that the serious defects in the accounting organization of the company may be remedied we have already reported generally on the outlines of the system which we would recommend. Many of our suggestions have already been adopted and others are in process of adoption. The work is necessarily slow, but good progress has been made and will continue to be made under our general supervision."

SUFFRAGISTS AND HEARST.

Mrs. Catt Says They Won't Form an Annex for His League.

The Woman Suffrage Party headquarters was besieged yesterday by interested members and friends who wanted to know if the organization, having received a plank in the State Independence League platform at its Wednesday meeting, was to attach itself to the party, become the "Woman's Party of Hearst Supporters," a "Woman's Independence League," or something of the kind.

Mrs. Chapman Catt, the Woman Suffrage Party head, says that nothing of the kind is going to happen. She issued a statement to this effect yesterday afternoon. The women are grateful to the league, she says.

"I do not consider that any political party has a claim on the services of the Woman Suffrage Party," says Mrs. Catt. "When one of the political parties has enfranchised the women of the State of New York it will be time enough to talk of the obligation of our women to that particular organization. The Woman Suffrage Party will not involve itself in partisanship yet. I do believe, though, that with the strengthening of our methods of work and growth in membership a more aggressive political policy will be adopted."

TRAIN TOSSES HER 60 FEET.

Woman Would Try to Pass Though Crossing Gates Were Down.

Mrs. Margaret Jeffrey, a widow 78 years old, of 191 Kosciusco Street, Brooklyn, was run down and killed by a train on the Atlantic Avenue Division of the Long Island Railroad at the Lefferts Avenue Crossing, Morris Park, yesterday afternoon. She had been in Richmond Hills and was going to the home of her son, Henry T. Jeffrey, a real estate dealer of 8605 Morris Park.

Although the safety gates were closed when Mrs. Jeffrey reached the crossing, she attempted to cross the tracks. The train tossed her sixty feet, breaking her

QUEENS DELEGATES BOLT.

Protest Against Judiciary Candidates Named at Democratic Convention.

With the delegates from Queens County protesting bitterly against Kings County "hogging it all," and threats being made to knife at the polls the candidacy of one of the men named, the Democratic Judiciary Convention of the Second District, held yesterday afternoon in the County Court House, Brooklyn, renominated Samuel T. Maddox and nominated Harrington Putnam and Patrick E. Callahan for Justices of the Supreme Court. All are Brooklyn men. Justice Maddox is a Republican and the others Democrats. Justice Putnam was appointed by Gov. Hughes to succeed Justice Gaynor. The Queens delegates, bolting the convention when the nominations had been made, declared that they would vote for Justice Garret J. Garretson, a Queens Republican who has been renominated by the Republicans.

The slate made up by County Leader McCooey of Kings and some of his lieutenants was put through after protest had been made against the programme. Before the convention, Joseph Cassidy, the Democratic boss of Queens, and Leaders McCooey, Lynch, Farrell, and Sinnott of Kings held a long conference. Cassidy argued for the selection of a Queens Democrat or for the nomination of Justice Garretson instead of Mr. Callahan. He pleaded in vain, however.

When the vote was announced Wallace E. J. Collins of Queens made an angry speech in which he characterized the Brooklyn leaders as bosses, declared that Kings had "as usual hogged everything," and asserted that the Queens Democrats would support Justice Garretson at the polls. The Queens delegates then walked out.

Mr. Callahan was born in Brooklyn forty-nine years ago. He was educated at St. Patrick's Academy and St. John's College, and studied law at the Columbia University Law School. He was admitted to the bar in 1883. In 1891 he was appointed as an Assistant District Attorney under District Attorney James W. Ridgway and served in that office for five years. For the last ten years he has been an Assistant Corporation Counsel in Brooklyn. He lives at 333 Eastern Parkway. Mr. Callahan is well known in Brooklyn as a campaign speaker.

TO DEBATE WITH WILSON.

George L. Record Accepts Jersey Democratic Candidate's Challege.

George L. Record of Jersey City, Republican candidate for Congress in the Ninth Jersey City District has sent to Dr. Woodrow Wilson a letter accepting Mr. Wilson's challenge to debate with any Republican candidate the issues of the New Jersey campaign.

His letter is based upon this phrase in Dr. Wilson's Trenton speech:

"I welcome any politician in the State to debate upon the public platform."

This is the letter:

> Oct. 5, 1910.
>
> Dr. Woodrow Wilson:
>
> Dear Sir: The newspapers announce that you have publicly challenged any politician in New Jersey to debate with you upon the public platform any question of public interest.
>
> I am keenly interested in public questions, and I hope I am enough of a politician to qualify under your challenge.
>
> At all events I accept your challenge and am willing to meet you in public discussion at any of your meetings or at such other time and place as you may suggest.
>
> Very truly yours,
> GEORGE L. RECORD.

Ex-Gov. Stokes intimated yesterday that he also may take up the cudgels for his party with the Princeton scholar, but he said that the most appropriate sponsor for the party in a joint discussion with Prof. Wilson is Vivian Lewis, the Republican candidate for Governor. Up to this time Mr. Lewis has given no sign of a willingness to measure swords with his antagonist.

COZIER QUITS WATER OFFICE.

Brooklyn Deputy Is Succeeded by F. T. Parsons, Former Queens Official.

Hearing that another man was slated for his place Deputy Water Commissioner William C. Cozier, in charge of the department in Brooklyn, sent his resignation yesterday to Commissioner Henry S. Thompson. Mr. Thompson appointed as Mr. Cozier's successor Frederick T. Parsons, Deputy Water Commissioner in Queens, who has become a resident of Brooklyn.

"There has been absolutely no friction between me and my chief," said Mr. Cozier. "I am leaving because I was informed in Manhattan yesterday that another man had been picked for my place. I did not wish to stand in his way."

The resignation was a surprise to Brooklyn politicians, as it was thought that Mr. Cozier, because of his excellent work there, was a fixture in the department. He intended to give up the office last December, but Mayor Gaynor is said to have requested him to continue in the place. He was appointed by Mayor McClellan in 1906. During his administration he has improved and extended the water works of Brooklyn, and that borough has had an ample supply of water.

Commissioner Thompson would only say that it was understood that when Mr. Cozier was held over this year he would be ready to leave the office whenever the Commissioner wanted him to, and that the idea of a change in Brooklyn had been discussed with the Mayor.

WIFE MADE HIM RICH, NOW HE'S LEFT HER

Policeman's Widow, Who Wed Again, Says Husband Beat Her After Two Years.

SHE ALLEGES DECEIT

Declares Lawyer Told Her Agreement to Separate Was Reconciliation with Man She Wed for a Companion.

Mrs. Adolphus W. Whitaker, 60 years old, who is suing her husband, David A. Whitaker, for separation on the ground of cruelty and desertion, filed yesterday one of the strangest affidavits which has been received in the Court House in recent years. Mrs. Whitaker is the widow of Detective Thomson, who was attached to Police Headquarters under Inspector Byrnes.

Supreme Court Justice Whitney, after reading Mrs. Whitaker's affidavit, signed an order for the arrest of Whitaker, who is a marine engineer. He appeared later at the Sheriff's office and filed a bond of $2,500 for his appearance at the trial.

Mrs. Whitaker married her present husband on Oct. 27, 1901. For two years thereafter, she said, Whitaker, who is now 57 years old, was a model husband. He lived with her in a house which she owned at 21 King Street. The most he ever gave her, she said, was $40 a month, out of which she had to run the house and dress and feed both him and herself. Mrs. Whitaker owns another house at 46 Barrow Street. From her house at 21 King Street she gets $55 a month rent for two apartments, and she gets $85 a month rent from her Barrow Street house. But the mortgage and other expenses eat up all of this income, she says.

From investments made with her money and by her direction Mrs. Whitaker says that her husband has amassed between $18,000 and $20,000. Notwithstanding that he makes a good income from his profession as marine engineer, he has kept all this money for himself, and now has it in his possession, she avers. One of the allegations on which she obtained her order of arrest was that she feared he was about to draw this money from the bank and flee the jurisdiction of the New York courts.

After two years of married life, Mrs. Whitaker said, her husband beat her cruelly. He told her, she said, that if she cared to follow him when he went out at night she might obtain the evidence on which to base a suit for divorce. But she says in her complaint:

> I silently bore all of these because of the fact that I was alone in the world and he was the only one I had. I have no children, all of my children having died. I have no brother, sister, father, or mother, no living relative in all the world, and so even with all of the cruelty and brutality I continued to live with the defendant, hoping against hope that he would reform.

Mrs. Whitaker lost a pension of $25 a month from the police fund by her second marriage, she said. What finally broke up her home, Mrs. Whitaker alleges, was an incident on April 1 last. On that day she had had ten teeth extracted. She suffered great pain, she said, and the dentist gave her a narcotic powder to apply to her gums. Her husband came home in the evening, bringing a pail of beer, and offered it to her as she was applying the powder to her gums. He noticed the powder and she threw it away. Then, the affidavit continues:

> That night my husband was pleasant with me and I recall distinctly that before he retired he kissed me, which was an unusual state of affairs. The following evening after supper I went to the home of a Miss Margaret Kennedy, who was sick with pneumonia, and upon my return to my amazement I found that my husband had taken his clothes and departed, and that he subsequently claimed that I had tried to poison him with the powder.

On April 23, Mrs. Whitaker says, she was induced by misrepresentation to call at the office of a lawyer named Hazelwood. She signed a paper which she thought was an agreement of reconciliation, but later learned was for a separation in consideration of $3 a week to be paid to her by her husband.

AS TO COLLIN INDORSEMENT

Justice Bischoff Ruled Favorably on a Parallel Case in 1902.

BINGHAMTON, N. Y., Oct. 6.—An attempt was made to-day to convince Broome County Republicans, including delegates to the recent State convention that a provision of the election law makes null and void the action of the Republican State Committee in endorsing the nomination of Frederick Collin of Elmira, the Democratic candidate for the Court of Appeals.

Section 136 of the election law prohibits any committee named to fill vacancies in a party ticket from naming the candidate of another party. The Democratic indorsement of Justice Vann having come from the Democratic Convention itself it entirely legal, but it is concluded that in view of this section the committee indorsement of Mr. Collin will not stand. An attempt may be made to keep the Secretary of State from putting the name on the ticket.

Secretary of State Koenig, while not prepared to pass officially upon the question until it had been brought to his attention was said last night to be at present of the opinion that the Republican indorsement of Mr. Collin is legal.

Lawyer Julius J. Frank of 52 William Street pointed out last night that the point raised by the opponents of Judge Collin's indorsement by the Republican State Committee was riddled in 1902 by Supreme Court Justice Bischoff, whose decision still stands. Justice Bischoff's opinion, rendered in the case of Gillespie against McDonough, supported the contention of Edward B. Whitney, himself now a Supreme Court Justice, whose argument—after he had given his services in the case, which another lawyer had virtually thrown up—really established the principle involved.

"The Prohibition Party Convention in 1902," said Mr. Frank, "had nominated a full State ticket with the exception of a candidate for Attorney General, and had authorized a committee to fill vacancies. The Democratic Convention nominated John Cunneen of Buffalo. Thereupon the Prohibition Committee nominated Cunneen. The Secretary of State, John T. McDonough, a Republican, refused to accept the nomination, holding that the section of the election law now cited by the opponents of Judge Collin made it illegal for a committee to place in nomination any one previously nominated by another party.

"C. C. Van Kirk, now a Supreme Court Justice in Washington County, argued in support of the Republican attitude when the Prohibition Party took the matter into the courts, but Justice Bischoff held that, as argued by Mr. Whitney, a nomination by a committee was as much an original nomination as one by a convention itself and that Cunneen's previous nomination by another party was immaterial.

"The result of this decision was that Cunneen was the only candidate on the Democratic ticket elected."

MILK PASTEURIZER EXPLODES

One Man Is Killed and Three Seriously Hurt at Pittsburg.

PITTSBURG, Oct. 6.—By the explosion of a pasteurizer in a milk depot here today Edward P. Simond was injured so badly he died to-night in a hospital, while three others are lying seriously hurt, but are expected to recover. The explosion blew out all the windows and several partitions in the building, a hundred other men working in the plant escaping.

Simond and the others in the hospital were badly scalded by steam, while Simond's legs were broken. The machine was shattered. The cause is unknown.

Mayor Gonzales Bets on Wilson.

Mayor George Gonzales, the first Republican Mayor of Hoboken in twenty-three years, bet $25 yesterday on the election of Dr. Woodrow Wilson, Democratic candidate for Governor of New Jersey. The other party to the wager was John Soferino, Sergeant at Arms of the District Court of Hoboken. Mayor Gonzales said he was confident of Dr. Wilson's election, and that he will work for it, believing that Dr. Wilson will overhaul the office of Prosecutor Garvin of Hudson County, with whom the Mayor has had difficulties repeatedly in the last two years.

Lots of Men Keep Coming Here
For Their Stetson Hats.

Drug clerk told proprietor he'd made a mistake—charged 10 cents instead of a dollar.

"Never mind," druggist said, "9 cents profit."

'Tisn't like that on Stetson Hats, however.

I don't make enough on one hat that I don't need to care whether a purchaser ever comes back.

As a matter of fact, I guess about six out of every ten who once buy of me keep coming, just as regularly as they want new hats.

The other four are probably visitors from Chicago or some place too far away to become regular customers.

But—perhaps unfortunately for me—no one needs to come back very soon or often—unless he wants a new hat just to keep in style—because a Stetson wears a long time.

And mighty seldom that any one ever comes back with a complaint—if he does he can always trade back for the money he paid or for a new hat.

My store in the Metropolitan Life Building is the only store in New York with a complete line of Stetsons always in stock—nothing but Stetsons—every style of hat Stetson makes. $3.50 to $12.

"We're Hungry

for adventure. We're only boys and girls, a little bit grown up, but still stirred by martial music, thrilled by fire horses, lured by tales of subtle intrigue and splendid daring. We're tired of reading reams of stuff we care little about to get a little we care a lot about. Give us some stories that grip. Give us a magazine of Adventure." And that's what we've done. Look at this.

LAMBASA, Oct. 4th.—This kingdom is in a ferment over the mystery surrounding the burial of King Maldio. In the middle of the impressive ceremony an unknown man, apparently an Englishman, broke through the guard and smashed the glass of the royal coffin, shouting—"The King is Alive." The man was seized and thrown into a dungeon, the ceremony abruptly stopped, and the company dismissed. Former Queen Horatia announced to-night that the king had been privately buried.

There is a story being whispered about that the dead king was later seen struggling to escape from the Queen's Guard in the court-yard of the prison where the mysterious foreigner is incarcerated. There are rumors that the king and the foreigner have both escaped and there are hints at poison plots, in which a certain royal lady is said to be not above suspicion.

SOUNDS like an adventure story doesn't it? It is. It's the beginning of "Can a Man be True?"—an adventure story that is the real, real thing. You'll read it, and keep reading it. In fact if you really want to get away from the hard grind of the daily mill, if you want to get 192 pages of stories that have "something doing all the time" you'll get a copy of The Ridgway Company's brand-new magazine

TEST NEW PROPELLERS FOR WELLMAN FLIER

Russian Devices Promise to Give Airship Greater Speed for Ocean Trip.

WILL DRIFT PART OF THE TIME

Aviators Count on the Wind to Permit Them to Rest and Clean the Engines.

Special to The New York Times.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Oct. 6.—Weather Director Moore's special bulletin to Walter Wellman to-day warned him that the high winds of the last week could be counted on to continue until Saturday at least, and that no suitable hour could be expected before then for launching the airship America, from which Marconi wireless messages will be sent to THE NEW YORK TIMES, The Chicago Record-Herald, and The London Daily Telegraph on her projected trip across the Atlantic Ocean.

The wind to-day was so strong that pleasure craft and fishing boats stayed at the inlet, and sea bathing was almost wholly abandoned. In the hangar of the America five members of the crew stood about throughout the day trying to find some task in which to engage. For the most part they failed, as the preliminary work is now completed.

Great interest was expressed by Mr. Wellman and Mr. Vaniman in the estimate of the proposed trip across the ocean reprinted from The Scientific American in this morning's issue of THE TIMES. Mr. Wellman said it was a fair statement of the problems and an unusually clear analysis of the situation to be met. He said that his only answer to the conclusion of The Scientific American's editor, that on the whole the trip was foolhardy, would have to come from what the America accomplishes.

Mr. Vaniman said that the editor was correct in concluding that the "equilibrator" hanging down from the airship to the ocean and making a drag weighing over a ton to be pulled along through the water was the most uncertain piece of equipment carried.

He admitted that in case of a severe storm, sweeping the America along at a rate from 50 to 75 miles an hour, this heavy drag might become a danger to the airship, and that in case of a rough sea it might whip about in such a way as to jerk the America off an even keel in the air.

"But I have tried to figure on all those things and prepare for them," Mr. Vaniman declared.

"I realize that as our equilibrator succeeds so do we, and that if this device fails the chances will be very heavy against us. If we lose the equilibrator altogether I should say our chances to succeed would become almost nothing. And for that reason more time has been spent on the problem of securing this device to the airship than on any other single item of preparation. It is attached from three centres, any one of which is strong enough to hold it. If it throws too much tension on any one of the points of attachmenet we can shift the stresses by the use of winches in the airship's car.

"And landsmen and seamen mustn't think that a ship is tossed about in the air by a storm as a vessel is at sea. We are part of the storm and ride with it. Therefore a wind cannot lash the heavy tail around in the air and cause it to give us any trouble. There is just one thing I fear, and that happened in Spitzbergen. It is that the tail will skim across a very rough sea at such a rate that it will jump from the top of one wave to another in rough water, failing to bend down for the wave valleys. In that case it will seriously jerk at the airship as it jumps from crest to crest. The tail used in the arctic weighed only a third as much as this one, and there it lashed about sometimes as would the tail of a very angry snake. But it had no effect on the airship itself.

"If in this case it begins to behave badly, we have a choice of two things to do. We can throw over gasoline, if the storm is carrying us on our natural course, and rise until the entire tail is hanging in the air. Then it is bound to hang on a perpendicular and give us no trouble. Or I could turn the pitch of the aft propellers upward until they would force the airship down toward the waves. In that way a much longer section of the tail would be thrown along the ocean and it would have to bend into the wave valleys as well as flip across their crests.

"If a severe storm should batter the gasoline tanks comprising the equilibrator until they began to leak, we wouldn't be serious losers, as we put in the gasoline merely because it was a better choice than carrying so much dead weight. The gasoline in the main tank will carry us across under normal conditions.

"If a storm drives us from behind we intend to shut out engines down, in which case we will turn sidewise to it and go along as a drifting balloon. We sailed beautifully at twenty miles an hour or more that way for a whole afternoon in the arctic. The bearings on one of our engines at least will need cleaning en route, and we count on drifting side on with the wind while the work is being done."

Mr. Vaniman gave the engines an hour's run this afternoon at full speed, the airship being held back under the 1,000-pound thrust of the propellers by a block and tackle. He said that the new propellers, which are a recent Russian invention, give three times the thrust yet attained in an aeroplane, and as they have never yet been tried out on the America, and are much larger than the old metal propellers they replace, they may give more speed aloft than the twenty-six miles estimated for them.

Many visitors were at the hangar today, most of them making their third or fourth call. While a few criticised the promoters of the venture for the long delay, most of them took it philosophically and joined the airship's crew in expressing their opinion of the weather.

Gen. Sickles, one of the two surviving corps commanders of the civil war, who was present at the recent G. A. R. encampment, returned to Atlantic City today especially to see the airship's departure. He spent the afternoon in the hangar, studying the various devices to insure the trip's success, and the crew's safety, in case of disaster. He said on leaving that he had complete faith in the airship's practicability and in its power to make at least a good hard fight to achieve its seemingly impossible goal.

AUTO RACER KILLED.

J. L. Meredith Dead and Another Probably Fatally Injured in Des Moines

DES MOINES, Iowa, Oct. 6.—J. L. Meredith, President of an automobile company of Mason City, Iowa, was killed and John Wallace of Des Moines was probably fatally injured to-day when the cars they were driving in a fifteen-mile race at the Fair Grounds crashed into each other on a turn at the quarter.

Thomas Smith and his mechanician, C. F. Tukey, who were trailing the ill-fated cars, avoided smashing into the wreckage by steering into the fence, which was crowded with spectators. Both men were painfully injured, but the spectators escaped.

Auto Plotting Airmen's Route Meets Snow and a Town Marshall.

Special to The New York Times.

BRYAN, Ohio, Oct. 6.—Rough sledding in various forms and plenty of it fell to the lot to-day of the pathfinding party which is blazing the trail for the aeroplane race scheduled to start from Chicago for New York Saturday for the $25,000 prize of THE NEW YORK TIMES and The Chicago Evening Post, and the $5,000 additional offered by Clifford B. Harmon. After all details had been satisfactorily perfected at South Bend, where the flyers expect to spend the night after the first day's journey, the pathfinder car started eastward this morning through a chilling drizzle of rain and ran afoul of roads so deep with mixed sand and mud that the big Studebaker to-day had to exert its best efforts part of the time in giving imitations of a railroad snowplow and the rest of the time in clutching stubbornly at the pasty clay to keep from skidding into ditches and down embankments. As extra measure the weather man threw in a dash of snow just east of Goshen, Ind., and other incidents of the ninety-nine-mile trip included a near arrest in Butler, Ind., and a narrow escape from a plunge over a twenty-foot river bank in the darkness just before reaching this place.

By to-morrow night, under more favorable conditions than existed to-day, it is expected to have the relay stations established and the signal plans perfected as far as Cleveland, from which point a reorganized pathfinder party is to map the remainder of the route, under the direction of Manager Fanciulli. Leaving South Bend, the course laid out today followed as nearly as possible the right of way of the Lake Shore Road, passed through Mishawaka, only three miles distant from the South Bend golf course, where the fliers will start their second day's trip. By reason of the open nature of the country at this point and through Osceola, Goshen, Ligonier, and other places along the route no signals were considered necessary at those points, but at Elkhart, which is sixteen miles from South Bend, arrangements were made for an emergency station at the driving park east of the city and signals to guide the aviators in a course around the outskirts and back to the route.

Kendallville Third Station.

The third landing place definitely decided upon is at Kendallville, fifty-six miles from South Bend. At this place Mayor F. E. Field has charge of the arrangements. Here on a fifty-acre pasture on the farm of Otto Riddle adjoining the Fair Grounds northeast of town a massive white carpet of white muslin will be staked on the greensward. The field is less than 200 yards from the Lake Shore tracks, and on the north side of the line which the fliers will naturally take in order to avoid the thickly settled part of the city. The city officials have agreed to station guards to keep all persons off the field in order to assure a safe landing and to protect the aeroplanes from danger.

From Kendallville the course of the Pathfinder, as mapped out, lay directly through Butler to Edgerton, on the Ohio side. In Butler, however, the automobile ran on to a new stretch of pavement, all completed except filling in the tar. There was no warning signs and no obstruction rails, but the village Marshall presently appeared. He raised his hand authoritatively and the machine stopped. Then he placed one hand on each hip so as to throw his coat back and expose the points of a pewter star and asked what the car was doing where it was.

"Guess you people never saw no new brick pavements before," he said.

"We've done no damage," coaxed Fanciulli.

"You folks better come with me," said the Marshal.

"Very well," rejoined Fanciulli. "Where can we find the Mayor?"

"Down at the gristmill, I reckon," and he pointed out the general direction.

"All right, if we can find the gristmill, we'll see the Mayor about it."

The pathfinder rolled back on the pavement and down through the town, with the Marshal on the trail. But the grist mill could not be found. The road running south looked good, and in three minutes the car was out in the open country, giving as pretty an exhibition of climbing slippery clay hills at top speed as can be imagined. The first crossroad carried the aviators across the line into Ohio, and thus far the Governor of this State has not been asked to grant reuisition papers.

This town of Bryan was finally reached after dark, and here the pathfinder found a message from the Wauseon Commercial Club offering to establish a landing field there and police it. Another message from the business men of Sandusky asked for a close view of the racers. In all probability Wauseon will be selected for the fourth stop. It is excellently located and sixty miles from the last previous scheduled stop at Kendallville. This matter will be decided to-morrow, when also a conference with the committee of the Toledo Chamber of Commerce will be held to arrange for taking care of the aviators there.

HARMON ENTERS MEET.

America's Amateur Champion Will Compete if Status Is Not Affected.

Clifford B. Harmon yesterday added his name to the list of contestants for the international aviation trophy, and informed the Aviation Committee that he would be prepared to enter the elimination trials on Oct. 26 with a high-power monoplane. While Mr. Harmon has gained the reputation of being a foremost amateur aviator, he made his official entry for the international tournament as a competitor in the general events.

Mr. Harmon stipulated that he be permitted at any time to withdraw from the contest if any rules should be adopted which would require him to be rated as a professional, thereby taking him out of the amateur class. With Mr. Harmon's entry the Aviation Committee now has a very strong team of cup defenders.

Charles K. Hamilton made his entry with the committee Wednesday, and is now assembling his 110-horse power machine at Hempstead Plains. In addition to Hamilton and Harmon there are already entered for the elimination trials J. Armstrong Drexel, John B. Moisant, Henry Weyman, and Walter Brookins. Ralph Johnstone and Mr. Hoxie and Capt. Thomas S. Baldwin have notified the committee that they desire to take part in the elimination trials, and will sign the official entries as soon as they reach New York.

John B. Moisant of the American team and Mon. Le Blanc of the French team will arrive on the Savoie of the French Line on Sunday. J. C. McCoy, Chairman of the Aviation Committee, and Mr. Courtlandt F. Bishop, President of the Aero Club of America, have named a committee to go down the bay and meet the incoming aviators. Mr. Moisant will begin practice work at Belmont Park as soon as his machine arrives, and Mons. Le Blanc will proceed at once to St. Louis, where he is to take part in the international balloon race. Immediately after that is finished he will also assemble his machine at Belmont Park.

RIVER GIVES UP FLEET'S SAILOR DEAD

Bodies of Twelve of the Men Who Perished Last Saturday Night Are Recovered.

BATTLESHIPS OFF TO-DAY

One Division Going to Norfolk and Another to Boston—Vessels Are Going Into Drydock.

The Hudson once more gave up some of its sailor dead yesterday. When night came twelve bodies of the New Hampshire men who perished when a sailing barge swamped off the foot of 157th Street on Saturday night had been brought to the surface and identified.

The first found was that of Patrick J. White, seaman, of 41 Jane Street, this city. The tide brought it in at the foot of West 116th Street about 6 o'clock in the morning, and Frederick Doll of 67 Old Broadway notified the police. Among those also informed was Miss Helen Wilson, 17 years old, of 129 Perry Street, to whom

The body of P. Karl, third class painter, was found off the foot of West Fifty-seventh Street, five miles below the scene of the drowning. The body of a third sailor was found ten squares further down the river at West Forty-seventh Street about 8 o'clock in the morning. It was identified as E. H. Dubee, a fireman.

The fourth body taken from the river came to the surface off West 158th Street about noon. It was identified as that of Theodore Uehlin, ordinary seaman, of the New Hampshire.

Three more bodies were recovered between 4 and 5 o'clock in the afternoon. They were taken to the New Hampshire and later removed to the Solace, where they were identified as Norman T. Seals, an electrician; Norman S. Hoy, seaman, and John F. Erhert, a gunner's mate.

Still later five more bodies were taken from the water between 155th and 156th Streets and carried to the Solace. They were Peter F. Bakeman, first-class seaman, off 166th Street; Moses Johnson, fireman, off 166th Street; Raymond E. Werner, fireman, off 160th Street; Guido Amapozo, seaman, off 156th Street, and W. A. Richardson, first-class electrician, off 155th Street.

The recovery of these bodies leads the officers of the ships to believe that all or most of the others will come to the surface in the next few days. The Solace will remain here to receive them.

The Board of Inquiry, which took testimony on the drowning of between twenty and thirty sailors of the New Hampshire on Saturday night, has completed its work, and its report is ready to be sent to Washington. It is a voluminous document, the evidence alone consisting of nearly one hundred typewritten pages. It will not be made public here, Rear Admiral Vreeland said, but will be sent to the Secretary of the Navy. It is said that the report holds the officers in charge of the barge and launch towing it blameless for the death of the men.

A part of the battleship fleet in North River for more than a week while Jack stretched his legs on shore, will sail away to-day. Some of the ships will go this morning, others this afternoon, and the rest to-morrow, leaving none in the river by late to-morrow afternoon.

The first to go to-day will be the battleships Louisiana, Kansas, and New Hampshire, comprising the Second Division of the fleet. These, under the command of Rear-Admiral Vreeland, will proceed to Norfolk. The Third Division, composed of the Virginia, Nebraska and Rhode Island will sail either late this afternoon or to-morrow morning for Boston, where they will be joined by the Georgia. Rear Admiral Howard commands this division.

The Fourth Division, represented here by the Minnesota, Vermont, and Idaho, will proceed to Philadelphia, under the command of Rear Admiral Murdock. The Mississippi, also of this division, is already at League Island. Most, if not all of the ships, will go into dry dock preparatory to a long practice cruise.

While no orders have been received regarding a change in the plans of the Navy Department to send the fleet to the Mediterranean this Fall, the general impression among the officers seems to be that the trip, at least to ports in Southern France and Italy, will be abandoned on account of the cholera. The itinerary already made out included a stop at Geno, one of the cholera-infected ports. It is believed now that the voyage will be confined largely to the waters of Northern Europe.

Give Tracy a Character.

"The failure of W. W. Tracy & Co was all due to Covington," ex-Broker Tracy said yesterday while on the witness stand in the Criminal Branch of the Supreme Court, where he is being tried before Justice O'Gorman for converting a customer's stock to his own use. "If it had not been for Covington's ignorance and negligence all would be well. I trusted him absolutely," Tracy declared.

Martin W. Littleton, Tracy's lawyer, summed up yesterday afternoon after calling several people to testify to Tracy's good character. Among other men called were Paul Morton, President of the Equitable Life Assurance Society, John B. Curse, head of the Advisory Board of the United States Steel Corporation, and Howard M. Webber, President of the First National Bank of Springfield, Ill.

FRANK M. LUPTON DEAD IN BATHROOM

The Publisher's Throat Was Cut and an Open Penknife Was by His Side.

ALL HIS FAMILY AWAY

He Had Acute Stomach Trouble and Was Depressed Since His Return from Europe Unrelieved.

Frank M. Lupton, head of a big publishing house at 23 City Hall Place, Manhattan, was found dead in a bathroom of his home, one of the finest in Brooklyn, at 839 St. Mark's Avenue, yesterday morning, with his throat cut. Beside him lay an opened penknife. The police put the case down as one of suicide. Despondency over his continued ill health and his failure to find relief abroad is believed to have caused him to end his life. For a long time he had suffered from a painful form of stomach trouble.

Mr. Lupton was found lying dead on the floor of the bathroom by one of the housemaids. A physician who was called in expressed the opinion that the publisher had been dead for some hours. Except for the servants, he was alone in the house, his wife being on a visit to her sister in Hartford, Conn., and his daughter, Mrs. Charles Courtney Hoge, being in Europe. Mrs. Lupton was communicated with, and she returned home at once. Mr. Lupton's brother, Assemblyman John M. Lupton of Mattituck, L. I., was also summoned.

The publisher returned some time ago from Carlsbad and other European health resorts greatly depressed because there had been no improvement in his condition. On Wednesday night he visited his physician, Dr. William Davis of 87 Hanson Place, and had a long talk with him. According to one of the servants, Mr. Lupton returned to the house with a friend, whose name she does not know, and the two sat in the drawing room. At 11 o'clock the visitor departed and Mr. Lupton went to his room. That was the last seen of him alive.

Mr. Lupton was born fifty-six years ago in Mattituck, L. I., his family being one of the oldest and best known at the East end of Long Island. When a boy he was apprenticed to a printer in Greenport. Soon afterward he came to New York and got employment in the printing establishment of S. W. Green in Frankfort Street. Reaching his majority, he started, with several boyhood friends, a monthly publication called The Cricket on the Hearth. Four years later he withdrew from this partnership and founded the present Lupton publishing business, which occupies most of the Lupton Building in City Hall Place. Mr. Lupton was known for his philanthropy, and had given largely to the Young Men's Christian Association and other institutions. Five years ago he gave to his native village, Mattituck, a $30,000 building, which contains a meeting hall and a public library, which he endowed, and also houses a bank and drug store.

Mr. Lupton's Summer home, on the shore of Great Peconic Bay, at Mattituck, is one of the show places of that section. He was a lover of flowers, and the Italian gardens surrounding his Brooklyn house and the blooms at his country place were his pride. Assemblyman Lupton of Mattituck, although he had the backing of ex-President Roosevelt, failed on Wednesday to get the nomination for State Senator in the First Senatorial District of Long Island.

FLUSHING OPPOSES TRACK RAISING PLAN

Residents of Broadway to Fight Grade Changes Proposed by Long Island Railroad.

WOULD DAMAGE PROPERTY

Utilities Commission, Before Whom the Matter Will Come, Believed to Favor Depression of Tracks.

Vigorous protest will be made to-day to the Public Service Commission by residents of the Long Island suburban district known as Broadway, Flushing, against the plan of the Long Island Railroad to elevate its tracks for a distance of nearly a mile through one of the most attractive and rapidly growing centres of population in Queens Borough. A hearing is scheduled before the Public Service Commission at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon on raising the grade, which is a part of the general scheme of grade crossing elimination on the north shore division of the Long Island road that has been scheduled ever since the last session of the Legislature.

The various real estate interests and house holders who are in the position of protestants in the present proceeding, are not contending, it is understood, that the elimination of grade crossings through this territory must be abandoned. As a matter of fact, the entire appropriation made by the State at the last session of the Legislature, has been scheduled to serve as a basis for a grade crossing improvement all the way from Flushing Creek through Main Street and Broadway, Flushing to the section known as Auburndale and beyond.

But the railroad in drawing its plan, while it concedes a depression of the tracks over a part of this territory, has come to the point of insisting that it shall have the right to relay its tracks on what the Flushing residents are pleased to describe a mud pile, otherwise known as an elevated embankment seven or eight feet at its highest point above the existing grade of the tracks. Things have come to pretty near a crisis for the Long Island Railroad has indicated, it is understood, that its proposal of elevating the tracks, is the only one which it will consider in connection with the general improvement plan while the residents and realty interests are equally determined not to have a raised railroad line run through their territory if grade crossings are to be eliminated.

The Topographical Bureau of the Borough of Queens, the engineers of the Public Service Commission and those of the Board of Estimate have already had several conferences on the situation but without arriving at any definite conclusion. The Borough Topographical Bureau is disposed, it is understood, to side strongly with the property holders, whereas the engineers of the Board of Estimate and the Public Service Commission have not committed themselves to one plan or the other. Inquiry of the commission yesterday developed the statement that inasmuch as the commission has to pass upon the question in a quasi-judicial capacity, no comment by way of approval or disapproval of the plans was considered proper.

It is learned however, that as a general proposition, the representatives of the commission are disposed to favor the elimination of grade crossings by the depression of the tracks rather than by their elevation. In the present instance, the commission is seeking to get all the light possible on the matter and proposes to weigh the general advantages to be gained in the entire plan of grade crossings elimination on the North Shore division against the disadvantages attending the plan of elevating the tracks through Broadway, Flushing if the Long Island Railroad persists in its present attitude of saying that it will not undertake the comprehensive plan of grade crossing elimination through the Flushing district except as now indicated.

Among the property holders who are actively cooperating in seeking a depression of the tracks and who will appear before the Public Service Commission to-day are: J. Frederick Kernochan, A. A. Biddy, Frank L. Haynes, Leon A. Birck, John H. Tyson, Joseph C. Conklin, A. A. Birck, Richard E. Holcomb, Charles C. Powell, and Harmon S. Brodge. There are also several large realty concerns operating in the districts adjacent to the one immediately affected and it is understood that they are likely to give their moral support to the movement.

As the matter stands, the Long Island road proposes to begin at Lawrence Street, near Main Street, Flushing, on the east and undertake the elimination of grade crossings out beyond the Auburndale district under the present appropriation. The State has appropriated $200,000 for this purpose, and the city, it is understood, will be prepared at the proper time to appropriate a like sum, making under the law one-half of the total amount to be expended, the railroad to put up the balance. In the present instance the estimated cost of the entire improvement, according to the plans of the Long Island Road, is between $900,000 and $1,100,000. The Long Island Road promises to defray the difference between $800,000 and the entire expenditure if its plans are adopted.

On the easterly end of the improvement at Lawrence Street, it was said yesterday by engineers who had examined the situation, the problem of water in the ground makes it impossible to depress the tracks, and they will accordingly go over Lawrence Street and Main Street, Flushing, which is so near to Lawrence Street, that it would not be practicable to come down from a high level to a low one between the two thoroughfares. No objection, so far as is known, has been made to this part of the programme.

From Main Street, Flushing, out to the Murray Hill station, or Murray Street, the tracks are to be depressed and the streets now laid out are to be carried over them. From Murray Hill station, however, the railroad proposes to carry the tracks toward the surface until they reach the present grade at what will be Eighteenth Street when that thoroughfare has come into being on the city map. Continuing ascent, the tracks will attain a height of 7 to 8 feet above he present level at Broadway, Flushing, which is about 2,500 feet from the Murray Hill station, and then will begin to drop again after crossing Broadway and Twenty-second Street, until they eventually regain the surface about the same distance west of the Broadway, Flushing, station.

Broadway, Flushing, and Twenty-second Street converge so as to come within 50 feet of each other at the junction with the railroad. At first the railroad proposed to close up Twenty-second Street entirely and lay out, as it were, a marginal thoroughfare beside its embankment to connect Twenty-second Street with Broadway, Flushing. Now, however, the road has so far receded from this proposal as to agree to extend the bridge which is to cross Broadway, over Twenty-second Street as well and keep both thoroughfares open, although depressing both to a maximum of 7 to 8 feet below the existing level at the lowest point under the tracks.

The railroad has agreed, according to information obtained yesterday, to construct a depressed passage at that point of the proposed embankment where Eighteenth Street will eventually intersect with the tracks, and has agreed, furthermore, not to oppose any applications by the city that may hereafter be made to open streets under the proposed embankment between the Murray Hill station and Broadway, Flushing, where no streets actually run through at the present time. Under the law in view of this concession it will be possible for the city at any time to have streets opened through by paying one-half of the cost, the railroad paying the other half.

The representatives of the Long Island Railroad base their opposition to a depressed roadbed on the element of cost, saying that it would involve $325,000 additional expense, which they are not prepared to stand for, in view of the fact that under the offer now pending the road proposes to assume the difference between $800,000 and an item of from $900,000 to $1,100,000, representing the cost of the entire grade crossing elimination. On the other side the property holders argue that the damages involved in the depression of the streets and the erection of a railroad embankment through a district where house lots have been laid out right up to the railroad right of way will involve a far greater cost in damages than the additional cost of depressing the tracks. It is anticipated that there will be a [illegible] session when the controversy gets [illegible] the Public Service Commission this afternoon.

EAST SIDE TO TELL STRAUS

What It Thinks of His Milk Philanthropy and Hopes for the Future.

A great outpouring of East Side people is expected at the mass meeting to be held in Cooper Union to-morrow night as a testimonial of gratitude to Nathan Straus for his years of effort in saving the lives of children. The audience is expected to be made up in part of those to whom the pasteurized milk furnished by the Straus depots meant the saving of their children, while those who have made the arrangements for the meeting include many who have for years watched the beneficient working of Mr. Straus's philanthropy.

Many of the East Side families have arranged to march to Cooper Union together to give further demonstration in the streets of their gratitude to Mr. Straus for what has been done in their behalf.

More than a score of philanthropic organisations will participate in the demonstration. Among them are the Society for Ethical Culture, the German Odd Fellows, New York Typographical Union No. 6, Greenpoint Settlement, Association for Improving the Condition of the Poor, New York Fresh Air Fund, Little Mothers' Aid Association, the People's Institute, and the Physicians' Club.

Clement Driscoll, of the Bureau of Weights and Measures, will preside. The speakers will be Secretary of State Samuel S. Koenig, the Rev. Dr. Joseph Silverman; Louis Lande, Dr. A. Stella, Dr. Charles E. Nammack, the Rev. H. Masliansky, J. N. Francolini, the Rev. J. J. Curran, Arthur Brisbane, and Dr. A. Jacobi.

COURT RESTRAINS GLAZIERS.

Affidavits That Strikers Threw Rocks from Elevated Causes Order.

Supreme Court Justice Guy issued yesterday a sweeping injunction against the Plate Sheet Glass Glaziers' Union, restraining them from following the wagons of members of the Window and Plate Glass Dealers' Association; from coercing their employes and from destroying property of the dealers. The injunction, which was granted on the application of Charles R. Macaulay, President of the Dealers' Association, is returnable to-day.

The affidavits on which the injunction is based, alleged a long series of attacks upon the wagons of the plate glass dealers in which hundreds of dollars worth of valuable plate glass, about to be put in position, has been destroyed by strike pickets. At times, the affidavits allege, pickets have posted themselves on the station of the elevated railroad and hurled rocks on the heads of the non-union workmen, breaking the glass which they were placing in position and severely cutting the workmen.

Henry Miller, employed by Sutphen & Myer, glass merchants of Desbrosses Street, made affidavit that a large store front about to be placed in a Sixth Avenue dry goods store, was destroyed by rocks thrown from the elevated railroad platform. On this occasion an old man who was passing by is alleged to have been knocked senseless.

Richard T. Conley, Manager of the New York branch of the Pittsburg Plate Glass Company, recites that large amounts of plate glass had been destroyed by the attacks of pickets.

TO SELL HOE LIBRARY HERE.

Rare Works He Collected to be Disposed Of in February.

It has been definitely announced by the executors of the late Robert Hoe that the library valued at $2,000,000 collected by Mr. Hoe will be sold in New York and not in London, as reported in the Winter. It will be sold by the Anderson Auction Company, and the catalogue is now being arranged for the dispersal of the first part in February. The sale will be held in the former Hyde home at Madison Avenue and Fortieth Street, recently leased by the Anderson Auction Company for a long term for exhibitions and sales of art works and books.

The Hoe library includes rare specimens of early printing and old manuscripts. The library contains some 21,000 volumes, including about 130 illuminated and other ancient manuscripts, and the finest examples of the earliest presses of Germany, Italy, France, and England, of which the masterpiece is an exquisite copy on vellum of the Gutenberg Bible, of which only seven copies are known. J. Pierpont Morgan owns one of them and there is one in the Lenox Library.

Mr. Hoe had five Caxtons, including the only perfect copy known of the "Morte d'Arthur," 1485, and the "Golden Legend," 1483. He also had the four original Shakespeare folios and a splendid collection of the rare quartos, Queen Elizabeth's own copy of her Prayer Book, a vellum manuscript of 900 pages, containing St. Jerome's Latin version of the Bible, believed to have been in the possession of St. Louis in 1248 before he left for the Holy Land on the first crusade. Of the Aldines there are more than 100 volumes, all Elzevirs, while among the rare specimens and first editions of early English literature are the works of Johnson, Spencer, Gower, Langland, Bacon, Milton, Walton, Addison, Pope, Dr. Johnson, Swift, Keats, Shelley, and many others.

DIAMONDS IN BIG CHEESE.

Passenger from Europe Put Them There for Safe Keeping, Not for Smuggling.

A big gorgonzola cheese, somewhat ripe, was used by Mrs. Maria Fontana, a cabin passenger on the Fabre liner Sant Anna, as a safe hiding place for her diamond earrings and rings during the voyage from Italy. When the vessel's passengers landed yesterday a Customs Inspector discovered the hidden jewels, and Mrs. Fontana was asked to explain. She said that she is the wife of a merchant in Lorraine, Ohio. She put her jewelry in the cheese because she feared it might be stolen, and knew of no better hiding place.

The Customs men thought at first they had a smuggling case, but Mrs. Fontana furnished proof that she bought the jewels in this country.

Guards Widow Against Bad Influence.

Gabriel B. Clark, who died Sept. 19 in Atlantic City, left $200,000 in bonds to his wife, Josephine Agnes Clark, for life on condition that she do not interfere with the execution of the terms of his will. Clark also leaves her the life use of his home and the contents of his house without conditions. He says that while he has the utmost confidence in his wife, he makes the provision forfeiting her interest in the $200,000 bequest of bonds to guard against her yielding to "unwise and evil counsel."

HIGH LIVING COST REDUCES SAVINGS

Bankers' Association Hears That Deposits in Savings Banks Have Decreased.

BRIGHT FUTURE FOR BANKS

Deputy Controller Fisher Declares Business Dullness Will Strengthen Investing Power.

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 6.—Addressing the meeting of the American Bankers' Association, of which he is president, William R. Creer, secretary of the Cleveland Savings and Loan Company of Cleveland, declared to-day that the effect of the high cost of living had been to decrease the savings of the people.

After promising the support of the association to the new Postal Savings Bank, although it had at first opposed it as an ill advised and un-American proposal, Mr. Creer went on:

"Following the financial disturbances of 1907-8 there has not occurred that adjustment of prices to a lower scale that usually follows a panic. On the contrary, the cost of living has steadily increased. There needs must be an adjustment between prices and wages or there is a serious problem ahead of our savings depositories.

"Figures recently issued would indicate that savings deposits have increased largely during the past year, but a careful analysis will in many cases show that it is the amount of interest credited that increases the figures and not increased deposits. Thus, while a greater total in savings deposits is shown in some States, in reality the withdrawals have been greater than the deposits for the same period. The present situation demands greater care and conservatism than usual upon our part."

Deputy Controller Edmund D. Fisher of New York City spoke on bonds and expressed the belief that their future is bright, as the present lull in business will stimulate thrift, which will increase the investing power of the community.

"Interest return on the market value of characteristic securities during the past three decades," he said, "has undergone a marked change. This return on railroad bonds was, in 1879, 5.90 per cent.; in 1889, 4.98 per cent.; in 1899, 3.95 per cent., while in 1909 it was on a basis of 4.18 per cent. The return on high grade municipal securities during this period has averaged about 1 per cent. lower than these rates, except in the last decade, which has been characterized by a change in the general movement of bond prices."

Mr. Fisher thus enumerated the chief reasons of the changes in bond values: "The large increase in the production of gold since 1896 and in commercial transactions, the broadening of the opportunities for investment by larger and more frequent issues of railroad and industrial securities, extravagance and the greater use of luxuries throughout the world, standing armies, the building of navies, the capital waste through three expensive wars, the inflation from the increase of national banknotes in this country, the expansion of the scope of savings bank investments and the capital loss due to the San Francisco earthquake."

Speaking of the increase of extravagance Mr. Fisher said:

"During the period under discussion the non-producing class in the United States has increased from 28 to 40 per cent. without the loss being offset by any material increase in economic efficiency. This has operated directly as a factor in increasing prices.

"The social unrest, growing out of the undue diversion of earning power to monopolistic corporations, has accentuated the question as to the ultimate integrity of their securities. Supreme Court decisions, inter-State legislation, Legislature investigations, have all indicated that the recent period of extravagance has been burdened with the excrescence of questionable practices in corporate management.

"In the past ten years there has been a distinct advance in public knowledge of what robbery in high finance really is. The time will shortly come when, through governmental control of the issuance of securities and oversight of the business methods of large corporations, bondholders will have greater assurance as to the intrinsic value of their investments.

"In past years the conservative capitalist did not care to invest his money in stocks because of their continuous fluctuation. His confidence in bonds has also been similarly shaken.

"Recent events in the financial and political world, however, point to a period of quietude in business, when the recuperative powers of the country for investment will return.

"The future of bonds, then, is bright. Bankers should unite in a plan for a sane and sound currency. Corporations should conform to the Federal and State laws guaranteeing fair play. Cities will be better governed. The productive power of the country will increase, and wealth, which is dependent on all these things, will seek investment.

"And gold? Why, that will continue to pour into the world in varying quantities as in the past; always in demand, yet always stored away; a latent and an active force."

CONFESSES TO PERJURY.

Prisoner in Forgery Case Admits Giving the Wrong Name.

After being cross-examined for more than four hours by Assistant District Attorney Wasserfogle before Judge Rosalsky in General Sessions yesterday, Manuel Alvarez, who is charged with forgery in the second degree, broke down and confessed that his real name was Baldamero Mendez. This confession was made only after Judge Rosalsky had instructed the court interpreter to tell Mendez the penalty for perjury.

Mendez is charged with forging drafts on the Union Discount Company of London for more than $320,000, and having in his possession worthless drafts for over a million dollars. He was indicted for forgery in the second degree on Sept. 28, charged with having deposited a forged draft for $125,000 on the Union Discount Company of London with the Savoy Trust Company of this city. He said when arrested on Sept. 9 that he was the representative of a Cuban Revolutionary Commission and that the drafts had been sent to him by a member of the commission with instructions to buy arms and ammunition. A clew to his identity was discovered in six letters addressed to him.

The case will be continued to-day.

Comfort and Comeliness In Furniture

THE best English Upholstered Furniture,—that made by Howard or by Gillow, for instance,—owes to its old-world tradition of sincere and capable workmanship the assurance that, in attaining comfort, sight has not been lost of comeliness.

Furniture such as this—and a noteworthy assemblage of it is to be found in our Galleries—will give an almost lifelong satisfaction. Not elsewhere is offered such an opportunity for selection as by these comfort-giving Chesterfield Sofas, these roomy Howard Arm-chairs, or these Settees, high-heaped with downy cushions. Some are in rich-toned honest leather, others have yet to receive the silken or other appropriate coverings that may be desired.

ANOTHER CHOLERA CASE IS DISCOVERED

Coal Trimmer on Moltke Found to be Suffering from a Mild Form of the Disease.

TWO LINERS RELEASED

Health Authorities Certain the Scourge Can Never Get Past Quarantine —Lines Drawn Tight.

A case of cholera was discovered at this port yesterday. Dr. Alvah H. Doty, Health Officer, announced that a bacteriological examination showed that Rudolf Sellitsch, a coal trimmer on the steamship Moltke, is suffering from a true case of cholera. The patient was removed to the hospital on Swinburne Island from the steamship on Tuesday. The sick man is a German, 25 years old. His attack is mild and the physicians believe he will recover.

"Sellitsch had had no communication whatever with the cabin passengers, and his condition is such that we believe he will recover," said Dr. Doty. "The steerage passengers, with the crew, will be kept under observation in quarantine to complete the period of five days of observation dating from the removal of the case."

The cabin passengers from the Moltke were landed on Wednesday. The Moltke will not be allowed to leave quarantine until late Monday. The Sant' Anna will be released on Sunday, and the steamer Alice will be kept off quarantine until the result of an examination in the case of a sick child is known.

Two steamers were released from quarantine yesterday. The Carpathia, from Mediterranean ports, had two deaths from measles during the voyage. A thorough examination was made of passengers and crew and in the afternoon the vessel got a clean bill of health.

Seven persons were removed to Hoffman Island from the Bluecher which arrived from Bremen. Three cases of scarlet fever, one suffering from pneumonia, and a woman suffering from some minor sickness. The vessel was allowed to proceed to her pier after a careful examination.

Dr. Doty will continue to scrutinize the passengers and crew of every vessel arriving here and make exhaustive tests to guard against cholera, but he does not believe there is any danger of the scourge entering New York through her sea gate.

In the cases that have come under Dr. Doty's investigation so far, he said, there has been but little trouble. There was no ship infection nor was there any contamination of the food and water supplies. This makes the problem an easy one.

"So long as there is no evidence of ship infection in the way of contamination of food or water and the disease had not occurred among the cabin passengers," said Dr. Doty, "the health officers will release the cabin passengers after a careful inspection has been made."

Surgeon Gen. Wyman, who conferred with Dr. Doty on Wednesday, said he was sure every safeguard was being employed here to protect the country against the plague. He has instructed Dr. Doty to impose a fire days' inspection upon all steamships arriving from the cholera-stricken districts of Europe, where there is any suspicion of infection on board. The Surgeon General has reminded the authorities that in case of suspicious discoveries on any vessel the cabin passengers are as liable to detention as those in the steerage.

The steamship Majestic, which arrived yesterday from Southampton, was given a clean bill of health and allowed to proceed to her pier.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 6.—Quarantine officials at New York have been instructed to impose a five-day inspection upon all ships from cholera-stricken districts of Europe, upon which any suspicious infection is discovered.

Surgeon Gen. Wyman of the Public Health and Marine Hospital Service today declared that the presence of any "cholera carrier," as was found on the steamer Germania, would be sufficient cause for quarantine. Returning to-day from a personal inspection at New York he announced that he was sure the safeguards already employed would effectually protect this country against the plague.

Celebrate Laying of Asphalt Pavements

Residents of the Columbia University dormitories gathered in the Hartley Hall reception room last night to celebrate the laying of asphalt pavements along Amsterdam Avenue. Since the dormitories were built six years ago the students living there have been annoyed by noise of street traffic on the uneven cobbles. One feature of the celebration was the unveiling by L. H. Robinson, a law student, of an asphalt block upon which were engraved the names of those who have led in the fight for quiet street pavement.

MORGENTHAU FINED $5,000.

Court Announces That Smugglers Will Get More Than Fines Hereafter.

Judge Hand, in the United States Circuit Court yesterday, imposed a fine of $5,000 on Mengo L. Morgenthau, President of the Mirror Candy Company, who had pleaded guilty to an indictment charging him with smuggling wearing apparel and jewelry into the United States on his arrival here on Sept. 1. Morgenthau pleaded guilty a few days ago, but his sentence was postponed to allow Judge Hand to consider testimonials which were offered to his good character.

Judge Hand, in passing sentence, said that the Morgenthau case was the last in which a fine alone would be imposed on a returning traveler who had attempted to evade the customs duties. He remarked that he had consulted with Judges Lacombe and Hough and that the court was getting weary of the large number of smuggling cases brought before it, and of the fact that the imposition of fines did not appear to be any deterrent to wealthy persons desiring to bring articles into the United States without the payment of duty.

In view of Judge Hand's statement, much interest attaches to the case of Mrs. Adrian of Poughkeepsie, a society leader of that town, who will shortly appear before the United States Circuit Court on smuggling charges. It was intimated by some, however, that the threat of prison sentence suggested by Judge Hand would apply only to those persons who might hereafter be caught in the customs net.

MUNROES IN TROUBLE AGAIN.

One Surrenders on Warrant in Queer Marconi Wireless Sales.

George H. Munroe, the young Canadian whose meteoric career in Wall Street received a check in the Fall of 1904 in the collapse of the Montreal and Boston Copper stock bubble and the failure of the firm of Munroe & Munroe, which he had formed with his brother, surrendered himself in the Federal Building yesterday after learning that a warrant had been issued for his arrest charging him with the use of the mails in a scheme to defraud. Arraigned before United States Commissioner Shields, Munroe gave $2,000 bail for further examination.

Warrants have been issued for the arrest of both George Munroe and Alexander Munroe, his brother, who is expected also to come in and surrender. The deals which have given rise to the present case were in Marconi wireless stock, which the Munroes undertook to boom even before their Montreal and Boston copper episode, and continued to handle in a less extensive way down as late as 1907.

SCIENTIST IN THE STEERAGE.

Prof. Cardon of Paris Came Over That Way to Expedite His Passage.

Customs men and Immigration Inspectors united to expedite the landing of Prof. L. E. Cardon, Director of the Institute Corses of Paris, who arrived yesterday in the steerage of the White Star liner Majestic. He was scheduled to lecture in Boston last night, and because of the westward rush across the Atlantic he could not get cabin accommodations on steamers which would bring him here in time, so he took passage on the Majestic in the steerage.

When the steamship men explained the case to Immigration Inspector Biglin at Quarantine, he sent for the professor. The passenger was then transferred to the second class, which permitted his landing at the pier and not making the trip in the afternoon to Ellis Island with his fellow-steerage passengers. The customs officials then expedited his departure from the pier.

Prof. Cardon is the author of many textbooks and is a member of the Alliance Française.

Bennett's Election Expenses $1,312.

William M. Bennett, the Assemblyman who was nominated by the Republicans of the Fifteenth Congressional District to succeed Representative J. Van Vechten Olcott, filed his statement of expenses in obtaining the nomination yesterday. Mr. Bennett includes the amounts he paid out in his primary fight to retain the leadership of his own Assembly District. The total amount is $1,312. Of this $539 was given to canvassers.

The Gimbel Shoe Store

NEW YORK has never seen anything just like the Gimbel Shoe Store. It is the "last word" in the development of the specialty shoe shop and an excellent example of the higher note in retailing that has been set in this Congress of Stores.

It occupies about half an acre of the second floor. Eight aisles—you might almost call them streets—divide it into seven sections—each class of footwear has, as it were, a street to itself. These are—

The Street of Men's Shoes
The Street of Boys' Shoes
The Street of Girls' Shoes
The Street of Women's High Shoes
The Street of Women's Low Shoes
The Street of Women's Slippers
The Street of Orthopedic and Arch-Supporting Shoes
(with an expert chiropodist and orthopedic fitter in attendance.)

The shelves that line these streets or aisles contain forty-three thousand pairs of new shoes, and each stock is carried in duplicate in the store itself, so there's no waiting for gaps to be filled from the stock-rooms.

Besides these staple lines there is also a section devoted to shoe findings, although "findings" seems a pale word to characterize the beautiful stock of ribbon, metal and jeweled buckles and ornaments it contains. And, standing daintily by itself, is a shoe store in miniature that we call in which footwear for evening use can be selected and matched by artificial light.

And upstairs is a complete shoe factory---as complete as any in Lynn or Brockton, though smaller. In this factory we shall do shoe repairing---or rather, the re-making of old shoes. And in the Subway Store is another shoe store carrying 25,000 pairs of less expensive shoes. The stock here is, within its price limitations, just as comprehensive as the stock upstairs.

It does little good to quote prices---they would sound exactly like any store's prices. It does little good to say that we have men's shoes at $2.00 to $7.00; women's shoes at $2.00 to $8.00 and children's shoes at $1.00 to $4.00---until you see the shoes.

When you see them you'll find that the Gimbel standard in shoe values and the Gimbel standard of shoe styles are as far beyond the commonplace as is the Gimbel shoe store itself.

Policeman on Guard in Raided Rooms. Arrests Man with Dispossess Warrant.

ORDERS CAME FROM ABOVE

Courts Tell Landlord Police Action Is Illegal, but Baker Refuses to Revoke His Orders.

Day and night for almost a month a policeman of the Fifth Street Police Station has been stationed in the rooms formerly occupied by the Noglieh Social Club, in the rear of Wolfert's Cafe, at 148 East Fourteenth Street, under orders of Chief Inspector Schmittberger, whose men raided the place as a gambling resort on Sept. 14, arresting five men and holding the paraphernalia there as evidence. The policeman was ordered to arrest anyone who attempted to remove the paraphernalia in whole or in part.

Yesterday afternoon, after vain efforts to have the police guard relaxed until he could remove the property for a new tenant, the proprietor of the building, Benjamin Kaufman, had a City Marshal Isaac Van Lear, go to the place and remove the paraphernalia in execution of a dispossess warrant he had obtained against the former tenant. When the City Marshal tried to revome the goods, he was arrested.

When Van Lear was before Magistrate Steinert in the Yorkville Night Court last night, Louis Spiegel, counsel for Kaufman, told the Magistrate a long story of his tribulations with the police, from whom, he said, he could get no satisfaction.

On Sept. 16, he said, he asked Capt. O'Connor of the Fifth Street Station house to instruct his policeman on guard to permit the removal of the goods, as Kaufman had a new tenant for the premises. Capt. O'Connor referred him to Chief Inspector Schmittberger, under whose orders he said he was keeping the policeman on guard. Spiegel went to Inspector Schmittberger, he says, pointing out that to keep the paraphernalia longer in the house would constitute oppression, and begging for relief. The Inspector, he says, told him he was acting under orders from Commissioner Baker, and referred him to the Commissioner. After trying for three days, he says, he obtained an interview from Commissioner Baker, who told him that he, in turn, was acting under orders from Acting Mayor Mitchel in keeping the police guard over the gambling paraphernalia.

Spiegel then applied to Magistrate Kernochan in the Essex Market Court for a summons for Commissioner Baker, charging him with oppression. The Magistrate, according to Spiegel, said he must take the matter under consideration before issuing the summons, and advised him again to try to convince the Commissioner that the refusal to let Kaufman clear out the goods was illegal. Spiegel said he went again to the Commissioner, but with no better success than before, the Commissioner refusing to remove the police guard, and volunteering to take upon himself all the responsibility for his course.

Then, on Sept. 30, Kaufman began dispossess proceedings against the Noglieh Social Club to have them ousted, on the ground that they had carried on gambling on the premises. Four of the men arrested at the time of the raid had meanwhile been held for General Sessions by Magistrate Krotel in the Essex Market Court. On Wednesday Justice Leonard Snitkin in the Second Municipal Court granted the dispossess to Kaufman.

At 4:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon Spiegel, accompanied by City Marshal Isaac Van Lear, went to the premises to have the dispossess warrant executed. There they found Policeman Vanderau on guard. Vanderau, according to Spiegel, after seeing the warrant, nevertheless refused to let them remove any of the articles in the place, announcing that he was carrying out Inspector Schmittberger's orders, and that he would arrest any one who laid hands on the paraphernalia. Van Lear thereupon carried out to the sidewalk several chairs and a table, and began to take down a blackboard, said to have been used for chalking up results previous to the raid. Then the policeman arrested the City Marshal on a charge of disorderly conduct.

The lawyer says he at once telephoned to Inspector Schmittberger, protesting against the arrest as an outrage, but that the Inspector replied:

"I can't help that. Any one trying to take out the articles will be arrested. Those are the orders I have received and given."

Spiegel obtained bail for Van Lear and appeared to defend him when he was in the Night Court.

"The proprietor of the place is quite willing to have the property removed to the room of the Property Clerk at Police Headquarters and there retained as evidence," he said, "and he has expressed his willingness to the Commissioner. But the police have refused to remove the paraphernalia, and insist on keeping it under guard on the premises. It may be one week, or two, or even several months before the case of the men arrested in the raid reaches the Grand Jury, and it would be oppressive to my client to compel him to keep his premises unrented and a mere storage for police evidence till then."

Magistrate Steinert seemed to agree with him.

"The prisoner is discharged," he said. "I do not blame the policeman for making the arrest, since he was merely acting under orders from his superiors. But the action of the Police Department in the case is illegal and totally without reason or authority."

Spiegel left the court, nevertheless, at a loss as to what to do. He said he would try to have the warrant of dispossess served to-day, in the hope that there would not be another policeman on guard to arrest the Marshal again.

HURT IN TAXICAB WRECK.

Motor Carrying Los Angeles Lawyer and His Family Crashes Into a Tree.

While George B. Gereau, a lawyer of Los Angeles, his wife Amelia, and his sister, Miss Antoinette Gereau, of 207 McDonough Street, Brooklyn, were driving north in Riverside Drive last evening to see the warships lined in the Hudson River, Mrs. Gereau saw that the taxicab which they had taken at the Hotel Knickerbocker, where they have been staying for a month, was zig-zagging from one side of the drive to the other, as if the steering gear was out of order.

Before she could call the chauffeur's attention to it the motor car made a sudden swerve toward the curb and crashed into a tree at the edge of the sidewalk with a shock that could be heard for more than a block.

The chauffeur, Charles Gabarin, of 153 East Fifty-third Street, was thrown to the street, but escaped injury. Mrs. Gereau was thrown through the glass panel of the door, rolling to the sidewalk, where she lay unconscious and bleeding from many cuts. Her husband and her sister-in-law were thrown out with her and lay stunned upon the sidewalk.

Bicycle Policeman Schubert, who had heard the crash a block away, hailed a passing taxicab and put the three injured in it. Mr. and Mrs. Gereau were taken to the J. Hood Wright Hospital, where it was found that the lawyer had suffered a fracture of the left leg, had bruises and cuts about the face and body, and possibly internal injuries. His wife revived at the hospital and was able to go to the home of her sister after the cuts on her face had been dressed.

Miss Antoinette Gereau, at her own request, was taken by the chauffeur of the second taxicab to the Woman's Hospital, where she was treated for many bad cuts and bruises about the face, hands, and body.

The taxicab in which they had started out for their drive was completely shattered and the wreckage strewn for many feet around the tree. It was later gathered together and towed away by another car owned by the same company.

BRICKLAYERS' STRIKE OFF.

Lockouts Also Declared at an End on a New Agreement.

The lockout and strikes of the bricklayers were ended yesterday, the former by the Mason Builders' Association and the latter by the officers of the Bricklayers', Masons' and Plasterers' International Union. The strikes both here and in other cities where theh members of the Mason Builders' Association have contracts were declared off with cheers at a mass meeting of the bricklayers in Grand Central Palace and shortly before the lockout was called off.

An arrangement was reached after several conferences between the international officers of the bricklayers and the association that when members of the association have work to do in cities outside of New York which are not covered by the present local trade agreement the union rules must obtain in these towns and cities. The present trade agreement will continue until it expires on Dec. 31.

TYPHOID THREATENS AFTER LONG DROUGHT

Westchester's Plight Serious if the Promise of Rain Is Not Fulfilled To-day.

24 CASES IN WHITE PLAINS

Floods Out in Ohio, While Here Suburbanites Find It Cheaper to Move to Town Than Buy Bottled Water.

While many people in Westchester County have been praying for rain, and hundreds of families have been coming from Connecticut, Westchester, and nearby New Jersey to New York to live for a while in hotels, where they can get all the water they want to drink and bathe in, and while the reports as to the spread of typhoid in drought-stricken regions have become serious, the people of the Ohio Valley, the Lower Mississippi region, and the Gulf States are sending word of the heaviest rainfall in twenty years. Railroads are crippled by washouts.

A definite promise of rain for New York and the section around it came from the Weather Bureau last night. Forecasts about showers from the same source have not always been fulfilled this Summer, but the weather man seemed to be certain this time, and the weather conditions westward seemed to make his forecast probable.

For the benefit of the suburban families which have been paying $1 a crate for bottled water that used to cost half that much when it was bought at all, which wasn't often necessary, Cairo, Ill., sends word that on Wednesday it had more than eleven inches of rain, breaking a twenty-year record. The Big Four Railroad and the Mobile & Ohio were both crippled by washouts, and at Evansville, Ind., Circuit Court had to be postponed because the witnesses and jurors could not get across rivers whose bridges had been swept away by raging floods. Yesterday flood signals were displayed all along the lower Wabash River.

The heavy rainstorm yesterday had spread over the Lower Mississippi region, the Gulf States, and the South Atlantic States. It had reached the Eastern mountain ranges, moving slowly in this direction. The local Weather Bureau said last night that to-day it would rain and get cooler, though Saturday and Sunday would see fair weather again.

Suburban families continued to come in yesterday to join the temporary hotel colonies of refugees. In parties of five and ten they are filling the old family hotels and overflowing into those hotels that accommodate mostly transient guests and charge accordingly. But paying even the highest hotel prices makes living cheaper and more nearly bearable than trying to get through the days and nights with nothing to rely on except bottled water, they say. It is a sore trial to both the flesh and the spirit, said the head of an exiled suburban family yesterday, to attempt a bath with a bottle or two of water poured into a bath tub. Hotel bath tubs were never in such constant demand, the attendants testify.

Westchester County is suffering more for water than any of the other regions around the city. In White Plains there are twenty-four cases of typhoid fever. Supt. John Heeney of the White Plains Board of Water Supply said yesterday that the village still has a supply adequate for twenty-five days of family and fire use, though the water in its reservoirs has fallen so low that many people are afraid to drink it, holding it chiefly responsible for the typhoid there.

Even if the White Plains supply failed utterly, Mr. Heeney thought the village could draw on New York City's supply in Kensico Reservoir. That was done five years ago.

New York City's great stores of water are lower than they have been in many years. Though its residents may continue to draw on the supply without stint, they find that it has a muddy, marshy taste, which has driven thousands to take to the use of bottled water for drinking purposes. Should the city's own demands on its reservoirs be supplemented by its suburban neighbors to any large extent, New York might come to know what it means to suffer for water.

The dams and reservoirs of Ardsley, Mamaroneck, Dobbs Ferry, Hastings and Scarsdale are practically empty. The Mahlstedt Pond, which is part of Mount Vernon's water supply, is entirely dry. The Mamaroneck Reservoir and Silver Lake are both empty, and it will take a full week's rain to fill them again. Mount Vernon last night reported that it now has water enough for ordinary purposes, having put in a pump at Ardsley which supplies 3,000,000 extra gallons a day from New York City's aqueduct overflow into the Saw Mill River and Ardsley Reservoir.

If New York and its suburban neighbors can get a 10-inch rain, such as Illinois and Indiana have been having, the whole water problem will be solved.

FOUR DEATHS FROM TYPHOID.

Epidemic Spreading in Phillipsburg, N. J.—Eleven Cases in One Block.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILLIPSBURG, N. J., Oct. 6.—The death by typhoid fever to-day of Cosmus Reinert, makes the fourth from that disease within the last three weeks, and the health authorities are now thoroughly alarmed. An inspection of the various sources of the city's milk supply is now under way. Twenty new cases have been reported to the Board of Health in three weeks.

Reinert was ill just three weeks, and his death came at the normal time for the crisis of the disease. His sister, Miss Bessie Reinert, is ill with typhoid now at the Easton Hospital. He was Night Superintendent for the Phillipsburg Transit Company.

Eleven cases of the fever are reported from one block in the city. One milk dealer is said to have supplied most of the families where the malady has shown itself. The funeral of a little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Washington Kanouse took place to-day. She died of typhoid and her mother is now seriously ill with the disease.

DINES SIR WILLIAM TRELOAR.

Former Lord Mayor of London the Guest of the Art in Trades Club.

Sir William Purdie Treloar, former Lord Mayor of London, was the guest of honor at the fourth annual dinner of the Art In Trades Club last night at the Hotel Brevoort. There was a gentle wit in everything he said, and he was applauded vociferously.

In introducing him, William Sloane Coffin, president of the club, explained that, as head of a linoleum business and director in a great dress-making establishment, Sir William was an expert on interior and exterior decorating, intimate with all the details of furnishing, from the "hovel to the hobble." He was supposed to talk on "English Art Trades," which he flatly refused to do, saying that he had never prepared speeches, anyway, except those he had had to make officially in welcoming royal persons to Guildhall.

"Those, of course, had to be submitted first to the persons to whom they were to be addressed, so that they might felich for their own use all the good things in them," he said gloomily.

William Church Osborn, Trustee of the Metropolitan Museum of Art, talked on the Morgan wing of that institution, and of its exhibit of historic decorative art, where, he felt, many a latter-day decorator might find an inspiration and suggestion for good work.

Other speakers were William A. Boring, President of the Architectural League, and Frank Alvah Parsons, Vice President of the New York School of Fine and Applied Art.

WORK ON THE SCHWAB MINE.

Stockholders in Charles M. Schwab's Montgomery-Shoshone Consolidated Mining Company, a Nevada gold property, who have been hoping against hope for the company ever since the collapse of the stock in 1906, decided once more, at a special meeting yesterday, to go ahead with operations.

After hearing the general manager's report that there were only about three months' supplies of ore in sight a resolution was voted to continue operations as long as they did not run the company into further debt. They left it to the management to decide when to close down, and another meeting will then be called.

Charles M. Schwab and Daniel M. Gillies, of the Amalgamated Company, bought a large interest in the property in the heighth of the Nevada gold boom in 1906. At that time the shares were selling around $14. The par is $5.

In April, 1908, when it first began to dawn on the owners that the mine might grow less valuable below the surface a special examination was made. The engineers then reported that much of the ore was not of commercial grade and that very little pay ore was definitely located. The stock dropped in one day from $3 to $1.62½ a share. It has since sold around ten cents a share. Since the pessimistic report made in April, 1908, stockholders have had independent examinations made of the property.

Charles M. Schwab besides being one of the largest stockholders is also a large creditor of the company. He advanced $500,000 in the early days and got some of it back. He is now a creditor for about $200,000.

When stockholders first heard that the mine was likely to pinch out, Charles M. Schwab assured them that he was the heaviest loser. He said that he had not sold out his shares when he heard the bad news and that would stand by the property to the end.

The shares became suddenly active on the curb, yesterday, and sold up from 12 cents to 25 cents a share.

INSURANCE SCHEMES TO DUPE INVESTORS

BARRED FROM THIS STATE

Companies Promoted by Doubtful Means Refused Permits Here—Investigation Nearly Finished.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, Oct. 6.—The State Insurance Department's investigation of corporations organized for the promotion of insurance companies makes it clear, declares Insurance Supt. Hotchkiss, that the promoter and his satellites, the stock salesmen, almost immediately take from 20 to 60 per cent. of the money subscribed by the investor; that the means employed in securing the subscription are, of necessity, at times—in fact, in some companies, frequently—characterized by misrepresentation both as to the profits of existing companies and as to the probability of profit in the promoting company; and that, if the plan ultimately succeeds, the investor finds himself but a minute factor of a company usually controlled by the man who conceived it, who is, in most cases, only too willing to sell out that control to the highest bidder, no matter what may be the latter's integrity or insurance experience.

The Insurance Department has come to the conclusion that this widespread movement looking to the organization of new insurance companies is chiefly for the benefit of the professional promoter, to the great injury of the investing public at large. In view of the facts developed in the investigation the department has since July 1 refused to allow any companies promoted by the means indicated to do business in this State.

The laws of New York do not permit an insurance company to begin business until its capital stock is paid in in cash. It must also have a surplus—likewise paid in in cash—equal to 50 per cent. of its capital stock.

The investigation, Supt. Hotchkiss states, after being actively prosecuted for the past three months, is now practically completed, and the reports will shortly be made available to the public.

WON'T CERTIFY COTTON BILLS

Mobile Banks Refuse the Guarantee Asked by the European Institutions.

Special to The New York Times.

MOBILE, Ala., Oct. 6.—Some of the State banks in this city have decided to certify to the genuineness of signatures on port bills of lading but it is not true, as was reported to-day, that the banks here have agreed to give the full guarantee of cotton bills of lading, demanded by the European bankers. The disposition of the banks here is to stand by the action of the New York institutions.

President E. J. Buck of the City Bank and Trust Company said to-day:

"The report that Mobile banks have decided to guarantee cotton bills is erroneous. No action on the matter has been taken by the Mobile Clearing House Association, nor has any individual bank, as far as I know, decided to do this. The Mobile Clearing House, I am sure, will act in full accord with the banks of New York in handling the bill of lading matter."

An officer of the First National Bank said to-day: "Mobile banks have taken no concerted action concerning the cotton bills of lading. I understand several of the State banks intend certifying to the genuineness of signature on port bills of lading only, but they will not guarantee anything beyond the genuineness of the signatures."

NINE MONTHS' FAILURES.

Fewer Than in the First Three-quarters of the Last Two Years.

The statistics of failures for the nine months which ended with September, as compiled by R. G. Dun & Co., show fewer commercial casualties than in 1909 or 1908, but more than in any other year since 1904. The total amount of defaulted liabilities, however, is larger for the period than in any year except 1908, being substantially larger than last year. The showing, Dun's Review says, "reveals in some degree the effects of the trade recession which has been in progress during most of the year, but otherwise exhibits no specially abnormal feature." Dun's Review says:

There were 9,399 failures during the past nine months, as compared with 9,666 in 1909; 11,946 in 1908, 8,090 in 1907, 7,917 in 1906, 8,806 in 1905, and 9,183 in 1904. The number of defaults was, therefore, less than in 1909 and 1908, but greater than in any other of the years named. The total liabilities of the past nine months amounted to $154,417,804, as compared with $116,188,871 in 1909; $179,677,528 in 1908, $116,036,348 in 1907, $84,660,237 in 1906, $76,284,028 in 1905, and $111,6[illegible],205 in 1904. It thus appears that while the number of failures for the nine months was less than in 1909 the aggregate of liabilities was very much greater. The manufacturing failures reported liabilities of $70,10[illegible], comparing with $54,649,982 of trading, and with $29,580,316 of other commercial failures. It is thus seen that 45.5 per cent. of the total liabilities of the nine months were in the manufacturing class—a high proportion.

Time of game—One hour and forty minutes. Umpires—Messrs. Klem and Kane.

Bill Dahlen's pepperless Superbas, who have a habit of playing like champs one day and showing bush league speed on the next, spent a dismal afternoon at the Polo Grounds yesterday as guests of the Giants. The boys from the other side of the bridge were outplayed in every department, and from the second inning to the finish the only question was the size of the score. The final verdict was 9 to 3, the Superbas showing the only real signs of life in the final chapter, when they bunched three hits with a pass and scored all their runs. About 3,000 fans saw the battle, including President John T. Brush of the Giants, who had not been on the local field at any previous game this season.

Drucke was McGraw's choice as slant server, and the tall Texan had about everything except what the Superbas wanted. Up to the ninth inning, when three bingles came in rapid succession, Drucke had allowed the Dahlenites only five hits, which were distributed through five different innings. He equaled the season's record for strikeouts in the National League by chasing thirteen Superbas back to the bench, getting at least one strikeout in every inning except the seventh. Cy Barger, who faced him three times, and Al Burch, who did the pinch hit stunt for Miller in the ninth inning, were the only visitors whom Drucke failed to strike out at least once.

Barger had three bad innings, and the Giants were helped along materially by considerable sleepy playing by the Superbas, Barger doing heavy work in the nap column. In the third inning, when the game was packed away, Cy failed to handle one bunt which drifted his way, and a moment later he forgot to cover first base on a hard drive to Daubert. Each drive went for a hit and helped the Giants in their merry race around the paths.

The only real noise which the visitors uncorked during the afternoon was done up in an essay which Manager Dahlen delivered to Umpire Klem in the second inning after being ordered off the field for some compliments on the ump's eyesight delivered from the Brooklyn bench. Bill protested for some time that the real culprit had escaped, but Klem refused to back down, and Dahlen had to travel. Bill knew most of the fans at the game yesterday and he stopped to talk to each of his friends on the way out. He was still rambling around the meadow ten minutes after he started for the clubhouse.

The Giants did not see second base in the first two innings. Larry Doyle got on first through an error, and Red Murray began the second inning with a hit, but both were pegged out trying to steal. With one down in the third inning, Drucke drove a sizzler past Hummel and Devore hit to the left field corner for two sacks. Doyle's long fly to Coulson allowed Drucke to count. Devore moved up on the same play and scored when Snodgrass hit one too fast for Stark.

In the fourth inning the Giants batted around and scored six runs. Bridwell fouled out to Miller and Devlin beat out a wallop which tore Barger's hands apart. Merkle hit to right field and Coulson threw to the stands trying to catch Devlin at third base. Devlin scored and Merkle reached third on the peg. Wilson walked and Drucke singled to right field, scoring Merkle. Devore beat out a bunt and the bases were full. Doyle flied to Hummel and Snodgrass almost overturned McElveen with a liner which rolled to the outfield, Wilson and Drucke scoring. A double steal by Devore and Snodgrass, with a bad heave by Miller, let Josh register. Murray's single scored Snodgrass and Red died stealing. Merkle's two-bagger to left field, Wilson's single, and a double steal brought in another Giant run in the eighth inning.

Davidson, who doubled and advanced on an out in the third inning, was the only Superba to reach the final turn up to the ninth. In the last frame a pass to Hummel and singles by Coulson, McElveen, and Stark gave the visitors three runs.

GIANTS AND YANKEES DATES.

Full Schedule for Post-Season Games Announced by Frank Farrell.

President Frank J. Farrell of the New York American League Club last night made an official announcement of all the dates for the games to be played in this city by the Yankees and the Giants for the championship of Manhattan. This series, to be played under the auspices of the National Commission, will start on Thursday, Oct. 13, and games will be played daily until one team has won four contests. The schedule arranged and approved by the National Commission follows:

Thursday, Oct. 13, at Polo Grounds.
Friday, Oct. 14, at American League Park.
Saturday, Oct. 15, at Polo Grounds.
Monday, Oct. 17, at American League Park.
Tuesday, Oct. 18, at Polo Grounds.
Wednesday, Oct. 19, at American League Park.

Should a seventh game be necessary the place and date will be decided by the toss of a coin.

The arrangements made yesterday were decided after a conference between Presidents Farrell and Brush of the two New York clubs and Thomas J. Lynch of the National League, who acted as the representative of the National Commission. The local series will be played under the rules governing the series for the championship of the world, with the players participating in the receipts of the first four games.

A few details regarding the contests still remain to be worked out, it not yet having been positively decided at what time the games shall start. The umpires for the games will be William J. Klem of the National League staff and William Evans of the American League staff. The business representatives of the commission will be William H. Locke of the Pittsburg club and Hugh McBreen of the Boston Americans, while the man delegated to have full control of the series will be Judge Thomas C. O'Sullivan of the Court of General Sessions. Mr. Sullivan will act as the general representative of the National Commission, with Messrs. Locke and McBreen as his assistants.

Betting on World's Series Even Now.

CHICAGO, Oct. 6.—While betting on the world's baseball series between Chicago and Philadelphia has not yet become brisk, several wagers have been laid. "Piker" bets have been laid at various places, the average price being 10 to 7 on the Cubs, but those on the long end now demand even money. Most of the wagers were placed before the injury to Johnny Evers, and the layers contend that with him out of the game it is an even-money contest.

Evers's Leg Reset; Injury Severe.

CHICAGO, Oct. 6.—Johnny Evers, the Chicago Nationals' crack second baseman, had his leg reset yesterday at the West Side Hospital. A number of his team mates were located in the gallery of the operating room and watched the setting of the broken bone. Dr. Davis, who conducted the operation, declared that it was one of the worst breaks he ever saw in any one's leg.

Two Isthmian Canal Leagues.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 6.—Baseball sentiment is being aroused along the Isthmian Canal, and free transportation to players on the railroad there, already tentatively approved by the Canal Commission authorities, has insured one league instead of two. The six teams in the new league will be Ancon, Empire, Camp Elliott, Gorgona, Commissary Subsistence, and Cristobal Colon.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADEDPHIA, Oct. 6.—The Yankees again showed a combination of good pitching, fast fielding and timely hitting in the second game of the present series with the Athletics and the American League champions got another jolt from the hustling New Yorkers this afternoon. The score was 3 to 1 and it was Jack Knight, once turned adrift by Connie Mack, who forced the home team to accept defeat. Knight's triple with two Yanks on bases and the score tied in the eighth inning pushed in the two runs which decided the battle. Captain Harry Davis, Eddie Collins and Rube Oldring were not in the game.

The champions could do nothing with Ford except in the fourth inning, when three hits were bunched off the Yankee star and one run chased over the plate. The only other time Mack's men looked dangerous was in the sixth inning when Lord's single and an error by Laporte put runners on second and third bases with no one out. A strike-out, a grounder to Knight and a foul to Austin followed in order and the opportunity was smothered. Ford fanned eight Athletics and did not give a pass.

The Yankees got one hit less than the home team, but had many more chances to pile up a score. Dygert handed out eight passes and his battery mate, Thomas, had a bad afternoon trying to stop Chase's speedy base runners. Six thefts were made against the big backstop and but for Dygert's ability to tighten up when things looked bad the game would have been settled long before Knight's healthy clout turned the tide in the eighth inning. Triples by Ford and Knight were responsible for all three runs scored by the Yanks.

Hemphill got on in the opening inning, but died stealing. With two gone in the second inning Cree walked, was caught off first base and got back safely on an error, stole second and reached third on a poor peg by Thomas, but was left. Daniels walked and stole and Hemphill also walked in the third inning and Chase fanned for the third out. Cree singled and died stealing with two out in the fourth inning. In the fifth inning Austin walked and finished the distance on Ford's triple to right field. Daniels walked and stole. Murphy got Hemphill's fly and held the runners on the corners and Lord got under Chase's long drive. The sixth was the only inning in which the Yanks failed to get on the bases. In the seventh inning Austin walked, stole second on Mitchell's third strike and was doubled trying to steal third on Ford's third strike. In the eighth Hartsel got Daniels' long fly and Hemphill doubled to left field. Chase beat out an infield grounder and stole. Knight hit far into left field for three bases, scoring Hemphill and Chase. Laporte hit to Barry and Knight was caught at the plate. Laporte stole and reached third base when Thomas threw to the outfield. Cree walked and died stealing. In the last inning Ford singled with two out and was forced at second base.

Only one of the champions saw first base up to the fourth inning and he got no further. In the fourth Lord singled to left field and McInnis doubled to the same section. Baker hit over second base, scoring Lord. The next three were easy outs. In the sixth inning Lord's single and Laporte's error put runners on second and third bases with none out, but Ford again tightened up and the next three batsmen caused no trouble. Except in these two innings the home team did not see second base.

Red Sox Divide with Senators.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 6.—Washington and Boston divided to-day's double-header, the visitors winning the first game, 5 to 2, and the second going to the locals, 6 to 5. Darkness stopped the second game, after Boston had batted in the eighth inning. The fielding and base running of Milan and batting of Speaker and Gardner featured, the local man stealing home. White Sox Give Tigers a Drubbing.

CHICAGO, Oct. 6.—Chicago virtually clinched sixth place to-day by taking the first game of the series from Detroit, 11 to 5. Manager Jennings tried a left-hander, Peasley, who was rapped freely in the second and fifth innings. Lange, who relieved White in the fourth inning, drove in four runs for Chicago. Cobb got a double, a single, and a pass in five times at bat. Score:

SPALDING PRAISES CUBS.

Murphy Then Presents Former Pitcher with Ball He Used in Game in 1870.

CHICAGO, Oct. 6.—A. G. Spalding, candidate for United States Senator from California, and manager of the first team that ever won a National League penant for Chicago, called at Cub headquarters yesterday, personally to congratulate Frank Chance, manager of the latest National League pennant winner.

Mr. Spalding was surprised by a gift from President Murphy. It was a baseball which Mr. Spalding himself had pitched in a game forty years ago. Last winter the ball was presented to Mr. Murphy with the statement that it was used in a game played July 16, 1870, between the old Chicago White Stockings and the Forest City Club of Rockford, and thought it would be an interesting souvenir to the Cub President because A. G. Spalding, one of his predecessors in the Presidency of the Chicago club, had pitched the game with that ball. It was gilded and inscribed with the date and the score.

Veteran Garden City Golfer Leads Field of Eighty-eight in Invitation Tourney.

Walter J. Travis of Garden City easily led the field in the thirty-six-hole qualifying round of the annual invitation tournament at the Nassau Country Club yesterday. The veteran golfer made a 75 in the early hours, and supplemented this with a 76 in the afternoon for a total of 151.

Following the medalist came John M. Ward of Garden City and B. T. Allen of Fox Hills, the Staten Island champion, both with 159. Allen started off at a splendid pace in the afternoon, and had he not slipped up on the last few holes would have returned a 75 or better. George Brokaw of Garden City, with rounds of 80 and 81, qualified in fourth place, three strokes better than H. F. Whitney of the home club.

The Tournament Committee provided for five sixteens, which proved to be just about right, as there were eighty-eight starters. For the average golfer low scoring was harder than usual because of the baked-out condition of the fairway, to say nothing of the slippery greens. Nearly every one had a hard-luck story to tell about putting, one man having the misfortune to take five puts from a distance of twelve feet.

In the morning Travis, after going out in 37, continued to record par figures until the seventeenth hole, where a second shot hit the bunker. To make matters worse the veteran missed a short put there, which made the hole cost him six strokes. He also missed a short put on the home green for a four.

The scores were:

First Sixteen.—Walter J. Travis, Garden City, 151; John M. Ward, Garden City, 159; B. T. Allen, Fox Hills, 159; G. T. Brokaw, Garden City, 161; H. F. THE REAL TAFT.

President Taft's letter accepting Justice Moody's resignation is perhaps one of the most intimate official documents ever written, or at least published contemporaneously. It is such a personal communication as Americans would like to have written to one of their servants retiring with his life hopes broken. And it is such a self-revelation as indicates to Americans the sort of President they have.

President Taft's expressions concerning the courts and the judiciary are characteristic of his habit of mind. He has pointed out with precision some weaknesses in our manner of administering justice, but no one has surpassed his just-uttered confidence in the judiciary and the courts. He strikes a note which is, we believe, near to the popular heart when he says:

> The approach of every question for decision with indifference to every consideration except to reach a right and just conclusion, and to preserve the fundamental structure of our Government as our fathers gave it to us, makes the functions of the office most precious to one who feels in every fibre, as you do, their sacred importance.

This was worth his saying, and it is worth while to applaud his saying it. Whatever contrary opinions may be uttered by private individuals it becomes a President of the United States to uphold the institutions of the country, and it becomes Americans to uphold him in it.

THE EIGHTY-SIX VARIETIES.

The Colonel is belated in his expression of the wish that every newspaper would hang up in its editorial sanctum the leaf from Pudd'nhead Wilson's calendar, upon which is set forth that "there are eighty-six different kinds of lies." Mendacity charts drawn up on this plan have for several years been conspicuous among the mural adornments of every considerable newspaper office in this part of the country. We are surprised that The Outlook office has none. Our copy has been accurately ruled in squares, permitting the entry under its appropriate head of any statement notably deficient in veracity. The entries have been pretty numerous of late, insomuch that we have found it necessary to enlarge the chart. But the classification is preserved, and it is our belief that in time this chart will have a high ethical and historic value.

But that is another matter. Our present concern is with Mr. Roosevelt's disclaimer of responsibility for the tariff plank in the Saratoga platform. He said to his audience at the Brooklyn Academy of Music Wednesday night, speaking of the Convention at Saratoga:

> If I had been in complete control—as some of the press say I was—I should have done some things differently—the tariff plank, for instance. But on the whole I am pretty well satisfied.

Better satisfied, it appears, than Senator Cummins and several others of Mr. Roosevelt's insurgent friends in the West. Senator Cummins had an interview with the Colonel at his office on Wednesday. A Des Moines newspaper, which is believed to represent the sentiments of Senator Cummins, was not at all satisfied with the standpat declaration of the Saratoga platform in respect to the tariff. This and many other newspapers published in the West have held Mr. Roosevelt responsible for this plank, naturally enough, since his control of the Convention and its actions seemed to be absolute. Mr. Roosevelt now says that, had that control been absolute, the tariff plank would have been different.

The disclaimer comes too late. Theodore Roosevelt made up the Committee on Resolutions which drafted that tariff plank. One minute before he named the members of the Committee he took the already prepared typewritten list and struck off the names of several delegates who had opposed his wishes during the debate, and substituted for them the names of other delegates who could be fully trusted to do his bidding. It was his committee. When the platform was reported to the Convention no word of dissent was heard from him. It was open to him to move an amendment. He was perfectly free to declare, if so minded, that a tariff plank phrased to meet the approval of Cannon and Payne and Aldrich would not be a good thing for the Republican Party in New York this year. He did nothing of the kind. The platform was adopted, it stands as the Republican Party's declaration of policy. It is as much Mr. Roosevelt's platform as it would have been had he written it; for the men who did write it were his close friends and appointees. He accepted the platform, tariff plank and all, and he spoke no word in criticism of it, he gave no intimation that he would have had it otherwise until after his interview with the distinguished insurgent from Iowa. At Carnegie Hall he had a fine opportunity to tell the men of the Republican League in what way or ways he would have had the tariff plank differently drawn. But instead of that he spoke in praise of the platform, of the whole platform. Even in The Outlook he had said: "I think that the present tariff is better than the last, and considerably better than the one before the last; but it has certainly failed to give general satisfaction." The Saratoga platform in its praise and defense of the tariff is therefore perfectly consistent with Mr. Roosevelt's Outlook article, which is in substance what he said at Sioux Falls. The members of Mr. Roosevelt's Committee did not concern themselves with the failure of the Payne tariff to give "general satisfaction." They were satisfied with it, and said so. Through them Mr. Roosevelt said so. It is for this reason that the Republican insurgents of the West accuse him of surrendering "to the bandits of plutocracy."

It is our opinion that Mr. Roosevelt will have to stand on the tariff plank of his platform.

PORTUGAL AND SPAIN.

Portugal is a republic. The last of the Braganza Dynasty is fled, President Braga is in control. His power is recognized by Spain.

The debt of Portugal is $800,000,000, with a population of less than six millions. Spain's debt is $1,900,000,000, saddled upon 18,000,000 people. Portugal has lost her colonial empire; so has Spain. Eighty per cent. of the Portuguese Nation can neither read nor write. Over 75 per cent. of Spain's population is illiterate. Agriculture and the industries in both countries dwindle while taxes grow.

Republicanism is alive in Spain. When at last a people's subsistence is threatened, revolution cannot long be avoided. Spain recognizes Portugal's new flag of red and green. Her own flag of red and gold is stained with the corrupt extravagances of her ruling class, with the black ignorance of her people, with tyranny. Except she cleanse it a fresh flag will be forced upon her.

A CENTRAL BANK.

The objection most commonly urged against the establishment of a Central Bank as a solution of our currency problems is that such a bank would surely fall into the control of "Wall Street," which in many parts of this country is the name used to describe a real or imaginary money power. One answer to that objection is that it is quite unthinkable that the country will ever consent to organize a Central Bank which could by any possibility fall under the domination of a "money power." That answer, however, would hardly be satisfying to the advocates of a Central Bank, since it meets the objection in a way that destroys the thing objected to. A second and much better answer is that it is entirely possible to organize, establish, and put in operation a Central Bank that would be wholly free from the control of selfish banking or money interests. In his address at the Convention of the American Bankers' Association in Los Angeles on Tuesday Mr. Irving T. Bush, Chairman of the Committee on Currency of the Merchants' Association of this city, set forth what may be called the specifications of a Central Bank:

> The matter seemed to resolve itself into a limitation of the functions of the bank and a method of selecting a Board of Governors, which would guarantee that no one of the three elements of politics, bankers, or special interests could control. I will ask you to picture to your minds, as the committee has, a central bank governed by a board composed of bankers, a limited number of Government officials, and the balance men engaged in business, and not identified with other banking or politics, with its functions limited absolutely to dealing in foreign exchange in order to protect or build up our gold reserves, rediscounting certain approved forms of short-term commercial paper, and bills of exchange, or regularly organized financial institutions, and the issuing of bank notes; all profits above some fixed percentage, say 4 per cent., to go to the Government or to be used for some public purpose.

A Central Bank that in its organization followed the analogy of the political organization of our Government would seem to offer high promise of receiving the sanction and approval of the country at large. In other words, it would be a federated bank. The banks throughout the country would be constituent parts of the organism. It would be representative of them because they would be a part of it. Such an organization, which in its structural outlines is that presented in Congressman Fowler's bill introduced last Winter, has merits which have commanded much attention and approval. The European central banks are, like European Governments, strongly centralized. A bank might be established here which would faithfully represent the interests of every part of the Union, and readily respond to local demands.

A disposition on the part of the West to examine with candid and open minds the benefits of the reform of our currency system which a Central Bank would confer, and a corresponding disposition on the part of the advocates of a Central Bank to consider and meet in every reasonable way the objections urged against it, would do much to promote the success of the Monetary Commission's labors.

ONE SLOGAN FOR BOTH SIDES.

Never before in the history of American political parties has one campaign cry exactly served the purpose of two opposing parties. This year in the State of New York the slogan "A vote for Stimson is a vote for Roosevelt" exactly meets the requirements of the supporters of both tickets.

The admirers of Mr. Roosevelt who accept his idea of a "new nationalism" need no other cry. In voting for Stimson they will vote with enthusiasm for Roosevelt and Rooseveltism. The opponents of extravagance, radicalism, and usurpation of State authority by the Federal Government will find the new slogan equally useful and effective. It expresses the one issue before the voter of the State. "A vote for Stimson is a vote for Roosevelt." It ought to be a great saving. No other motto is needed by either party. No amplification is necessary.

THE OPERATIC OUTLOOK.

It is interesting to learn from Signor Gatti-Casazza, now sole director of the Metropolitan Opera House, that the words of Humperdinck's "Children of Kings" will not be sung this Winter in English. The poem is German, and there is no good reason for translating it into English. Thus far, the large promises of opera in English at the big opera house have been fulfilled only in the case of "The Pipe of Desire." Goldmark's "Cricket On the Hearth" has disappeared from the announcements. English opera is reasonably popular in England. But we do not believe there is any strong demand for it here, especially for the Anglicization of German or Italian texts. Signor Gatti-Casazza, however, retains an open mind in this matter. Obviously, he desires to conciliate the small but vociferous body of operagoers that persistently clamors for opera in English. It seems reasonable that English opera should be composed by English musicians to English words. The director says that the competition for operas by American composers has placed thirty original works at the disposal of the Metropolitan Opera House. That seems a great many operas for a hitherto operaless country. Doubtless a few of them have the kind of merit that can be communicated by singers to an audience. But we can scarcely expect to hear even one of them in the season which is now close at hand.

All signs indicate an uncommonly brilliant season artistically, and large pecuniary profits. Competition has been checked. The greatest singers of the world will be in the company. The public demand is so eager that the subscription is greater than ever before in the history of opera in America. There will be few new works in the programme, but on the nights reserved for Mr. Dippel's Chicago-Philadelphia company some modern French operas hitherto neglected here will have a hearing. We look forward to a peaceful and successful term of opera, with society in the parterre once more thoroughly contented, and plenty of aesthetic gratification for the mere music lovers up aloft.

A WISE DECISION.

The "Grand Prize" motor car race, announced for Oct. 15 over the Long Island Motor Parkway, will not be run. The promoters of this race have acted wisely in abandoning it. The fatal disasters which marred the latest Vanderbilt Cup race have proved once more that the speeding of motor cars over the narrow Long Island roads is terribly dangerous sport.

Until suitable tracks are built for this kind of racing there should be no more of it in the neighborhood of New York. Motoring gains nothing in public esteem, makers and owners of automobiles acquire neither fortune nor repute, through association in the public mind with slaughter.

A RENO DIVORCE ILLEGAL.

Judge Whitney's ruling in the Catlin case is likely to cause a great deal of alarm. Nine years ago the British House of Lords decided that a Nevada divorce was invalid in Great Britain. The circumstances in the case of Earl Russell, however, were extraordinary. No papers had been served on the English wife he divorced. He had remarried in haste. He served three months in an English prison for bigamy. The Catlin divorce was obtained in the regular Nevada way. The "residence" of the applicants for divorce in Reno is in nine cases out of ten pure fiction. Mrs. Catlin dwelt in Reno the required six months and then obtained her decree of divorce by default. Clearly she did not retain her residence there. Her husband has refused to recognize the Nevada divorce as legal, and to give up the custody of the children under the decree. Suit having been brought in the Supreme Court of this State for the enforcement of the Nevada decree, the Judge decides that the decree is invalid.

Many divorces have been obtained by New York women and some by New York men, in the same way. Local suits to enforce the Nevada decree are rarely necessary. Both parties to the divorce generally are glad to be free. In that respect the Catlin case is peculiar. The husband wants his wife to return to him and their children. Therefore he has been the means of securing a decision from the Supreme Court bench touching the validity of the ordinary Nevada divorces in this State which will surely cause a great deal of excitement among divorced persons. Hereafter Reno may be a less popular resort.

If the plaintiff in this suit had married again, after the Nevada divorce, the situation would be painful. As it is, the result is serious enough to justify the grave consideration of others than the parties to the suit. The law of this State, as interpreted by Judge Whitney, is not open to question. Clearly divorce is not so easy as we had been led to believe. Any Reno divorce could be set aside in our courts, as this has been set aside.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

Important Work in Good Hands.

Ranking among the best of the many good appointments marking the administration of Gov. Hughes is, in the opinion of those qualified to judge it, that of Miss Frances A. Kellor to the position of Chief Investigator in the Department of Labor, just made by Commissioner Williams.

Miss Kellor is already well known for her interests in the welfare of newly arrived immigrants, for her appreciation of the need that they should be guarded and guided into efficient citizenship, and for the skill and success with which she has already conducted several inquiries into the dangers encountered by them on and after landing. Her reports have emphasized the fact that it is as injurious to the State as to the immigrants when they are left in their helplessness to be robbed by the many kinds of land pirates who lie in wait for them, and that it is to the public welfare as well as to their own that they be scattered to parts of the country where their labor is needed, instead of settling down, as they naturally do, at the port of their landing or near it, to enter into a fierce and demoralizing competition with each other for starvation wages.

The Immigration Commission is little concerned with the question of eligibility for admission; its attention is chiefly turned to the immigrants who have passed the tests and come ashore in the new land. They have been the victims of much bare-faced robbery and of much cold-blooded extortion and exploitation. So well-informed on all these subjects has Miss Kellor already made herself that she is peculiarly competent to direct further investigation of the several abuses, and to suggest and institute the many reforms still needed.

The appropriation for this work is a small one, and it is said that to supplement the amount available for expenditure Miss Kellor purposes to contribute her whole salary. That ought not to be necessary, and we doubt if it is judicious. The State can afford to pay for work done for it and should do so. Indeed, it does, when the value of the work is demonstrated, and that should be a part, and not an unimportant part, of Miss Kellor's task. "The public" should not be pauperized by gifts any more than the immigrants.

Harshness Well Deserved.

A most serious situation has developed at Cornell. With a carelessness wholly inexplicable the members of the faculty there have allowed the scheduled hours of study and recitation so to infringe upon the time needed for football practice that the coaches, half in rage and half in despair, have been forced to issue an ultimatum.

Unless the members of the teams are set free every day at 3 o'clock all attempts to train them for coming battles will cease and the coaches will resign their positions. It is a matter of conscience with them; they scorn to waste their energies on boys who are allowed on the field only two or three afternoons in the week, for in such conditions nothing worth while can be done, even with the most promising of "material."

No wonder the coaches are discouraged. What do the Cornell professors think colleges are for, anyhow? Apparently they imagine that football and athletics in general are incident, secondary, subordinate! In what a strange, sequestered, dreamy, unpractical world they must live to have preserved such ideas till this late day.

Now that they have been sternly dragged out of their academic holes and forced to confront important facts of course they will wake up and rearrange their silly schedules. Life is real, life is earnest, and education is not Latin, Greek, and mathematics.

Roosevelt the Patriot.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

In your editorial article to-day you say "the dominating issue in the coming State campaign is the ambition of Theodore Roosevelt to get back into the White House." A statement as startling and emphatic as this should be substantiated by some evidence or proof before many of your intelligent readers will be convinced that this is so.

I might claim with equal emphasis that Roosevelt has no desire or intention of ever returning to the White House; that he is a bigger man as a private citizen than as President, and has more real influence throughout the world; that he has had all he wants of the trials and drudgery and limitations of that office, and is now much happier than ever before since entering upon public life. It seems to me that he has the good sense to see this, and that he will govern himself accordingly; besides, it is possible that he is a patriot instead of an ordinary scheming politician. You say the election of Mr. Stimson would be Mr. Roosevelt's triumph. I would rather think it would be the triumph of the people who believed in Gov. Hughes and clean government.

For Judge Whitney.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Although a Republican, I wish to state that if Mr. Whitney will accept the nomination, I, as a member of the New York bar, will most heartily indorse him, as I know him to be a man of honesty and integrity, and one who carefully considers matters placed before him in a judicial and careful manner.

I have almost come to the conclusion that instead of supporting men without merit who chance to be in one's party, it would be better to elect a man who has merit, regardless of his political affiliations.

HERMAN W. BOOTH.

New York, Oct. 5, 1910.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Your editorial article in favor of the nomination of Judge Edward B. Whitney to succeed himself, is well deserved. Although personally unacquainted with him, I had my first experience as a juror at his first term of court last December, and was impressed by the fairness of his rulings and charges.

As an enrolled Democrat I should be happy to have the opportunity of voting for this Democratic Judge, whose name on the ballot would add strength to the ticket.

JUDGES FOR BERGEN ESSAYS.

School Superintendents to Pass on The Times Competition.

These men have consented to act as judges in the composition contest for The New York Times's Tiffany silver medals, in connection with the 250th anniversary of the founding of Bergen Village, N. J.: Charles J. Baxter, Superintendent of Schools of the State of New Jersey; M. H. Kinsley, County Superintendent of Schools of Hudson County; Addison B. Poland, Superintendent of the Newark Schools.

There were special reasons why George G. Tennant, the President of the Jersey City Board of Education, and Henry Snyder, Superintendent of Schools of Jersey City, hesitated to participate as judges in the competition. Their relations with the schools and the pupils are of a character that move them to prefer to hold aloof from the rivalry. The schools in Jersey City, to the school children in which The New York Times's awards are to go, are indirectly under the eye of County Superintendent M. H. Kinsley, and he advised The Times yesterday that he would serve as one of the judges.

Dr. Addison B. Poland, Superintendent of the Newark Schools, was for years Superintendent of the Jersey City Schools—Mr. Snyder's predecessor in that office—and afterwards was State Superintendent of Schools. There are, therefore, both local and State reasons for his selection.

The appropriateness of the selection of State School Superintendent Charles J. Baxter as one of the judges is self-evident.

Mr. Van Winkle's articles on the history of Bergen, now being published in The New York Times, are being sought not only by the thousands of Jersey City school children who expect to compete for The Times's medals, but by the school children all over the State for the information they need for their classroom compositions on "Bergen Day." It will be recalled that State Superintendent Baxter fixed October 19 for the observance of Bergen Day in the schools of the State and that he pointed to Mr. Van Winkle's articles as about the only attainable source of information on the history of Bergen.

SCIENCE AND PROHIBITION.

Cites Authorities Who Defend Moderate Use of Alcohol.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

"E. A. H.," writing in your issue of a few days ago, remarks that we should look to medical science for a solution of the drink problem, and then proceeds to quote, supposedly from a doctor, a somewhat lengthy statement as to the baneful effects of alcohol, and especially the danger of its use in medical practice.

Major Charles E. Woodruff, (U. S. A.,) writing in The Times of Nov. 15, 1908, said: "The science of medicine has no blot more disgraceful than that made by the absurdly opposing opinions as to the effects of alcohol." For every statement showing the deleterious effects of alcohol in the medical practice, we believe a counter-statement can be brought showing that its use is often beneficial, and that no substitute has as yet been found for it.

Dr. T. Herbert Claiborne says: "As a therapeutic agent alcohol has not its equal in my opinion in the whole range of medicine."

Dr. S. Knopf advocates its prescription in tuberculosis. He says: "There are, of course, cases among consumptives where the judicious administration of alcohol is a help in nutrition, for example, in the diluted form of malt beer or wine with meals, and I would deeply regret it if ever any law would be enacted to prevent the physician prescribing alcohol in the treatment of tuberculosis."

Landois and Sterling, in their "Text Book of Human Physiology": "Alcohol in small doses is of great use in conditions of temporary want, and where food is taken insufficient in quantity."

In Fothergill's "Practitioner's Handbook of Treatment," we read this: "In practice we find that in many persons a small quantity of alcohol improves digestion, and that a meal by its means can be digested which would be wasted."

To quote Dr. J. Starke: "Alcohol does not belong to the 'poisons.' It is rather a substance which, taken in moderation, nourishes and exerts special effects on the nervous system, effects that are not even 'disturbances,' and therefore not 'phenomena of poisoning.'"

Dr. Allan McLane Hamilton pertinently remarks: "Alcohol is invariably called a poison by its enemies. A substance like alcohol, which is not only a food but a useful medicinal agent, should not thus be lightly and unfairly designated 'poison,' although when immoderately used it is pernicious."

Dr. Francis E. Anstie is the authority for this statement: "One of the most powerful remedies which can be used for the relief of pain is alcohol. * * * Next to tobacco in efficiency as a supplementary food, and far surpassing it in its effectiveness under certain circumstances, is alcohol."

Dr. Pearce Kintzing writes in "Long Life and How to Attain It": "Our prospective centenarian must be a moderate eater, * * * he must use little alcohol. Candidly it does not appear from statistics that total abstainers enjoy any great advantages."

The sane and scientific use of alcohol should not be confused with the intemperate and excessive abuse of it, and on this point we would quote Dr. Schlosser, who, at the Medical Congress at Berlin, in April, 1907, said: "The moderate use of alcohol has nothing to do with drunkenness. Neither the existence of notorious topers nor the causes that lead men to drunkenness need induce a moderate man to think that he must renounce the reasonable use of alcohol."

Father Vaughan's Sermon.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I wonder if there ever was an editorial page like the one to-day: The Catholic cathedral, Woodrow Wilson, Morgan, Roosevelt and Cooking, besides Socialists?

Now, that is why I love The Times—whoever is the moving spirit, he is tuned to our life to-day.

Vaughan is right. Protestantism is dying, passing, but a new humanity is living in the great and blessed now, when we have learned that failure is only the negative element in life and as necessary as success, the positive. These two elements, success and failure, keep us tolerant and working. One day our universities will see the wisdom of teaching both the positive and the negative side. We have passed beyond the positive side alone; we are now looking for the good on the negative side and are finding it. When we do find it we shall treat our criminals better, and we shall treat the outsider better, and we shall treat our own shortcomings better, because, as in electricity, we must have the negative pole as well as the positive or there is no force, no vibration, no real use in this element in nature.

Over 2,000,000 Lutheran Communicants

To the Editor of The New York Times:

In your conservative and judicious editorial article in this morning's issue on Father Vaughan's statement charging the decline of Protestantism, the Lutherans are rated at 300,000. This probably was a typographical error, but, at all events, should be corrected. The Lutherans number 2,155,720 actual communicants in the United States and embrace fully 10,000,000 of the population.

As reported in your columns a short time ago, in New York City their growth in the last fifty years surpassed that of all the other denominations, they having built 118 churches to ninety-three by the next highest, the Episcopalians.

Delayed Tax Bills.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

A short while ago I wrote to my agent to get my tax bill for the current year. In reply he writes that a new system is being tried this year at the Tax Office, whereby some private company is to make out the bills and deliver them to the city. He also says that he made a requisition for the bills last June and has not received them.

1660-JERSEY CITY-1910

The New York Times is to award 500 Tiffany silver medals and 500 engraved certificates of merit to the children in the public, parochial, and private schools of Jersey City for the best compositions on the founding in 1660 of Bergen Village, now part of Jersey City Heights, and its subsequent history, the compositions to be based on seven articles by Daniel Van Winkle, which will appear in The Times every day this week, including Sunday next, Oct. 9. They will carry the story of the old town from its founding to the time of its absorption into Jersey City in the following seven articles:

TOPICAL HEADS FOR MR. VAN WINKLE'S ARTICLES.

1st Article, Monday, Oct. 3—The causes that led to the voyage of Hudson. His discovery and the earliest settlements.
2d Article, Tuesday, Oct. 4—The Dutch West India enterprises. The system of patronage. Michael Pauw settles at Pavonia.
3d Article, Wednesday, Oct. 5—Indian troubles. The settlers reach the site of Old Bergen and open house there.
4th Article, Thursday, Oct. 6—The first church. The first school house. Habits and customs.
5th Article, Friday, Oct. 7—Occupancy by the English. Confirmation of laws and customs by Gov. Carteret.
6th Article, Saturday, Oct. 8—Bergen in the Revolutionary period.
7th Article, Sunday, Oct. 9—Civic and government changes. Later history of the settlement to the date of consolidation with Jersey City.

Medals and certificates will be awarded to the school children of Jersey City according to these rules:

1. To the pupil in each class in the grammar departments of the public and parochial schools writing the best composition, a Tiffany silver medal.
2. To the pupil writing the second best composition, an engraved certificate of merit.
3. To the pupil in each grade of the Jersey City High School offering the best composition, a cash prize of $10.
4. To the pupil in each grade of the Jersey City High School offering the second best composition, a cash prize of $5.
5. To the pupil of each grammar grade of the private schools offering the best composition, a Tiffany silver medal.
6. To the pupil in each grammar grade of the private schools offering the second best composition, an engraved certificate of merit.
7. To the teacher in each grade of the grammar department in the public, parochial, and High Schools whose pupils shall produce the five best compositions, a cash prize of $10.

While the awards will be confined to the pupils of the Jersey City schools, State School Supt. Charles J. Baxter has designated Wednesday, Oct. 19, as the day for the observance of Bergen Day in all the Schools of the State, and, as he has pointed out, The New York Times's historical articles are the source of information for the compositions with which chiefly the school children of the State are to commemorate the day.

The essays offered for prizes must be based on all of Mr. Van Winkle's seven articles, and prepared only after all of the seven articles shall have been read. The essays must also be not over 500 words in length, and must be legible and neat.

History of Bergen Village.

Written by Daniel Van Winkle for the guidance of pupils of the public, parochial, and private schools of Jersey City in the competition for The New York Times Prizes for the best essay upon the founding and history of Bergen Village.

FIFTH ARTICLE.

Occupancy by the English.—Confirmation of Laws and Customs by Gov. Carteret.

England had never relinquished her claim to the territory of New Netherland, but had never given it much concern until she found out one day that the Dutch colonies on the Hudson were fast becoming important rivals to her in the building of trade and commerce and the development of the new land. She had found them pushing out toward her settlement on the "Fresh River" (Connecticut) and on Long Island; hence she determined the only way to get rid of these troublesome neighbors was to drive them out or to control them.

Accordingly Charles, who was King of England at this time, gave to his brother James, Duke of York, the territory claimed by the Dutch as New Netherland, and likewise on May 25, 1664, dispatched a fleet of four vessels under command of Col. Richard Nichols to enforce this claim. Early on the morning of the 18th of October following the English vessels were seen from the hills of Bergen, coming through the Narrows, and a cannon was fired to warn the people of their approach.

As the fleet, with the English flag flying, drew near, the people on both sides of the river watched to see what would take place. Col. Nichols demanded the surrender of the city and submission to the English Government. Gov. Stuyvesant stormed about and refused the demand, declaring he would first blow up the fort. The Dutch burghers of New Amsterdam, however, fearful of the destruction of their property begged the Governor to do nothing rash and at last he yielded to their entreaties. The Dutch flag was displaced by the English ensign, and New Amsterdam became now New York, so called after the Duke of York, who was now owner of the territory by right of possession, as well as by grant.

By deed dated Sept. 3, 1664, he conveyed to Lord Berkeley and Sir George Carteret that part of his grant now known as New Jersey, so called from the island of Jersey, the birthplace of Carteret. They gave the same to Philip Carteret, who was appointed Governor. He arrived in July, 1665, and at once reorganized the court at Bergen as one of his first acts. This was to be held and kept open in the town of Bergen as often as necessary. The officers of this court were Nicholas Varlet, President; Harmon Smeeman, Caspar Steinmets, Elias Michelsen, and Ide Van Vorst.

They took the oath of allegiance to the English King Nov. 20, 1665, and all the inhabitants were required to do likewise. They now were in truth subjects of the English crown. Gov. Carteret ordered an election to the Assembly to be held at Elizabethtown May 25, 1668, and the representatives of Bergen had an important part in the formation of the Colonial Government.

On the 22d of September following, Carteret granted a new charter to "the Town and Freeholders of Bergen," which confirmed all the titles to land that had been granted by the Dutch, and all the rights and privileges they had enjoyed.

The change of government produced scarcely any effect in the village of Bergen. The people had been assured that their title to their land would be guaranteed and their rights would not be interfered with. The Dutch language was spoken, and the church services, and school instruction continued without change. The people were no longer compelled to keep the ever-ready musket close at hand, while working in the fields or forests, for the Indians could not resist the growth of civilization, and had withdrawn deep into the recesses of the forest, where their savage instincts might have full play.

But the States General of Holland were not disposed to give up so easily their valuable possessions, and they determined to make an effort to secure again the territory that had been taken from them by the English. They therefore sent five vessels, under Capt. Anthony Colve to retake their former possessions. This fleet arrived at New York July 30, 1673, and the fort at New York surrendered on demand. The city once more became New Amsterdam and the surrounding country New Netherland. Colve was made Governor, and he at once issued an order to the inhabitants of the village of Bergen and the boueries depending thereon to send delegates to treat respecting the surrender of the town "to the obedience of their High Mightinesses, &c."

We may well imagine this demand did not disturb them, for now once more the flag of the home land floated over them. They at once sent in the names of some of their citizens from whom their magistrates might be chosen. On the 18th of October, 1673, the following were appointed, after taking the oath of allegiance:

Schout and Secretary—Claes Arientse.
Schepens—Gerrit Gerritse, Thomas Fredericks, Elias Michelse, Peter Marcellessen, and Cornelius Abraham.

They took the oath on the 21st following, and were notified that the commander would visit their town on Sunday after the sermon, in order to administer the oath to all the people. On coming to the village, as appointed, the commander and Council found the burghers of Bergen and dependencies to be seventy-eight in number, sixty-nine of whom appeared at drum beat and took the oath. The Magistrates were ordered to secure the oaths of those not present.

And now again there was a period of readjustment, but, fortunately for the people, except in name, no actual change had occurred. They continued to live in the same houses, and cultivated the same farms, with the same confidence, whether their title to the land was written in Dutch or English.

Aug. 25 Gov. Colve notified the authorities of Bergen that they must be prepared to help defend New Amsterdam in case of attack by the English. In response a military company was raised, and Sept. 4, 1673, Caspar Steinmetz was made Captain, Hans Diederich, Lieutenant, and Adrien Post, Ensign. March 4, 1674, notice was sent to all the militia officers of the province to gather at New Amsterdam to discuss plans for defense, and it was decided in case of danger threatening, boats should be sent to Bergen to ferry over the troops.

Colve's reign was, however, short, for on the 9th of July, 1674, a treaty was made between England and the States General of Holland whereby New Netherland was given up to the English Government and remained subject thereto until the termination of the war of the Revolution.

Again the change in ownership of the people of Bergen required a new oath of allegiance to the English King. This was readily taken without delay. They had experienced somewhat a similar change and had no reason to fear any unjust treatment. They were chiefly anxious about their rights and privileges, and as long as they were sure they were not to be interfered with they cared little whether the Government was Dutch or English. This they were assured of by the terms of the surrender, which stated "all people shall enjoy their houses, lands, and goods wheresoever they are within this country and dispose of them as they please. The Dutch here shall enjoy their own customs." These liberal terms doubtless had much to do with the cheerful submission of the people.

Notwithstanding this, the several changes of Government had caused some doubt to be thrown on the titles to land, and a second grant was made by Charles to the Duke of York of the territory previously conveyed. The Province of New Jersey was now owned by Sir George Carteret and Edward Byllinge, William Penn Garven Laurie, and Nicholas Lucas, the latter four having become possessed of Berkeley's share. July 11, 1676, an agreement was made and deed signed dividing the province into East and West Jersey. Lord Carteret became the owner of East Jersey, but did not prosper as expected. By will dated Dec. 5, 1678, he gave all his interest in East Jersey to be sold for the payment of his debts. In 1680 this was done, and the title vested in the twelve men who purchased it and who were known as the twelve proprietors. They exacted an annual rent on all property. The people of Bergen, recognizing the injustice of this act, because their ownership to their lands had been expressly confirmed, refused to pay such rent. Finally, after much controversy, the rental was extinguished on payment of a lump sum.

In 1682 East Jersey was divided into four counties, Bergen, Essex, Middlesex, and Monmouth. Bergen County included within its limits the present territory of Passaic, Bergen, and Hudson. This latter county was cut off and became Hudson County Feb. 20, 1840, and the territory comprising it is almost identical with the old Indian grant of Peter Stuyvesant, but with the addition of the townships of Harrison and Kearney.

But to retrace our steps somewhat, Peter Stuyvesant in 1661 had granted to the people of the village of Bergen the whole tract of land he had purchased from the Indians in 1658. This then became the common lands and gave to every inhabitant an undivided right therein. Those who occupied any part of this territory were obliged to place their dwellings within the village of Bergen or Communipaw. Much of this outside land or buyten tuyn, was used for pasturage and grazing.

After a time disputes arose concerning the use and occupation of these lands, and as there seemed no lawful way of settling these disputes the Assembly was petitioned for relief, and in response an act was passed Jan. 14, 1714, granting a new charter as a township by the name of "The Trustees and Freeholders of the Town of Bergen," giving larger powers and confirming previous grants and privileges. This even did not entirely settle the trouble, for there were encroachments on these common lands by unauthorized settlers, and waste through cutting of timber without warrant, and it was not until almost fifty years after, in 1763, that a permanent settlement was made. In that year an act was passed by the General Assembly, Dec. 7, appointing a commission for finally settling and determining the several rights and titles to the common lands in the Township of Bergen, and making a partition of them. This was done, and maps were prepared and report made upon which to this day all land titles are based.

The final settlement of this vexing question was hailed with delight, and with the full knowledge of their positive ownership of the lands claimed by them the burghers applied themselves with renewed energy to the cultivation of their farms. Through their thrift and industry the hills and fertile soil were made to respond with a wealth and abundance of products, for which a ready market was found in the neighboring City of New York, communication with which was by means of broad, flat-bottomed boats called periaugas. Although a ferry had been established at Communipaw Dec. 22, 1661, when permission was given by the Schout and Schepens of Bergen "to work a ferry between Bergen and the Island of Manhattan," the inhabitants ferried themselves over, as stated in the complaint of the ferryman, William Jansen, "much to his loss and discomfort." As the greater part of the inhabitants owned their own boats, the practice was continued, notwithstanding his protests.

We can in this busy, bustling age scarcely realize the quietude and conservatism of those early days, before the bitter strife of struggling humanity had robbed life of the peaceful contentment that enveloped it. Contrast, if you will, the hurrying crowds that are now borne rushing through the tubes with the phlegmatic old Dutchman, seated, perhaps with his "haus vrow," in the stern of his boat, chattering in Dutch, while the tardy winds slowly waft them to the ever-ready market, and perhaps you will in a measure realize something of the drowsy atmosphere that enveloped the land.

CHURCHMEN EJECT PRELATE'S PAMPHLET

SUFFRAGANS ARE APPROVED

House of Deputies Would Appoint Them Without Right of Succession—Change in Good Friday Collect.

Special to The New York Times.

CINCINNATI, Ohio, Oct. 6.—The Rev. Dr. J. Lewis Parks, rector emeritus of Calvary Church, created a sensation to-day in the Protestant Episcopal Convention by declaring that certain literature distributed in the hall of the House of Deputies was of a controversial character and should be ruled out.

"There is a rule forbidding the distribution in the convention hall of any literature except that of our own choosing," said Dr. Parks. "However, I find a certain controversial pamphlet has been placed on the seats. I move that it be removed from this hall."

Immediately there was a stir, and those deputies who had failed to look at the booklet seized copies. The presiding officer, the Rev. Dr. R. H. McKim, supported Dr. Parks, and ordered the ushers to remove the pamphlets. Many of the delegates, however, placed copies in their pockets.

The booklet was entitled "Replies to Drs. Gore, Moberly, and Hall on the Christian Ministry." It was eighty-two pages long, and was written by the Right Rev. William M. Brown of Little Rock, Bishop of Arkansas. He was attending the House of Bishops while this action was taken. He said later if the lower House did not want the book it had a perfect right to cast it out.

The Bishop is one of the liberal members of the Church, and opposes the "sacredotal theory of the origin, power, and the authority of the Christian ministry" in this booklet. He holds that this theory is "un-Scriptural, un-Christian, and un-American, as well as un-historical, unphilosophical, and un-modern, so that it has only antiquated Jewish and heathenish superstition for its foundation."

The House of Deputies voted to-day to substitute for the words "Jews, Turks, Infidels, and heretics" in the Good Friday collect the phrase "those who have erred from the truth."

At a joint meeting of both houses the Bishop of Salisbury, England, the Right Rev. John Wordsworth, brought to the convention the greetings of the Church of England.

"A fortnight ago," he said, "in the rectory of Trinity Church, New York, I held in my hand the original constitution of the American Church. We owe to your Church the whole constitution of our missionary and colonial churches, and we in England, while forced to advance more slowly than you, feel at every turn how much we owe to you as an example of a self-governing church."

The venerable Henry L. Cody, Archdeacon of Toronto, also spoke as the representative of the Church of England in Canada. He dwelt on the ecclesiastical bonds between the two countries, four of the living American Bishops having come from the Dominion, and declared the Episcopal Church a potent factor in keeping the two peoples on terms of friendship.

At the afternoon's session the question of suffragan Bishops came up. It is one of special importance to the Bishops in the larger cities, and Bishop Greer of New York, Bishop Anderson of Chicago, Bishop Lawrence of Boston, Bishop Tuttle of St. Louis, Bishop Johnson of Los Angeles, and Bishop Nichols of San Francisco are said to be strongly in favor of appointing such assistants to existing prelates.

They desire, it is understood, the power to appoint assistants, who will differ from Coadjutor Bishops in that they will not have the right of succession when the See becomes vacant, although they might of course be elected in the same way as any other clergyman. By this means the Bishops of the specially large and populous dioceses hope to procure assistants to take charge of some of their routine duties.

There was a spirited debate in the House of Deputies, but the proposal in favor of suffragans was finally adopted by a vote of 90 to 22. The resolution must now go to the House of Bishops.

The Bishops to-day refused to make the office of Presiding Bishop elective instead of automatically reverting to the senior prelate in point of service, as at present.

Bishop Greer of New York and Mrs. Greer were guests of honor to-night at the dinner given by Bishop Boyd Vincent of Southern Ohio, at the Sinton Hotel. Bishop Greer was formerly a rector at Covington, Ky., and went from there to New York City. While he is in Cincinnati, he will visit many of his old parishioners.

MAY RAISE SEATS TO $3.

"Naughty Marietta," with Miss Trentini, for Broadway Theatre.

Arthur Hammerstein announced yesterday that when "Naughty Marietta," Victor Herbert's new operetta, in which Miss Trentini is to star, is produced at the Broadway Theatre that in all probability the price of orchestra seats will be raised to $3.

"The cast includes at least three of the leading singers of the Manhattan Opera Company," said Mr. Hammerstein, "and the salary list is so large, especially when the big chorus and orchestra are taken into consideration, that it seems necessary to charge more than the usual Broadway prices for seats. For instance, there are productions on Broadway with only eight people in the cast and the orchestra seats are $2."

Oscar Hammerstein cabled his son yesterday, "Have succeeded in everything; sailing Saturday on the Mauretania," which means that the final details concerning Oscar Hammerstein's London Opera House are completed.

TENOR GAUDENZI HERE.

Will Be Heard in Mascagni's "Ysobel" at New Theatre Next Month.

Signor Giuseppe Gaudenzi, tenor, with the Bessie Abott Opera Company, arrived in New York yesterday on the Moltke. He is to be heard at the New Theatre in November, when Mascagni's "Ysobel" is produced. Signor Gaudenzi is a young man 28 years old. He does not speak English, and had to tell of his trip and plans through an interpreter.

"Before leaving Milan, Maestro Mascagni played over for me my rôle in 'Ysobel,' and I am charmed with the beauty of the part," he said. "I hope American operagoers will share my opinion of the strength and poetry of the work as a whole."

"Chantecler" Postponed Until January.

Charles Frohman has decided to postpone Maude Adams's production of "Chantecler" at the Knickerbocker Theatre until about the middle of January in order to allow her to continue longer in "What Every Woman Knows." The time between the end of the engagement of "Our Miss Gibbs" and the opening of "Chantecler" will be filled by Fred Terry and his English company in "The Scarlet Pimpernel." The present "Our Miss Gibbs" company will go on a short tour, beginning on Oct. 24, and after playing a few of the larger cities will return to England.

Actress Found Dead of Poison.

Catherine Premrose, said to be an actress, was found dead in her room, 420 West Forty-fourth Street, yesterday afternoon. Coroner Winterbottom, who investigated the case, said she had committed suicide by poison. The police of the West Forty-seventh Street Station arrested Edward Starr, a fellow-lodger of the woman, who reported finding her body. He was held as a witness.

SOCIAL NOTES.

John H. Cutler of Boston, whose marriage to Miss Rosalind Fish will take place Oct. 22, will have his brother, Elliott C. Cutler, as his best man, and his ushers are to be Roger W. Cutler, George C. Cutler, Jr., his brothers, and Hamilton Fish, Jr., a brother of the bride; Sidney W. Fish, cousin of Miss Fish; E. Morgan Gilbert, Fulton Cutting, F. Meredith Blagden, Louis A. Shaw, Francis H. Burr, Munroe D. Robinson, Clarence L. Hay, George B. Wagstaff, Charles L. Appleton, and F. S. von Stade. Mr. Cutler will give his bachelor dinner to-morrow evening at the Essex County Club, Manchester, Mass.

Mr. and Mrs. William J. Boardman and Miss Mabel Boardman are to close their North Shore residence on Oct. 15, and will be the guests, at Dalton, Mass., until November of Senator Winthrop Murray Crane and Mrs. Crane (Miss Boardman).

The Boston Terrier Club will to-day have the first of its two days' show at the Madison Square Garden. The patronesses include a large number of fashionable women.

Miss Ruth King, who had been spending some time at Lenox, has returned to town.

Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence L. Gillespie (Miss Mildred Sherman) are expected back to Newport from their bridal trip the middle of the month. They will occupy the villa of the late Mrs. John Carter Brown, Mrs. Gillespie's grandmother.

J. J. Coogan and Miss Jessie Coogan arrived yesterday at the Gotham from Newport.

The annual bazaar for the benefit of the Free Industrial Home for Crippled Children will be held in the Waldorf-Astoria ballroom on Nov. 14, 15 and 16.

MISS VALERIE HADDEN WEDS.

Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. F. Hadden Married to Francis B. Riggs.

The marriage of Francis Behn Riggs, of Seattle, Washington, a son of Mrs. Benjamin C. I. Riggs of New York, and Miss Valerie Hadden, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Farquhar Hadden of New York, was celebrated at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon, in St. James's Protestant Episcopal Church, Madison Avenue and Seventy-first Street, the Rt. Rev. Bishop Courtney officiating.

Miss Hadden, whose father gave her in marriage, wore a white satin gown trimmed with flounces of point lace and her tulle veil was fastened with orange blossoms and sprayed all over with jasmine and orange blossoms.

Miss Paula Fleitman was the maid of honor and the bridesmaids were the Misses Gladys Cromwell, Grace Moore, Susan Street, Anne H. Buckler, Helen Tweed and Miss Frances Hadden, a cousin of the bride. They wore trained robes of yellow satin having yellow satin tunics heavily embroidered and wore large hats of brown tulle having clusters of Autumn leaves and grapes as a decoration. The attendants carried armfuls of yellow chrysanthemums and red Autumn leaves.

Mr. Riggs's brother, Austen Fox Riggs, was the best man and the ushers were Gavin Hadden, Julian L. Peabody, Leverett Bradley, Allen L. Snyder, Henry D. Du Pont, Arno Dosch, Eugene E. Du Pont, Arthur H. Wood and William Hague.

A small reception at the Hadden residence, 7 East Seventy-sixth Street, followed the church ceremony. Mr. and Mrs. Riggs are going to Seattle, where they will live for the present.

Bracher-Coffin Wedding on Oct. 12.

Miss Catharine Morison Coffin, daughter of Cornelia H. Coffin, will be married to Vasa K. Bracher on Wednesday, Oct. 12, at 4 P. M., in All Angels' Church. The bride's brother, Daniel M. Coffin, will give her away. The maid of honor will be Miss Florence Rees, and the other attendants will be the Misses Jessie G. Phyfe, Elinor Talbot, Arline MacCanless of New York; Miss Esther Tomkins of Stony Point, N. Y., and Miss Grace Edmonds of Boston, Mass.; also Mrs. Allen M. Rogers.

The best man will be Bentley Gardiner and the ushers selected are Stanley Brown, Paul L. Phelan, Alvin Untermeyer, Rodney Procter, George Sloane, and Edward B. Spalding, all of New York.

Miss Julia Dent Grant to Wed.

ADRIAN, Mich., Oct. 6.—Miss Julia Dent Grant, daughter of U. S. Grant, Jr., of San Diego, Cal., will be married here Saturday to Edmund C. King of Portland, Ore. A license for the wedding was issued at the County Clerk's office here to-day. Miss Grant is a niece of Gen. Frederick D. Grant and granddaughter of Gen. Ulysses S. Grant. Though her home is in the West, she has spent much time in Adrian, where she often is the guest of A. H. Wood. The wedding will take place at the Wood residence. Mr. King is of a prominent Toledo family.

Miss Howland to Wed F. F. de Rham.

The engagement has been anounced to their relatives of Miss Nathalie Howland, the youngest of Frederick Newbold Lawrence's grandchildren, and a daughter of the late Mrs. Louis Meredith Howland, to Frederic F. de Rham, a son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles de Rham of lower Fifth Avenue.

The engagement of Miss Hortense Howland to Courtland P. Dixon, second, was announced about two weeks since, and the marriage of the third of the Howland sisters, Miss Elsie Howland, to Judge Frederick Kernochan took place some months ago.

Miss Howland is niece of Mrs. Mary Lawrence Keene and a cousin of Lawrence White, who married Miss Julia Fanshawe.

Mr. de Rham's elder brother, Henry Casimer de Rham, married Miss Dana of Boston, and his younger brother, Charles de Rham, Jr., is a student at Harvard.

LIPPINCOTT—KITCHEN.

The wedding of Miss Mary Kitchen, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. J. M. W. Kitchen of East Orange, N. J., and Wells Alger Lippincott of New York, took place last night at the North Orange Baptist Church. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Dr. William M. Lawrence, pastor of the church. The bridesmaids were Miss M. Constance Wilson and Miss Helen R. Budd of Orange. The best man was Henry M. Parmly of Roselle, N. J. The ushers were Victor C. Kitchen, brother of the bride; Henry S. Lippincott, brother of the bridegroom; Henry S. Hayward, Jr., of Elizabeth; George P. Fonda of East Orange, Harry Kriselbach of Brooklyn, and Henry S. Loomis of Westfield. After the wedding there was a reception at the home of the bride's parents in Prospect Street.

KELLOGG—WINTHROP.

The wedding of Morris W. Kellogg and Miss Marie Winthrop, daughter of Mrs. Buchanan Winthrop, took place at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon at the residence of the bride's mother. The Rev. Dr. Slattery of Grace Church officiated.

Miss Winthrop, who wore a trained white satin robe trimmed with lace, was unattended. Her brother, Henry Rogers Winthrop, gave her away. There were no ushers, and Mr. Kellogg's brother, Frank Kellogg, was his best man.

The immediate relatives only, numbering less than fifty, were present.

Pilar-Morin to Continue Pantomime.

Mme. Pilar-Morin has arranged to present "L'Enfant Prodigue" at the Carnegie Lyceum for a limited period, beginning on Oct. 17. Performances will be given each evening and on Wednesday and Saturday afternoons. A single performance of this pantomime by Michel Carre was given recently at the Liberty Theatre, and the reception given the piece has encouraged Mme. Morin to give other presentations.

Boy's Long Search for His Aunt.

William Clark of 505 West Twenty-third Street is seeking news of the whereabouts of his aunt, Mrs. Joseph Meeney. He asked THE TIMES last evening to help him find her, as he has found the search almost hopeless. He lost track of her when he was a boy about fifteen years ago. At that time he was in a Catholic institution and she lived in Fifty-ninth Street—he is not certain of the number. Before her marriage Mrs. Meeney's name was Kate Clancy. Clark is now employed in Atlantic City.

8,000 CHILDREN SING AT A MASS

VANNUTELLI THE CELEBRANT

The Cardinal Gives the Papal Blessing to the Children—Great Gathering of Church Dignitaries.

Cardinal Vannutelli saw the work of the Roman Catholic Church among its children yesterday. In the morning he was the celebrant at a pontifical mass in St. Patrick's Cathedral, at which 8,000 of the children of the archdiocese were present, and immediately after the mass he drove to the Carmelite Priory, First Avenue and Twenty-eighth Street, where nearly another thousand little ones were drawn up to receive him. But even the thousands of children that he saw were only a small fraction of those in the parochial schools, and it was reckoned that for every one who attended the mass there were eleven left at home.

The children came in the main from the schools near the Cathedral, but some of them, from as far afield as Harlem and the downtown districts, came by street car. The boys and girls of St. Charles's School, Eighth Avenue and 142d Street, arrived on two large trucks, on which had been fixed leather-covered benches, and they seemed to enjoy the ride.

With two Cardinals, the Archbishop and other Bishops present, the mass was a stately ceremony, but yesterday the children struck the keynote of the occasion. They filled every nook and corner of the Cathedral, and many of them were accommodated on the seats within the sanctuary, which had been set apart at the high mass of Wednesday for the clergy of the diocese, and even behind the sanctuary in the Lady Chapel. The nave was a mass of many-colored hats on one side, where the girls sat, and of carefully smoothed heads on the other, where the boys had their seats. Scattered among them were a few sisters and priests, who had come in charge of them.

Cardinal Vannutelli was assisted by the Rev. Charles R. Corley as assistant priest, the Very Rev. Dean Lings and the Rev. Isidore Meister as deacons of honor, the Rev. Matthew A. Taylor as deacon of the mass, and the Rev. John E. Burke as subdeacon.

The music chosen was especially suitable for children, and clear and sweet through the Cathedral rang the 8,000 voices of the children in the portions of the mass which they could sing. They had been carefully trained for the occasion, and were led from the pulpit by the Rev. John J. Kean, and from other points in the Cathedral by the Revs. John E. Young and Daniel O'Connor. The volume of sound was excellent, and at times completely drowned the singing of the regular choir, and the effect was so fine that it called for the special commendation of the Cardinals.

At the conclusion of the mass Archbishop Farley spoke for them. He declared that Cardinal Vannutelli had told him that one of the first pieces of information he would give to the Pope on his return to Rome was of the great gathering of children and of their remarkable singing. He would also ask the Holy Father to send his special benediction to the children of the archdiocese.

Cardinal Gibbons, said the Archbishop, had declared to him: "I did not hear a discordant note during the entire service." The Archbishop also told the children that he had made up his mind that the first high mass in the consecrated Cathedral after the consecration ceremonies had been completed should be for the children, to bring home to them that of all living creatures none is so dear to the Saviour as one of His little children.

The sermon was by Mgr. McGean, who explained to the children in simple language the meaning of the consecration of the Cathedral and the great work which Archbishop Farley had done in lifting in four months the debt of $800,000.

At the end of the sermon as the children sang the hymn "Holy God, We Praise Thy Name," a procession was formed, and Cardinal Vannutelli slowly passed down to the west door and back again, bestowing on the children the Apostolic blessing. First came a tall cross-bearer with the cross with the double arms, supported on each side by a candle-bearer. Then followed acolytes, clad in scarlet cassocks and lace surplices; then the Monsignori in their purple vestments, who were followed by the visiting Bishops, each of whom was attended by a priest as his chaplain.

After another cross Cardinal Gibbons marched in scarlet, his robe supported by pages in black velvet, and behind him came the stately Cardinal Legate, also in full robes as a Prince of the Church. As he marched slowly he turned from side to side. His right hand was uplifted with the sunlight sparkling on the emerald of his episcopal ring. Softly he spoke the words of blessing and the children bowed their heads as the noted ecclesiastic passed.

Just before the congregation dispersed all the children were called on to say the Lord's Prayer. Led from the pulpit, they repeated the familiar words in English and followed them with a "Hail Mary," and a special prayer for the Holy Father, the Archbishop and all the church. Coming as it did after the gorgeous ritual of the mass, this act of devotion of thousands of children kneeling and praying aloud together, gave a touch of simple sincerity to the service which was touching.

Cardinal Vannutelli is the Cardinal Protector of the Carmelite Order, and as such he went after mass to luncheon at the Carmelite Priory at First Avenue and Twenty-eighth Street. It was not a formal visitation, but at the priory he saw the actual condition under which the order works and something of the poorer sections of New York.

His Eminence was accompanied by Cardinal Gibbons, Archbishop Farley and other ecclesiastics, among them being Mgrs. Lewis, Lavelle, Mooney, Edwards, McMahon and Murphy. As they drove up to the Twenty-eighth Street entrance of the church they found that many of the Irish and Italians who inhabit that quarter had hung out American and Papal flags in their honor. The children of the Carmelite School, numbering almost 1,000, were drawn up to receive the Cardinal and sang as he arrived the hymn "Holy God, We Praise Thy Name."

The Cardinal went into the church and there gave the children the pontifical blessing, then passed on to the priory for the luncheon, at which he presided. He was escorted all over the house by the Rev. Father Southwell, Provincial of the Carmelites, and the Rev. Father O'Dwyer, pastor of the church.

Cardinal Gibbons left yesterday afternoon to return to Baltimore. In the evening the Papal Countess Leary gave a dinner and reception at her home, 1032 Fifth Avenue, to the other visiting ecclesiastics. Among those at dinner were Cardinals Vannutelli and Logue, the Apostolic Delegate Falconio, Archbishop Farley and 100 other clergy, among whom were the Vicar-General of the diocese, Mgrs. Mooney, Lavelle, Edwards, Hayes, and Mgr. James V. Lewis, secretary to Archbishop Farley.

The Rev. G. Meehan, rector of the Newport Church Countess Leary attends; the Rev. Matthew A. Taylor and the Rev. Terence E. Gilmartin, of the Church of the Blessed Sacrament, Broadway and Seventy-first Street; the Rev. David Hearn, rector of the Church of St. Ignatius, Park Avenue and Eighty-first street, and the Rev. Father McCloskey, rector of the Church of St. Francis Xavier, in West Sixteenth Street, were also invited.

JOHN S. HUYLER'S WILL.

Four Sons Get All the Stock of His Candy Business.

The will of John S. Huyler, who died Oct. 1 at Rye, N. Y., was filed for probate yesterday in New York County. The amount of Mr. Huyler's property is not indicated in the petition.

Mr. Huyler left $5,000 each to the New York Church Extension and Missionary Society, the New York Deaconess Home and Training School, the St. Christopher's Home for Children, and the Methodist Episcopal Church Home, $3,000 to the New York East Annual Conference of Long Island City, $2,500 to McAuley's Water Street Mission, and $2,000 to the Trustees of the New York Annual Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church.

He divided the capital stock of his candy business among his four sons, Frank De K. Huyler, David Huyler, Coulter M. Huyler, and John S. Huyler, Jr. He left his house and his residential real estate to his widow for life, and made substantial bequests to Abbie Huyler Held and John S. Huyler Held, his grandchildren. He left $5,000 to William C. Dodge, his stepson, and $5,000 to his friend, Lewis M. Fulton.

Theatrical Manager's Entire Estate Valued at That Sum by His Widow.

Josephine M. Pastor, widow of Tony Pastor, the theatrical manager, and administratrix of his will, which was probated in October, 1908, filed yesterday, in compliance with an order by Surrogate Cohalan, schedules of the property left by her husband. With the schedules was filed a waiver of service of the schedule by Abraham H. Hummel and Berthe Hummel, legatees, and executor and executrix under the will.

The estate consists of $6,153, including $152 worth of jewelry and $6,001 in savings banks. He also held notes of various prominent persons. One of them was a note from Robert Hilliard, value not stated. Other notes were listed as uncollected.

NOYES GIFTS TO CHARITY.

Relative of the Gould Family Disposes of Trust Funds in Her Will.

Emily M. Noyes, a relative of the Gould family, who died on Sept. 27, at her home, 150 West Fifty-ninth Street, left $1,000 to the Protestant Episcopal Sisterhood of the Diocese of New York, at Poughkeepsie, $50,000 to St. Mary's Free Home for Children, $1,000 to the Home of Mercy, Inwood, N. Y., $2,000 to the Home for Old Men and Aged Couples, and $10,000 to Virginia C. Clark, in trust for life, in a will filed for probate yesterday.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 6.—Mrs. Rebecca Harding Davis, the authoress, who died recently at Mount Kisco, N. Y., left an estate valued at $50,000.

MEMORIAL TO J. E. SIMMONS.

Joseph H. Choate and Others Eulogize Chamber of Commerce's Late President

The first meeting of the 1910-11 session of the Chamber of Commerce yesterday was converted into a memorial to J. Edward Simmons, the Chamber's President, who died on Aug. 5. Joseph H. Choate, as First Vice President, presided, and after a brief eulogy of the dead man introduced the speakers, who included William Sherer, Manager of the Clearing House Association; President R. H. Thomas of the Stock Exchange, and Anton A. Raven.

James G. Cannon on behalf of the Executive Committee of the Chamber introduced memorial resolutions which concluded:

"The death of Mr. Simmons, following so soon after those other great leaders in this organization—Charles S. Smith, Morris K. Jesup, John S. Kennedy, and John Crosby Brown—is a reminder of the quick passing of a generation of business men who have wrought mightily for the building up of this continent, and it is a call upon us who remain to give to the Chamber the same measure of devotion they displayed, and to maintain as they did its high standard of civic patriotism."

FOR THE TABLE.

Chestnuts in cream make a good dessert for the Fall. It is a delicate dish. To peel the chestnuts they are cut around, put on the stove in cold water, and allowed to boil five minutes, when both skin and shell can be removed. A pound of chestnuts is then put in a stewpan, covered with milk, and a small piece of vanilla added. When the nuts are tender and the milk absorbed they are crushed with a wooden spoon, and sweetened with a quarter of a pound of powdered sugar, and the mixture is passed through a fine sieve. It can be squeezed through a masher like potatoes, to come out in vermicelli shape around the edge of a dish, in which is a pyramid of whipped cream. A pint of cream is used for this quantity of chestnuts, slightly sweetened and flavored with vanilla.

To glaze chestnuts the shell and skin are removed by cooking five minutes in the same way. A half pound of chestnuts prepared in this way should be put in a stewpan, covered with water, a piece of butter the size of a walnut added, a few drops of caramel, and a pinch of white sugar. They should cook until the liquid is reduced.

The chestnuts may be used in a rechauffe of beef. What is left of the beef from a previous meal is chopped fine, a chopped onion is colored with one and one half ounces of butter and the same quantity of flour, moistened with stock or water, and half a tumbler of white wine is added. This is seasoned with salt, pepper, and nutmeg stirred together until boiling to make a not too thick sauce. The chopped meat is added last, and the whole cooked twenty minutes. Baked bread crumbs may be added if the hash is too thick. The gravy of the meat or any good gravy is poured over after it is placed on a dish. It is finished with parsley and chives, chopped and with the glazed chestnuts around it.

MARIE CAHILL HERE; BROADWAY LIVELIER

Sings, Dances, and Jollies Her Audience Into Splendid Humor in "Judy Forgot."

Marie Cahill came into the Broadway Theatre last night. Which means that things are lively in the neighborhood of the Forty-first Street corner. And though in "Judy Forgot" Miss Cahill forgot her own name—which is something no one else is going to do—she remembered perfectly how to sing a number of songs as only she can sing them, and to do a number of things, as only she can do them.

For instance, Miss Cahill did an imitation—if anything so nearly real may be termed that—of a lady in an opera box that was so excruciatingly funny it seemed nothing could be funnier, until this clever little artiste did another—this time of a matinee girl dealing out misinformation—which was possibly funnier still. And so it was throughout the evening, from one laughable experience to another, with interludes of melody most agreeable to hear and easy enough in tune and rhythm to carry home by car. This, too, after an opening that was not altogether propitious, for orchestra, singers, costumes, and scenery—especially costumes and scenery in the opening of the first act—were so very noisy that it had to be an exceptionally clever entertainment otherwise to overcome the handicap. However, before the piece had got very far along it was evident that it was the very kind of show Broadway likes—not always consistent, not always subject to acid test as to cohesiveness or coherency—but brimful of amusing things, with half a dozen or more talented people to get them over the footlights and add the values of personal talent of one kind or another.

Mr. Silvio Hein's score is particularly tuneful, and the book contains some very bright lines which Avery Hopwood admits he wrote and some very sad puns which we hope he didn't. Because Mr. Hopwood's friends say he is a nice young man and he has given evidence of being a talented one, and those puns—but they speak for themselves. Which is fortunate, for no one else is going to say a kind word for them.

What Judy forgot, as has been mentioned, was her own name, in consequence of which she is forced to believe for a time that she is an actress—with a book of press clippings to prove it—and a temporary husband who isn't her husband at all, and who gets paired off properly, as do all the others before the final curtain falls.

A rattling march song, for instance, with a fine massing of mostly feminine solidier persons in bright uniforms, and those two very clever dancers, Miss Ethel Johnson and James B. Carson, leading the steps with an unnamed chorus girl in green on the end of the line, front row, making the welkin ring with a voice that sounds too good to be anonymous.

Previously, the very wholesome and well-dressed Miss Truly Shattuck, assisted by the lively youngster, Mr. Joseph Santley, has scored in "The Song of the Honeymoon," and subsequently this same lady again has her innings in a very agreeable number "My Toreador," with attractive chorus accompaniments. In the meantime Miss Cahill, always the life of the party whenever she is in evidence—a sort of brimful and flowing over prize-package of melody and mirth—has done a coon song inimitably, though it's not the best of songs, and is now to set the whistlers and the hummers a-going with "Whoop-La," which is a lot more seductive than it sounds—is, in short, one of the catchingest things of its kind that has been heard in some time. Just by way of variety, then there is a divertissement—a society circus, so called—which introduces several clever specialties, and fills the stage with color. Everything sartorial and pictorial is mellower and prettier in the second act, and by this time people are apparently a little too tired to run in and out as frantically as before, so the entertainment gets more restful. As a matter of fact, though ginger in these shows is a good thing in its way, there may be a little too much of it, and there was in the first act last night. However, there is so much that is diverting, and the general tone of the show is so free from offence, and yet so full of fun and melody, that it ought to be a big success, and probably will be.

Miss Cahill's cleverness alone is worth the full price of the ticket—and she hasn't hesitated to surround herself with clever people. The chorus is comely, work hard, and executes some pretty dances arranged by Lewis Morton. And with the musical director in front who occupied the chair last night the company will never have to complain of a cold audience. If ever a man seemed to enjoy his work and that of other people it was this same Anton Heindl. So there's no need of wishing more power to his elbow.

MME. KALICH IN NEW PLAY.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Oct. 6.—Mme. Bertha Kalich, now under the direction of the Shuberts, opened her season at the Hyperion Theatre to-night in a new play by Samuel Shipman, entitled, "A Woman of To-day."

The theme of her new vehicle is, as the title indicates, modern. The story deals with a woman of exceptional business ability, who is responsible for her husband's commercial success. He deserted her for another and without his wife's guiding counsel his business is plunged into the bankruptcy courts. The man flees. How the abandoned wife assumes charge of his affairs and restores the business to a solid commercial basis forms one of the features of the story.

The supporting company includes Walter Hale, Frances Nordstrom, Juliet Shelby, Emily Watteman, Alfred Fisher, John Emerson, Charles Abbe, Frank Lyman, Walter Downing, J. K. Hutchinson, Joseph Winter, Frank Dawson, and Charlotte Snelby.

Henry W. Savage's Next Productions.

The next three productions that Henry W. Savage will make this season will be "The Great Name," a Viennese comedy, by Victor Leon; "Excuse Me," a light comedy, by Rupert Hughes, and "Everywoman," a modern morality play, by Walter Browne. All of these are well under way in regard to productions and casts.

AMUSEMENT NOTES.

Charles Dillingham began arrangements yesterday for the organization of a second company to play "The Girl in the Train," in Chicago and Boston, while the first company remains in New York. George Mitchell has been engaged for the role of the husband, and Aileen Hodgson for the prima donna role.

Henry B. Harris has placed a second "The Country Boy" company in rehearsal, to open about Nov. 1. After a tour of two weeks this company will be sent to Chicago for a run. Another company for the same play will be organized in December.

A professional matinee of "He Came from Milwaukee" will be given at the Casino Theatre next Thursday afternoon. Among the prominent actors who are expected to be present are Fritzi Scheff, E. H. Sothern, Julia Marlowe, Forbes-Robertson, Maxine Elliott, Marie Dressler, Marie Cahill, Emma Dunn, Lulu Glaser, Louise Gunning, and Marguerite Clark.

Marriage and death notices intended for insertion in The New York Times may be telephoned to 1000 Bryant.

KAHN.—Hebrew Orphan Asylum.—At a special meeting of the Board of Trustees of the Hebrew Orphan Asylum of the City of New York, held on Oct. 5, 1910, the following resolutions were adopted:

The Trustees of the Hebrew Orphan Asylum of the City of New York, having learned with deep regret of the sudden death of their friend and colleague, Mr. Moses Kahn, wish to give public expression to their sense of profound sorrow at this unexpected sad loss.

By his death the distressed and needy, to whose cause he at all times gave willingly of his time and his substance, lose a generous friend and benefactor; our institution loses a sincere and conscientious co-worker, and all those who knew him, a valued friend, his genial disposition and kind heart having made friends of every one he came in contact with.

Resolved, That the Trustees, as a token of their respect to the deceased, attend his funeral in a body, and that a copy of these resolutions be sent to the bereaved family.

LOUIS STERN, President.
THEO. OBERMEYER, Honorary Secretary.

The Opinion of Experts

If you have money to invest, you should focus your attention upon the situation now existing in the bond market. Prices of high-grade bonds are lower than they have been for a long time, notwithstanding that the value and earning power of the properties securing the bonds were never greater than at present. If, as is predicted by experts, lower interest rates are to prevail once the crops are moved, high-grade bonds purchased now are certain to prove profitable investments.

If you are especially interested in Railroad Bonds, write for our Circular No. 821. If you prefer high-grade Corporation Bonds yielding about 5%, write for Circular No. 823.

Improvement

The bond market shows indications of broadening, prices of investment bonds are slightly higher, and bonds are becoming scarcer. However, many safe first mortgage bonds are still obtainable to yield from 5% to 7%.

For instance, we offer a First Mortgage Steam Railroad Bond to yield 5.20%. The road is bonded at $8,000 a mile, and net earnings for the year ended June 30, 1910, were about 3 times interest charges. The country served is fertile and productive, and the road's freight revenue is largely derived from the transportation of agricultural products.

FINANCIAL MARKETS

Stocks Quiet and Stronger—Call Money Rates, 2½@2¾ Per Cent.

REALIZING PRESSURE LESS

Recoveries Following the Market—Banks Report Smaller Losses to Government on Routine Transactions.

The reaction in prices extending through the sessions of Tuesday and Wednesday ran still further in the first hour of business on the Stock Exchange yesterday, but at the end of that time it became apparent that the realizing sales responsible for the movement had run out and the market at once steadied, becoming strong later and closing finally with advances running to a point or so in many of the more active shares. There was no particular explanation forthcoming for the renewal of the demand for stocks following two days of selling, but presumably traders were influenced by the relative ease with which their profit-taking sales were absorbed, and were, therefore, willing to renew their position on the side of rising prices. Here and there through the market there were disclosed the operations of pools, especially in the so-called specialties, some of the industrials, and in lower priced shares generally. Trading was quiet, falling in point of volume much under that of Wednesday, but the recovery was nevertheless quite decided.

There was reassurance in the strength of American stocks in London before our own opening. So far, at least, there seems to have been not the least disturbance of consequence upon any of the foreign markets over the Portuguese troubles, nor so far as international bankers can ascertain is there any expectation of future disturbance from this source unless, and this is, of course, an important exception, the disaffection spreads to Spain. In matters nearer home there was little of novelty. Heavy sales of copper since the first of the week were reported, and the metal very naturally displays a firmer tendency in respect to prices, but the situation as a whole will be much clearer with the publication of The Copper Producers' figures for the month of September, which are now due. Attention was attracted directly to the cotton situation by the continued violence of the speculation in the local market, but this seems, so far as present conditions throw any light upon it at all, a movement quite independent of the actual crop position.

Money market affairs were progressing in a favorable way. The banks continue to report only small losses to the Government on routine transactions, the figures thus far since Friday making the total drain $1,143,000, as against $8,024,000 in the same period a week ago. The English Bank return disclosed heavy losses in reserves and cash, but this was to be expected in a statement which covered the period of heavy October disbursements, and in spite of the fall of above 3 per cent. in the proportion of reserves to liabilities the figure returned, 47.68 per cent., does not make unfavorable comparison for the season with other years.

CONSOLIDATED EXCHANGE.

Thursday.

Commission houses on the Consolidated Stock Exchange were buyers to a considerable aggregate. On the other hand the professional element on the floor opposed an improvement, and most of the day the leading stocks were offered by the room traders at small fractions below the New York Stock Exchange. Sales totaled 61,660 shares, with fifty different stocks on the list.

OUTSIDE SECURITIES

Strength Shown in Many Issues, with Scattered Gains in Activity on the Curb.

CHINO CONTINUES ACTIVE

Reports Transactions of 11,500 in Strong Market—Montgomery-Shoshone Up on Stockholders' Action.

Curb stocks with few exceptions yesterday showed strength, and in some issues considerable activity developed. Chino Copper continued active and sold up to 20⅞ from the opening price of 20¼, the close being at 20½ after reported transactions of 11,500. Giroux, Miami, and Nipissing each made small gains. Montgomery-Shoshone, whose stockholders yesterday decided at a special meeting to continue operations as long as a profit could be shown, had an active day. Transactions of 12,000 shares were reported at prices ranging between 10 and 25, the close being at the high level. Ray Central sold up from 1 11-16 to 1 13-16 on sales of 4,730 shares.

PHILADELPHIA PRICES.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 6.—A 2½ point drop in Union Traction this afternoon lent color to yesterday's report of a drastic readjustment of the local traction system's finances. It was said to-day that Mr. Stoesbury was likely to present some sort of ultimatum to the management before consenting to join their ranks. The stock fell from 44 to 42 and rallied back to 43 all in the first hour. Thereafter it hung around the latter quotation until about 2 o'clock, when it suddenly weakened again, going back below its previous low figure. It touched 41⅞ and closed at 42⅛, over 3,000 shares changing hands during the session. The remainder of the local list was comparatively quieter.

TOPICS IN WALL STREET.

Laundries for Bank Currency.

If the example which the Treasury Department is setting to the banks in the matter of washing paper money becomes the fashion, it may be possible to look ahead to a day when the banks will come into direct competition at employment agencies with housewives. The department has installed in the Treasury a complete laundry plant, costing about $1,500, which will launder 50,000 notes a day and, it is asserted, is effecting a great saving over the former methods followed by the department. It is said that if individual banks want to save the expense of sending their money to Washington for redemption, which entails transportation charges, they can do so by purchasing a small plant for $500 or $600 which will launder National bank currency at the rate of about 25,000 notes a day. The suggestion has been made that banks, particularly those far removed from Washington, might combine to operate a laundry, thus dividing the expense and bringing the total cost well under that involved in the redemption system. Probably any first-class laundress would prefer to work at her trade in a bank rather than in the ordinary household, so that unless there is an exodus from the Chinese establishments to prospective places with banks complications of a domestic sort are almost sure to result. The unhappy plight of the President of a bank competing with his wife for the services of the already diminishing laundress can readily be imagined.

Ex-Senator Clark on Copper.

Wall Street is always interested in what Senator William A. Clark has to say about copper conditions, perhaps because he rarely comments on them, and then rather directly to the point. He is quoted in dispatches from Butte yesterday to this effect: "We have been producing copper regardless of market conditions; there has been overproduction, buyers have held off, and the price of the metal has been depressed. Now production is not so great, and there are only about fifteen large producers in the United States, and two or three in South America and Europe. The producer has realized that he has made a mistake, and there is an agreement as to restriction of production, which agreement is not in restraint of trade. Production will be reduced until consumption overtakes it, and I believe that that time is about here, and that next year we shall see a better market."

Mexican National Additional Dividend.

Announcement was made from Mexico City, where the annual meeting of the stockholders of the National Railways of Mexico was held yesterday, that an additional dividend of 1 per cent. has been authorized on the company's first preferred stock. This, with the 3 per cent. already declared in the last year, brings the year's payments on this issue up to the full 4 per cent. to which it is entitled. At the last regular dividend declaration the stock was put on a 4 per cent. basis by an increase in the semi-annual dividend from 1 to 2 per cent. The payment authorized yesterday was decided upon in view of the very favorable results of the year which, after setting up an extra depreciation fund, left a substantial surplus over and above the 3 per cent. previously paid on the first preferred stock.

Bills of Lading Guarantee.

The report telegraphed to the financial district yesterday from Mobile that the bankers of that city had decided to give the guarantee of cotton bills of lading which the bankers of Europe have demanded, was not taken by bankers here as foreshadowing any serious defection from the agreement among bankers of this country to refuse to give the guarantee that the European bankers have demanded on all cotton bills accepted by them after Oct. 31. The point was made in this connection that if a few relatively small banking institutions undertake to guarantee cotton bills of lading, their name would soon be attached to so many bills that their guarantee would be regarded as of little, if any, value. In other words they would have to assume obligations so greatly in excess of their resources that their guarantee would not command any respect among other bankers and the very purpose of the guarantee would be frustrated. A New York banker greatly interested in the efforts to straighten out the disagreement over cotton bills of lading said yesterday that in his opinion the very bankers on the other side who are demanding that the banks here guarantee cotton bills of lading would, before long, discriminate against the bills of any bank here which would put their guarantee on cotton bills, for the reason that on second thought the foreign bankers would feel that the banks here which guaranteed cotton bills were taking an undue risk, the effect of which would be to lower their credit in the eyes of the banking community abroad.

No Change in Rubber Control.

One of the officers and principal stockholders of the Intercontinental Rubber Company denied yesterday that the entrance of representatives of important banking interests into the board meant any change in control. Control remains where it has been from the beginning, he said. It is well known that the dominant interests in the Mexican, as well as the Central African enterprises of the company, are the Aldrich-Ryan interests. The Guggenheims have never admitted more than a minor interest in the property, and as for the Rockefeller participation, it will be recalled that John D. Rockefeller, Jr., made it known that he had given up his small interest in Congo rubber at the time, a year or so ago, when attacks on Belgian methods in the Congo were at their height. The Guggenheim interests still retain three places in the directorate.

CHICAGO STOCK MARKET.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Oct. 6.—Further rise in Commonwealth Edison shares on the local Exchange strengthened the impression that officers of that company had something "up their sleeve" which, when announced, would readily explain why the stock has shown so much buoyancy of late. Diamond Match strengthened along with a report that certain officials out of harmony with the management of the company had resigned after selling out their stock. This seems an adequate explanation of the recent severe slump in the Match shares. Sears-Roebuck sold off in moderate offerings, and there were slight recessions in Swifts, People's Gas, Brick, and Box Board.

THE EUROPEAN MARKETS.

Happenings of a Day in London, Paris, and Berlin.

LONDON, Oct. 6.—Money was in good supply and discounts were easy to-day.

The stock market was somewhat irregular. Home rails were benefited by the good traffic returns, and fresh support hardened Kaffirs and Consols, but foreigners were dull on Paris offerings, while oil and rubber shares ruled easy.

The market for American securities opened steady and advanced, with Canadian Pacific shares leading. Later prices eased in the absence of support, but hardened again and closed dull but steady.

Bar silver steady 24 13-16d per ounce.

Money 2@2¼ per cent.

The rate of discount in the open market for short bills is 3¼ per cent.; three months' bills is 3⅝@¾ per cent.

Gold premiums are quoted at Madrid 7.15, and at Lisbon 3.50.

PARIS, Oct. 6.—The Bourse opened quiet to-day, but weakened under a further drop in Portuguese and Spanish rentes. The close was rather unsettled.

Three per cent. rentes 97f. and 22½c. for the account.

Exchange on London 25f. 23½c. for checks.

BERLIN, Oct. 6.—Trading on the Boerse was quiet to-day, with prices steady.

Exchange on London 20 marks 46 pfennings for checks.

Private rate of discount 3⅝ per cent.

Money 3½ per cent.

FOREIGN TRADE OPPORTUNITIES.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 6.—The Consular and Trade Report will note the following trade opportunities abroad. Further information regarding these may be obtained by addressing the Bureau of Manufactures, care of the Department of Commerce and Labor, Washington, D. C., giving the number of item referred to:

5,603. MACHINERY FOR MAKING CORSETS AND BUSKS.—An American Consular officer in Great Britain reports that a firm in his district, which manufactures in a very large way corset fasteners and busks, is desirous of being placed in communication as soon as possible with firms in the United States that specialize in that class of machinery.

5,604. PLANT FOR CREOSOTING RAILWAY TIES.—A large firm doing business in India advises an American Consular officer that it can get a contract for supplying soft wood creosoted railway ties or sleepers, provided it can establish a plant for creosoting them. This firm desires to get in touch as soon as possible with an American house that can supply such a plant that is up to date in every particular and is prepared to impart the necessary information for operating it.

5,605. NOVELTIES.—A report has been received from an American Consul in a Latin-American country stating that a business man in his district is anxious to receive catalogues and price lists of American novelties, toys, and seeds for both farm and garden.

5,606. AGENCY FOR AMERICAN MOTOR CARS.—An American Consular officer writes that a South African firm of motor car dealers is desirous of obtaining an agency for South Africa for an American manufacturer for a low-priced motor car, which is suitable for rough country roads and is simple in mechanism in order that it may be operated by farmers. It is also essential that the car be so constructed as to withstand the effects of crossing rivers and brooklets where there are no bridges.

5,607. COTTONSEED MEAL FOR FEEDING PURPOSES.—The Bureau of Manufactures is in receipt of a communication from a business house in Switzerland requesting to be placed in communication with firms in the United States exporting cottonseed meal for feeding purposes. There would seem to be a good market for this article if satisfactory arrangements can be made. References will be furnished to interested concerns.

HOME TRADE OPPORTUNITIES.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 6.—9. CONSTRUCTION OF RIVER CHANNEL.—Sealed proposals will be received at the office of the United States Reclamation Service, Portland, Ore., until Nov. 30, 1910, for the construction of the Lost River diversion channel; located about seven miles southeast of Klamath Falls, Ore. Klamath project, California-Oregon. This work consists of constructing about seven miles of drainage channel and involves about 330,000 cubic yards of excavation and embankment. For particulars address the United States Reclamation Service, Washington, D. C.; Portland, Ore., or Klamath Falls, Ore.

10. CONSTRUCTION OF CANALS AND OTHER STRUCTURES.—Sealed proposals will be received at the office of the United States Reclamation Service, North Yakima, Wash., until Nov. 1, 1910, for the construction of canals, wood-stave pipe, and other structures in the vicinity of Prosser, Wash. For particulars address the United States Reclamation Service, Sunnyside, or North Yakima, Wash., or Washington, D. C.

11. DREDGING.—Sealed proposals for dredging in Caloosahatchee River and entrance, Fla., will be received at the United States Engineer Office, Jacksonville, Fla., until Oct. 20, 1910. Information will be furnished on application to G. R. Spalding, Captain, Engineers, Jacksonville, Fla.

12. BRACKETS, SHAFTING, GEAR WHEELS, &c.—Sealed proposals will be received at the United States Engineer Office, Norfolk, Va., until Nov. 1, 1910, for furnishing cast-iron brackets, gear wheels, steel shafting, &c., for devices for transmission of range data at various batteries. A deposit of $10 required to insure return of drawings. Further infomation can be obtained on application to Mason M. Patrick, Lieutenant Colonel, Engineers, Norfolk.

THE COMMODITIES MARKETS.

The wheat market was irregular and at times quite active during the day. The opening showed some disappointment in the foreign news. The cables, while higher, were not up as expected, their prices ran off about ½c. This was followed by a good reaction, and prices in the early afternoon were at new high levels. This lasted but a short time, the market giving way under general selling pressure, due to disappointing cash demand. The Argentine news was conflicting. There were cables of favorable promises and cables of unfavorable promises. There seems to be, however, an idea that the acreage of wheat has been increased this year. The crop was subject to very dry conditions during the Winter, and recently it has been stated that about one-half the area would be benefited by the rain. The foreign demand has not been stimulated by the argentine news, although foreign prices were higher. Receipts in the West were again small, and in the Northwest the receipts run only about one-half as much as last year. B. W. Snow was out with an estimate placing the total wheat crop, Winter and Spring, at 684,000,000 bushels; this is an increase of 31,000,000 bushels over his estimate made on July 1, and compares with his estimate of 720,000,000 bushels last year. Cash wheat quoted: No. 2 red, Winter, $1.09⅜, elevator; No. 2 red, spot, nominal, $1.08, free on board, afloat, for export; No. 1 Northern, Spring, $1.22; No. 2 hard, Winter, new, $1.06; No. 1 Northern, Manitoba, $1.09¼.

Corn was fairly active and weak during the morning, due to good weather, which prevailed over a greater part of the corn belt. The selling was also affected by Snow's report, which claimed an improvement of 1.5 in condition, and predicted a crop of 110,000,000 bushels more than last year. The farmers' reserves were estimated at 158,000,000 bushels, or double last year. Later the market advanced with wheat, but reacted at the close. Cash corn quoted: No. 2, 60c, to arrive, cost, insurance, and freight, elevator, domestic basis; steamer, nominal, elevator, export basis. Sales include 24,000 bushels export No. 2, cost, insurance, and freight, Buffalo, for export.

Oats were moderately active, with prices showing but slight changes. Prices were steady most of the session after a rather early decline. This decline was due to the weakness in corn and the Snow estimate of a crop of 100,000,000 bushels, which confirmed the general relief of the record crops. The close was easy with other grain. Cash oats quoted: Standards, 39½c; No. 2, white, 40c; No. 3, white, 39c; No. 4 white, 38c; natural white, 39@40c; white, clipped, 39½@42c.

Provisions were active and strong most of the day. The live hog receipts were again very small and live hog prices were higher. Packing is still very deficient, the total interior packing was 75,000 less than last year for the corresponding week.

COTTONSEED OIL.

The market was rather quiet, with prices slightly easier in the early trading. There was scattered liquidation, also some selling against freer crude offerings in the South, but on the whole pressure was not heavy, and as a result a steadier tone developed. Bears were not aggressive, and during the later trading there was some rally, with offerings lightly influenced by the higher cotton and lard markets.

COTTON.

The market opened excited and strong, with prices 7@20 points higher. Values received their stimulus from the Liverpool cables, heavy rains in the cotton belt, and the appearance of cooler weather in Oklahoma and Texas. Traders who were sellers the past few days on the reactionary theory were disposed to change their views, and appeared anxious buyers during the early trading. On the advance, however, there was heavier realizing, influenced by the more favorable crop conditions. Reports received from a prominent Southern crop expert attracted a great deal of attention inasmuch as he predicted a yield of from 12,000,000 to 13,000,000 bales in the event of frost holding off. A good demand was noticeable on the decline, and tone was steady, with some buying on the good spot demand, and the favorable termination of the strike in Manchester. Near the close, however, further realizing resulted in a partial reaction.

The weather, excepting at the few points where rain was excessive, was generally favorable throughout the entire South. The picking of cotton is being rushed, but little attention seems to be paid to the actual hauling of it to market. The goods situation is evidently improving, and the report that the Knight mills will open up Monday, and that the Lancashire mills would also open up Monday, had a good deal of bearing on the market all day. Southern spot markets closed unchanged to ⅛c advance.

New York.—Spot cotton quiet, 5 points advance; middling uplands, 14.15c; middling Gulf, 14.40c.

COFFEE.

There appeared to be an absence of orders either way in the local coffee market during yesterday's session and after opening irregular with December 5 points higher and other months unchanged to 3 points lower, there was a steadier feeling and at the close values were unchanged to 5 points net higher, with total sales for the day amounting to 6,750 bags. The falling off in the volume in business seems to be due to the fact that certain prominent longs have liquidated their holdings and are waiting for a better buying basis for again entering the market as well as to a very quiet spot demand which had a tendency to discourage buying on the part of spot operators. The European markets were easier, Havre showing a decline of ¼@¾ fr., while Hamburg was ⅛@½ pfg lower, and in Brazil the Rio market was 75 reis lower and Santos showed decline of 50 reis. Receipts at primary points were again small compared with those of a year ago, Rio and Santos reporting 75,000 bags against 98,000 last year, while Jundiahy and Sao Paulo had 84,400 against 165,500 last year. A private cable from Santos said that the crop in that State will not be more than 8,000,000 bags and the flowering for the next crop is irregular. The popular estimates of the Santos crop range from 8 to 8½ million, but the fact that the receipts have been running ahead of expectations has caused some prominent operators here to express the belief that it would not be surprising if ultimate results should prove that early estimates were too low. Cost and freight offers were again firm and while there was an undeniable halt in the spot demand prices were generally firm with traders not disposed to make concessions as long as Brazil remains firm. Warehouse deliveries of Brazilian coffee at United States ports were 14,694 bags against 23,563 last week and 23,637 last year.

BOSTON STOCK MARKET.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, Oct. 6.—The local market was somewhat lower this morning in sympathy with the reactionary tendency in the New York list, good buying orders soon appeared in the copper shares, however, and prices advanced all along the line. North Butte and Massachusetts Mining were two features of the day's trading, both issues making new high records for the present movement. The general list continued strong throughout the latter part of the session, and the close was steady at about the high point for the day.

VICTOR MORAWETZ ON THE TRUST LAW.

Mr. Morawetz, the leading authority on the subject, has written a strong, clear, and illuminating article on the attitude of the Supreme Court toward the Sherman law. It will appear in

The Times Next Sunday.

In this article Mr. Morawetz clears up popular misapprehensions with regard to what the court has done in the way of strengthening or weakening the law. No one can afford to miss this article who wants to be informed about the real status of corporate business under the trust act.

THE SUNDAY TIMES SHOULD BE ORDERED IN ADVANCE.

GEORGE WATSON WINS SIX BLUE RIBBONS

Morristown Society Turns Out for Annual Horse Show at Field Club.

Special to The New York Times.

MORRISTOWN, N. J., Oct. 6.—The thirteenth annual show of the Morristown Field Club began here to-day under favorable auspices, showing the greatest all-around entry in the history of the organization, with three hundred and odd nominations.

All roads led to the eighth of a mile ellipse of the club, and "old Sol" beamed down with almost Summer power. This enabled many of the fair sex, and their number was legion, to array themselves in costumes most fetching, and enjoy the occasion to the utmost satisfaction.

The judging of the seventeen classes decided was done with promptness and dispatch, and from the first horn by young John Styles to the last carded event there was never a hitch in the arrangements.

One incident which had all the earmarks of a serious accident served to quicken the heart action of every one who witnessed the occurrence, this being in the class for hunters, in which Grafton H. Pyne had a narrow escape from serious injury. Riding Lady Betty, he was unhorsed at the first jump he tried. Succeeding this poor luck he had made several circuits at a fair pace over the jumps, when in what was to have been his first try he rushed the mare too fast at the barrier, a brush jump, where she stumbled.

The mare went to her knees, throwing Pyne well astride the top of her head, in which position he remained for fully five seconds, before being forced back on the mare through her recovering herself.

The winner turned up in Sunday Morning, U. D. Benner's champion and many times winner. This mare went at the jumps, brush and fence, with nary a semblance of prop before the leap or pause on landing, but was right into her running. Not content with the blue ribbon, and its accompanying trophy, Mr. Benner presented the second horse in the event, Willow King. With this pair and several others to be shown to-morrow and Saturday, Mr. Benner confessed to having won more than 300 blue ribbons.

Florham Stud Farm (George Watson) carried away the lion's share of the prizes to-day, scoring six firsts, to say nothing of the other places. Three right off the reel, in the opening classes, showed that these entries were to be reckoned with, and they kept up their winning gait throughout the afternoon. De Witt C. Flanagan was the only other exhibitor to tally more than one win.

An attractive number proved to be the tandems. The contestants were so evenly matched that it required quite long-drawn-out work to separate them. The manners, style and conformation, however, of De Witt C. Flanagan's Rataplan and Prince Royal finally filled the eye of the judge and he awarded them first prize.

Ponies under saddle proved a decidedly interesting class, as four-fifths of the entrants were ridden by little girls, who certainly managed their mounts well, no matter what the style of pace. But one of them essayed the side saddle. Remington, ridden by Miss Helen H. Jenkins, found the greatest favor in the eyes of the judges, doing everything they asked of him.

Florham Stud Farm had another winner in the four-in-hand class, triumphing over Otto H. Kahn's four. So closely were they matched, however, that in conjunction with other processes of elimination Mr. Solomon got up on the box of each and put the four through their paces. After this, it seemed hard to pick a winner, and the judges asked Mr. Haight, a judge in other classes, to help them out in their adjudication, but he refused to help them out of an apparent difficulty, and they finally made their award.

Supplementing their victory in the tandem class, De Witt C. Flanagan's Rataplan and Prince Charming, in combination with Kentucky, three perfectly matched bay geldings, won the honors for the best collection of three horses the property of any one exhibitor, shown singly in harness, and one of which had to be suitable for and shown to a rig. There were nine horses in the class, and the judges lost no time in arriving at a verdict. Florheim Stud furnished the winner of the red ribbon, and Brook Farm third.

Summary of the events:

Novice Harness Horses; prize offered by B. Ogden Chisholm.—Won by Florham Stud Farm's Florham Gold Finder.

Maiden Saddle Horses; prize offered by Charles W. Armour.—Won by Florham Stud Farm's Florham Stud Leap; Harry C. Card's Rosario, second.

SORG GETS NINE FIRSTS.

New Yorker Carries Off Day's Honors at Brockton Horse Show.

BROCKTON, Mass., Oct. 6.—"Boston Day" at the Brockton Fair drew a crowd of 80,000 persons for the harness racing events, the Horse Show, and the aviation exhibition. Grahame-White, the English aviator, made some short air trips, but a high wind prevented more spectacular flights.

[illegible] A. Sorg of New York carried off the day's honors in the Horse Show with nine firsts, while Alfred G. Vanderbilt of Oakland Farm, R. I., and Edwin H. Weatherbee of New York divided up four firsts. Mr. Sorg and Mr. Vanderbilt carried their competition through the [illegible] third prizes, Mr. Vanderbilt [illegible] seconds and four thirds, while [illegible] captured four seconds and [illegible]

MORNINGSTAR AGAIN WINNER

Takes Fourth Block of Billiard Match with Hoppe, 429 to 400.

Ora Morningstar won again last night in the 18.1 balkline billiard match against Willie Hoppe at Daly's Academy. Morningstar made a total of 429 points to Hoppe's 400 in thirty-two innings. Hoppe is still 162 points in advance of his opponent, although Ora has defeated the champion for three consecutive nights. The poor showing made by Morningstar Monday night when he got only 137 is proving a big handicap. Morningstar's average last night for the thirty-one innings was 14 5-31, while Hoppe's was 12 16-32 for the thirty-two innings shot by him. The longest run was made by Morningstar of 89 points in his seventh inning.

Little was accomplished by either man in the first two innings. Hoppe failed completely in both, while his opponent made 8 and then fell down on a difficult draw shot. Hoppe followed by making a run of 88, and missed on an easy cushion bank, but in the next six innings his average was 35 and his total 210. Morningstar was only 35 in his sixth inning, but succeeded in making a run of 89 in the seventh. Morningstar failed again in the eleventh and twelfth and Hoppe made 15 in the thirteenth, nothing in the fourteenth, and ran 34 in on his next shot.

Morningstar, after making a run of 20 in the twenty-third frame, followed by running 32 in the twenty-fourth, passed his opponent here with a total of 354 points to 334. Hoppe played a very poor game between the eighteenth and twenty-seventh innings, and only made an average of 3 6-9 for the nine innings, while Morningstar's average was 19 3-9 for the same number. The total after four nights' play is 1,600 for Hoppe and 1,438 for Morningstar. Last night's score:

Hoppe—0 0 88 17 29 34 0 11 30 0 3 6 15 0 34 18 12 15 2 0 2 0 1 15 0 3 2 15 18 0 12 8. Total—400.

Results of Women's Tennis Play.

Mrs. William T. Pouch, paired with Miss Edith Handy, won the feature match in doubles of the women's metropolitan championship yesterday on the clay courts of the West Side Tennis Club, at 238th Street and Review Place. They were opposed by Miss Elizabeth H. Moore and Mrs. Frederick Schmitz, the present indoor champion. The match was in the second round and was exceedingly fast tennis. The best match in the singles was between Mrs. Schmitz and Miss Adelaide Browning, the latter being affected by the heat. Mrs. Schmitz won two sets to one, and the match completed the semi-final round, the players left in being Mrs. Schmitz, Miss Hammond, Miss Wagner, and Miss Noyes. Miss Hammond was paired with Calhoun Cragin in the mixed doubles, and they met defeat at the hands of Miss Green and A. S. Runyon. The summary follows:

Metropolitan Championship, Women's Singles, Third Round—Miss Marie Wagner defeated Mrs. J. O. Blanchard, 6—2, 6—1; Miss Louise M. Hammond defeated Miss Edna Wildey by default; Mrs. Frederick Schmitz defeated Miss Adelaide Browning, 4—6, 6—3, 6—3.

Women's Championship Doubles, First Round—Mrs. William H. Pouch and Miss Edith Handy defeated Miss E. Johnstone and partner, 6—2, 6—3.

Second Round—Mrs. William H. Pouch and Miss Handy defeated Miss Elizabeth H. Moore and Mrs. Frederick Schmitz, 6—2, 7—5; Mrs. J. O. Blanchard and Mrs. George V. de Gersdorff defeated Mrs. A. B. Oeder and Miss Pauline Donvan, 7—5, 6—1.

Mixed Doubles, First Round—Miss Louise M. Hammond and Calhoun Cragin defeated Miss Laura Fisher and Mr. Pope, 6—1, 6—1; Miss Dorothy Green and A. S. Runyon defeated Miss Clara Kuttroff and partner by default; Miss E. Little and G. M. Washburn defeated Miss Emily Deitz and G. S. Plympton, 6—2, 6—1; Miss Noyes and Mr. Biddle defeated Miss M. Rice and partner by default; Miss Haight and G. M. Church defeated Miss A. Cragin and Arthur S. Cragin, 6—2, 6—1.

Second Round—Miss Green and A. S. Runyon defeated Miss Hammond and Calhoun Cragin, 9—7, 6—3.

Ressamnio Wins Foot Race.

George Ressamnio of the Irish-American Athletic Club won the three-and-a-half-mile cross-country run, held last night by the Dominican Lyceum of 163 East Sixtieth Street, in 21 minutes and 30 seconds. J. Williams of the New West Side A. C. was second in 22:11, and M. Beck third in 22:15. The finish was not a close one, however, and the only exciting feature of the contest was the final sprint between M. Beck, unattached, and J. Larkin of the Mohawk A. C. for third place. Beck proved the better of his opponent, however, and finished about a yard ahead of Larkin.

Twenty-eight runners started from the clubhouse at 8:45 P. M. over the course that led through Sixtieth Street to Fifth Avenue, then up to Seventy-ninth Street, through Central Park to Eighty-first Street, and Central Park West, returning down Central Park West to Fifty-ninth Street, and thence east to the club. The order of finish of the first ten: George Ressamnio, Irish-American A. C., 21:30; J. Williams, New West Side A. C., 22:11; M. Beck, unattached, 22:15 4-5; J. Larkin, Mohawk A. C., 22:16; S. Tamanio, Florence A. C., 22:18; G. Corley, unattached, 22:19; G. Heffernan, Pastime A. C., 22:20; J. McDermott, Pastime A. C., 22:21; T. Hogan, Holy Cross, 23:09, and A. J. Nebes, Morningside A. C., 23:11.

Fordham Seniors Win on Track.

The annual Fall inter-class games of Fordham University were held yesterday at Fordham Field. It was hoped by Track Manager F. Kennedy, '11, that the meet would bring out new material from which to select men to fill the places vacated by Frank Geary and "Bob" Eller of last year's relay team. C. McDonough, '13, and J. Meagher, '13, showed up well, the latter giving J. McCaffery a struggle for honors in the 100 yards. The highest score was made by the senior classmen, with the sophomores a close second. The summary:

100 Yards—Won by J. McCaffery, '11; second, J. Meagher, '13; third, C. McDonough, '14. Time—11 seconds.

Shot Put—Won by T. Scanlon, '11; second, H. White, '11; third, J. Meagher, '13.

Standing Broad Jump—Won by J. Meagher, '13, distance, 9 feet 6 inches; second, J. McCaffery, '11, distance, 8 feet 10½ inches; third, C. McDonough, '14, distance, 8 feet 10 inches.

Marto Beats Kid Burns.

Johnny Marto and Kid Burns settled their pugilistic differences last night at the Long Acre A. C. in a ten-round bout, which went the limit, and showed Marto the victor by a narrow margin.

The Kid was pretty well beaten up, and not a nice sight to look at at the finish. Marto had a damaged eye, which he got from repeated jabs in the fifth round. Burns's best work was done at long range, jabbing being his best card. Marto strove at infighting, and frequent leading, and by stiff body punching had his man in trouble pretty much throughout the latter half.

Burns made a strong stand in the last round, and caught the eye of those who were willing to forget Marto's long lead. Toward the finish Marto missed many swings, but brought his left up inside at short range in a manner damaging to his opponent. Several awful examples of boxers were forced on the members as preliminary "goes," with the result that when they didn't quit they were chased out of the ring by the referee.

New Basket Ball League.

Thirty basket ball clubs formed a new association last night at Coney Island, and while objecting to the proposed intention of the Amateur Athletic Union to control their league have scheduled a series of games for players of 135 pounds and under.

The clubs in the proposed series, which will begin in two weeks, are the Cubs, Young People's Association, Dorian Five, Chatham A. C., Happy Five, St. Brendan A. C., Council Triangle Five, Temple Five, Lenox Five, Roosevelt Five, Florence A. C., All Scholastics, and the West End Field Club.

For Columbus Day two games will be played between the best fives in the new league. All other games will be played on Tuesday and Friday nights.

Rifle Range for Columbia.

It was announced by the management of the Columbia rifle team yesterday that arrangements have been completed for a range on the campus. The Morningside team has succeeded in the past few years to make a good showing in marksmanship, but this year with a regulation range within such easy distance will, it is expected, see many more out for the team, and an increase in the efficiency of the members when they practice daily. The range will be situated in a tunnel running parallel to the new philosophy building which is being erected on Amsterdam Avenue, south of 116th Street.

Meeting of New York Y. C.

Vice Commodore C. Ledyard Blair presided at the fifth general meeting of the New York Yacht Club at its Forty-fifth Street Clubhouse last night, and five navy, two regular, and one flag member were elected. The Nominating Committee for 1910-11 was elected, and consists of J. P. Morgan, L. C. Ledyard, F. G. Bourne, Stuyvesant Wainwright, S. H. Von Stade, R. F. Doremus, Col. Daniel Appleton, [illegible], Wilson Marshall, and [illegible]. The remainder of the [illegible] routine business.

YALE CUTS DOWN TICKET ALLOWANCE

Grads and Under-Classmen May Have Two — Three for Juniors and Seniors.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW HAVEN, Oct. 6.—The Yale and Harvard football managers are certain that there will be the biggest crush on record for tickets to their annual game here this year, and to-night the Yale Association issued a statement which announces that only two tickets will be allowed to each alumnus and underclassman. The juniors and seniors only will be allowed three each. Heretofore all Yale alumni and undergraduates have been allowed three tickets for the annual game.

The Yale stands will hold only 33,000 persons, but the football managers say that they could sell 150,000 seats if they had them.

For six weeks workmen have been removing unsound timbers from the stands at Yale Field, where the Yale-Harvard game will be played. It is understood that the Princeton stands, where the Eli-Tiger match will be fought, will seat 28,000 persons.

There was no let-down in the Yale football drill to-day because of the oppressive heat. A twenty-minute scrimmage was ordered, and the first, second, and third elevens all got a chance at the scrimmaging before it closed. All the actual football was in secret. The players lost weight, but there were no injuries. The line-up shifted continually, starting from the combination which began yesterday's game against Tufts, and working down through the substitutes. Deming's general playing was particularly brilliant. Two scores were made by the 'Varsity, both on old-fashioned football. The coaches feel that the team needs drilling in the fundamentals. As Yale expects a scrappy game with Holy Cross on Saturday no more scrimmaging is likely before that match.

It was learned to-day that Jack Savage, end and full back last year, is in scholarship troubles, and will not be available before Nov. 1. Childs and Parker, the strong tackle and guard, have been cleared of all complications and resumed practice to-day.

Foster Sanford had charge of the linemen to-day, and Billy Bull coached the backs in drop kicking, giving special attention to Capt. Daly, Philbin, and Deming. Sanford has shifted Greenough from guard to centre, and instructed him an hour to-day in snap-back detail. Jack Owsley arrived to-day to coach the backs. Thomas St. Germaine, a full-blooded Indian, formerly of the University of Wisconsin, joined the second eleven to-day. He will play with it all Fall. He weighs more than 200 pounds and is a valuable addition to the guards.

CLASS TO THESE DOGS.

More Than 300 Boston Terriers in Madison Square Garden Show.

Society and the Boston terrier is the attraction to be revived to-day when the Boston Terrier Club of New York begins a two days' exhibition at Madison Square Garden. More than 300 of this favorite class of little fellows will be shown, and the club officials say the collection will be the finest New York or any other city has ever seen.

Kinsman which has sired more winners than any other terrier of his time, will be exhibited by his owner, Joseph M. Dale of Brooklyn. George F. Parker will be represented by a number of fancy terriers, among them Champion Sister Carrie, a prize winner which has never suffered defeat in a notable career. D. W. Raymond's Champion Hunni Bun is another high-class fellow, beautifully marked, and holder of many trophies. Mrs. F. A. Dallen's Champion Dallen's Spider will be among the classy entries. Miss Alice Wheten will have Wheten's Ponto, which has a style of carriage and markings all his own. T. A. Church will exhibit Billso Delmar, an alert looking terrier. Mrs. E. A. Rine of Newark, N. J. will be there with three 6-months-old puppies which she has bread herself. Mrs. Pell enters Elad, and Champion Lady Careless Muggins from the Raymond kennels will be another entry and the rest of the 300 are all of the class which is in present popularity.

Among the patronesses and patrons of the show are Mrs. Herbert Harriman, Miss Anna Sands, Mrs. C. Davies Tainter, Mrs. Charles S. Bates, Mrs. Brady Harris, Mrs. Robert E. Livingston, Mrs. Thomas L. Hamilton, Mrs. Benamin Weaver, Mrs. G. Foster Rawlings, Mrs. L. L. White, Mrs. Frank K. Sturgis, Mrs Lloyd Aspinwall, Mrs. Alfred Conkling, Mrs. Bertram Sears, Mrs. E. W. Ray, Mrs. J. Carpenter, and Messrs. Bertram Sears, Harry Harnickel, Hamilton Pell, John G. Bates, Harry Peters, and C. Davies Tainter.

CASH PRIZE LEAGUE.

New Organization Formed to Assume Control of Professional Athletics.

It is anticipated that within a short while what will be known as the Cash Prize Athletic League will be in full swing in this section of the country. Charlie White, the boxing referee; "Sparrow" Robertson, and a well known baseball enthusiast, are the moving spirits of the new organization.

They declare that the looseness of many amateurs hereabouts is responsible for their boosting of the new organization, coupled with the known position in its advocacy taken by James E. Sullivan, president of the Metropolitan Association A. A. U., who says it will be a good thing for amateur sport generally.

Dates have been secured in the Eighth and Sixty-ninth Regiments in New York; Thirteenth and Fourteenth in Brooklyn, in armories in Newark, Jersey City, New Haven, and Hartford, in all of which it is planned to hold meets, which, aside from calling out the professionals, will enlist the competitive activities of certain grafting amateurs the A. A. U. would like to get rid of.

ALCO

TWO TIME WINNER OF THE Vanderbilt Cup

It was won by Harry Grant with the same six-cylinder, sixty horsepower stock car in both 1909 and 1910. The average speed for 278.08 miles was at the rate of 65.16 miles per hour. This breaks all records for long distance road races in America.

Other cars were entered in teams and practically relayed against the ALCO, but this lone entry beat all the combinations. It beats all.

It was the exclusive ALCO steel and iron and ALCO construction methods that did the trick. These are the same in all models.

Our Boys' Clothing

We have never before shown so many boyish, but stylish, fabrics as in this season's suits for the little fellows, and every one is strictly all-wool.

Boys' Norfolk Suits, in cheviots, tweeds, cassimeres and blue serge, $5.00 to $16.50.

Double-breasted Suits, two and three buttons, knickerbocker Trousers, up to 17 years, $5.00 to $18.00.

New lines of Reefers and Russian Overcoats for the little boys from 3 to 9 years, in navy blue and Oxford cheviot, nicely lined, at $5.00.

Mixed cheviots, chinchillas and heavy weight cassimere Coats at $6.00, $8.00, $10.00 and $12.00.

Boys' long military collar Overcoats, ages 10 to 17 years, of our own make, $12.00 to $28.00.

Boys' Reefers from $6.50 to $15.00.

Boys' and Youths' long Trousers Suits, ages 15 to 21 years, $10.00 to $30.00.

Every week there are new styles added, which keep our stock practically complete all the time.

A splendid assortment of Boys' Hats, Rubber Coats, Rain Coats and Furnishing Goods.

What the Well Dressed Woman Will Wear

In addition to the usual sections Next Sunday's Times will contain special sections devoted to the Fall and Winter Fashions.

One of these will contain

Fine Photographs of French Gowns

Personally selected by Anne Rittenhouse in Paris from hundreds of creations by famous dressmakers. They will show what will be

The Smartest Things in Evening Gowns,
Frocks for the Afternoon,
French Hats for Winter,
Fur Coats in Smart Shapes,
Gowns and Turbans for Young Girls,
Costumes for the Restaurant.

They are by such masters of French dress as Paquin, Bernard, Buzenet, Martial & Armand, Weeks, Doeuillet, Laferriere, Jenny, Bechoff-David & Giraud.

What Creators of Fashions Say

Will also be told after personal talks with them. These dictators of what the well dressed women of the world wear guard their choicest gowns and their pronounced novelties until the near approach of Fall. Among the new things told about will be choice creations of Worth, Callot, Carlier, Drecoll, and Jean Halle.

No woman who wishes to keep in touch with fashions should miss this complete and authoritative presentation of the styles of the coming season. Be sure to order early

HUGHES RESIGNS; WHITE TAKES OATH

LEAVES FOR WASHINGTON

Hughes the First to Congratulate Gov. White—Mrs. White Greets Her Husband with a Kiss.

ALBANY, Oct. 6.—Brief and simple ceremonies marked the retirement of Gov. Charles E. Hughes, and the inauguration of Lieut. Gov. Horace White of Syracuse as his successor until Jan. 1 next, in the audience room of the executive chamber this afternoon.

Gov. Hughes left for New York at 4:28, enroute for Washington to join Mrs. Hughes and members of his family who preceded him there a week ago to occupy their new home. He will assume his new duties as a member of the United States Supreme Court next week.

Gov. Hughes's resignation, which he tendered to Secretary of State Koenig, read:

> To the Legislature:
>
> I hereby resign the office of Governor.
> CHARLES E. HUGHES.

It is provided by law that a resignation of a Governor must be addressed to the Legislature, but that it takes effect immediately after it is filed with the Secretary of State. On receiving this letter, Secretary of State Koenig announced to Lieut. Gov. White that by virtue of the Constitution he had become Governor of the State. The oath of office was then administered to Gov. White and he transcribed his signature in the record book.

Mr. Hughes was the first to congratulate the new Governor. Mrs. Horace White, who was the only woman present, greeted her husband with a kiss.

In addition to his appointment of Col. Treadwell as Military Secretary, Gov. White reappointed Adjt. Gen. Verbeck and the members of Gov. Hughes's military staff with the single addition of First Lieut. James W. Wilson of Geneva, who is to fill a vacancy. He also reappointed Roger P. Clark of Binghamton as his legal adviser.

Gov. Hughes, by working day and night for the past several days, had practically disposed of all pending important matters. Before resigning he gave a luncheon in the Executive Mansion to Lieut. Gov. White and his close associates in the State Government.

Gov. White served many years as a Senator from Onondaga County, being one of the leaders of that body. In 1908 he was elected Lieutenant Governor, but retires from public life on the first of the coming year.

LATEST CUSTOMS RULINGS.

Question of Discount Results in Imposition of Higher Duty—Other Decisions.

A decision was handed down yesterday by Thaddeus S. Sharretts of the Board of United States General Appraisers affecting the market values of imitation precious stones shipped to this country by Anton Fischers Sohn of Wiesenthal, Austria. Some of the gems were entered at 11 crowns per 100 dozen, while other stones were invoiced at 12 crowns for each 100 dozen. The Appraiser of the Port considered that the values were inadequate, and imposed prices he deemed more in harmony with the foreign market values. General Appraiser Sharretts sustains the action of the local Appraiser by making the discount 2 per cent. instead of 5 per cent., as invoiced by the exporter.

General Appraiser McClelland sustains the action of the local Appraiser in advancing violins 10 per cent. over entered, or invoice prices. They were entered at this port as coming from Arthur Oettel of Markneukirchen, Germany. The violins were entered at prices ranging from 80 marks per dozen to 102 marks a dozen. Appraiser Wanmaker held the entered valuations to be inadequate, and exacted duty on a basis considerably higher. At the hearing before Mr. McClelland the evidence was of such a character that the General Appraiser upheld the advance imposed by the local Appraiser to the extent of 10 per cent.

All silk chiffons from G. Combier & Co. of Lyons were entered at 2.75 francs, and advanced to 3 francs per metre. The discounts allowed are 20 per cent., 2 per cent., and 1 per cent. Cases and packing are included.

THE WEATHER.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 6.—The storm which has been causing remarkably heavy showers in the Ohio Valley and Lower Mississippi and Gulf regions has continued to move eastward slowly. The rain has already overspread the South Atlantic States, while in northern sections it has just reached the eastern mountain ranges. Flood warnings have been issued for the lower Wabash River and the interior rivers of the State of Ohio, as a consequence of the excessive rains. In the upper lake region and beyond the Mississippi River fair weather is now general; moreover, the temperature is rising again throughout the West; but in the sections lying between the Mississippi River and the Appalachians a considerable fall has occurred since Wednesday evening.

The temperature in the Northwest is now far above the seasonal normal. The prolonged drought will be broken in the Atlantic States during Friday, where general rain will fall, accompanied by much cooler weather. Fair weather with slowly rising temperature is promised for eastern sections Saturday and Sunday; moreover, fair and comparatively warm weather is indicated for western and central sections for the next two or three days.

The winds along the New England Coast will be moderate to brisk southwest, shifting to northwest and north; Middle and South Atlantic Coast, moderate to brisk north to northwest.

FORECAST FOR TO-DAY AND SATURDAY.

Eastern New York, New Jersey, New England, and Eastern Pennsylvania—Rain and colder Friday; Saturday and Sunday fair; moderate to brisk northwest winds, becoming variable.

The temperature record for the twenty-four hours ended at midnight, taken from the thermometer at the local office of the United States Weather Bureau, is as follows:

	1909.	1910.		1909.	1910.
3 A. M.	53	69	4 P. M.	71	82
6 A. M.	51	68	6 P. M.	69	78
9 A. M.	59	76	9 P. M.	65	76
12 M.	67	79	11 P. M.	62	73

This thermometer is 108 feet above the street level. The average temperature yesterday was 76; for the corresponding date last year it was 61; average on the corresponding date for the last thirty-three years, 60.

The temperature at 8 A. M. yesterday was 69; at 8 P. M. it was 75. Maximum temperature, 83 degrees at 4:30 P. M.; minimum, [illegible]. Humidity, [illegible] per cent. at 8 A. M., 80 per cent. at 8 P. M.

IN THE REAL ESTATE FIELD

Two Important Sales in the Business Section of City Aggregating $1,000,000—Fifth Avenue Plot Brings $665,000—Sale in New Park Avenue Residential Colony.

Two sales in the business section of Manhattan aggregating close to a million dollars were announced yesterday. The largest of the two deals was the purchase of a group of properties having a frontage of 100 feet both on Ann and Fulton Streets, just east of Nassau, by Mandelbaum and Lewine.

For several months past negotiations have been pending for the sale of the parcels, which include 119 to 125 Fulton Street and 44 to 50 Ann Street, each 25 by 100. About $750,000 is involved in the sale, the property being held by four different owners.

There has been little new building in this particular section for several years past, and it is said that as soon as the leases on the properties sold expire, on May 1 next, a modern office building of the skyscraper type will be erected on the site. Horace S. Ely & Co. and the Ruland & Whiting Company were among the brokers who negotiated the sale.

The second transaction was a few blocks further north, on Warren Street, where the five-story business building known as No. 54, on a lot 25 by 100, was reported to have been sold by Mrs. Sarah A. Brevoort. The parcel is located between Church and West Broadway. It adjoins on the west the holdings of the Hoffman Estate, which runs through from Warren to Chambers Street, having a frontage of fifty feet on each street.

Resale in "Penn" Loft Zone.

M. & L. Hess, have resold for the Realty Holding Company 234 and 236 West Thirty-sixth Street, to the Thirty-sixth Street Realty Company.

The plot, which is 40 by 98.9, is covered by old buildings. No definite plans have been made for the improvement of the property.

$665,000 for Fifth Ave. Plot.

Horace S. Ely & Co. bought for a client yesterday the property at 416 Fifth Avenue, on which is an old four-story dwelling, for $665,000. It was sold at the Vesey Street Salesrooms yesterday, by order of the Court, in partition for the Johnson Estate, by Joseph P. Day. The price paid is almost if not quite a record for inside Fifth Avenue plots, averaging $177 a square foot.

The property occupies a plot 28.3 by 133 feet on the west side of the avenue, near the northwest corner of Thirty-eighth Street, being separated by one plot from the Brick Presbyterian church on the Thirty-seventh Street corner, and is opposite the large Anderson plot, recently leased for a long term to Bonwit, Teller & Co. The property has easement rights to a 12-foot alley at the rear, a highly valuable advantage.

The bidding was started at $500,000 by Horace S. Ely & Co. There were three other bidders and twenty-one bids in all were made.

For the Johnson Estate was also offered at the same sale the four-story dwelling at 102 East Thirty-sixth Street, a plot 18.7 by 74.8, adjoining the southeast corner of Park Avenue. It was bought by Newbold T. Lawrence for $37,750.

Seventh Avenue Corner Sold.

William J. Roome & Co. in connection with Mooyer & Marston have sold for the Farmers' Loan & Trust Co., as trustee for the estate of Lawrence Hutton, the northeast corner of Seventh Avenue and Twenty-ninth Street, known as 341 Seventh Avenue, and now leased to the Northern Hotel. This property has not changed hands since Sept. 20, 1886, and is within three blocks of the new Pennsylvania Station.

Pearl Street Holdings Increased.

The Charles F. Noyes Company has leased the building 317 Pearl Street, for W. Irving Clark to the Preferred Realty Company. The latter company has taken the building for a long term of years with the option to purchase. The preferred Realty Company secured by purchase through the same brokers some months ago 315 Pearl Street, and now controls a plot 40 by 100 valued at, approximately, $60,000.

Buys in New Park Avenue Colony.

Park Avenue's new uptown residential section, where many fine residences have been erected during the past fifteen months, was strengthened yesterday by the sale of another valuable plot for immediate improvement.

The buyer is Benjamin Welles, who purchased from the Alliance Realty Company a lot 22 by 92 on the east side of Park Avenue, 27.6 feet north of Seventy-third Street, on which he will build a dwelling for his own use.

The Seventy-third Street corner is owned by Oakleigh Thorne, and James Bond also has a dwelling on the same block. The sellers still own an adjoining lot, 28 by 100, which is for sale. J. P. Whiton-Stuart was the broker in the transaction.

Big Deal on Washington Heights.

I. Randolph Jacobs has purchased from the Charles T. Barney estate the eleven lots on the east side of Hamilton Terrace and 144th Street and running south 275 feet. This property is surrounded by the highest class of private dwellings on Washington Heights and all the surrounding property as far west as Amsterdam Avenue is restricted to private dwellings, with the exception of this particular plot.

The purchasers will resell for improvement with apartment houses.

Sale of Sixth Avenue Building.

The Brown Realty Company has purchased 92 Sixth Avenue, a 3-story business building, on a lot 22.9 by 90, twenty-two feet south of Eighth Street. The purchaser will alter the upper floors for business purposes.

Demand for Private Dwellings.

C. H. Bachem has sold for the estate of John S. Harberger to Dr. J. Emerson Cole, 145 Lexington Avenue, a 4-story dwelling, on a lot 14.8 by 85. The property had not changed hands in over half a century.

Bernard Lichtenstein has sold to Dr. A. L. Goldwater the private dwelling 141 West 121st Street, on a lot 20.10 by 100.11. The buyer will occupy it after extensive improvements have been made. Goodwin & Goodwin negotiated the sale.

Investor Buys East Side Flats.

The three three-story double brick flats 249, 253 and 255 East Fifty-eighth Street, between Second and Third Avenues, being 24 by 55 by 100 feet each, have been sold for L. P. Towt to an investor by Charles W. Seitz.

Bronx Sales.

Alexander Selkin has sold for Alexander Friedberg 885 East 152d Street, a three-story front and rear house, on a lot 25 by 100; also vacant lot, 45 by 140, on southeast corner of 259th Street and Tyndale Avenue to a client.

John A. Steinmetz has sold for Anthony Vendrasco the northeast corner of Tremont and McGraw Avenues, a two-family house with store, on plot 50 by 100.

W. E. & W. I. Brown, Inc., have sold for Frederick Wesche 428 and 430 East 166th Street, on the south side, 97 feet east of Park Avenue, two frame buildings on a plot 50 by 262. The buyer will occupy same.

John A. Steinmetz sold for Samuel R. Waldron the two three-story flats with stores at the northeast corner of Mapes Avenue and 179th Street to Jacob Fries.

Brooklyn Sales.

Charles E. Rickerson has sold 600 Carlton Avenue, between St. Mark's Avenue and Prospect Place, a three-story and English basement brownstone dwelling, ten rooms and bath, for Theodore H. Babcock to Annie J. Miller.

Friday & Lehmann have sold 131 Moffat Street, a two-story and cellar brick two-family dwelling, for Maria Erick to a client; 100 Moffat Street, a two-story and basement frame, two-family dwelling, for Emily W. Laramee to a client; 408 Marion Street, a two-story and cellar brick two-family dwelling, for George Potts, Jr., to an investor, and 133 Moffat Street, a two-story and cellar brick two-family dwelling, for a client to Executive Realty Company.

The Livingston Country Home Sold.

Pease & Elliman have sold for Mrs. James L. Livingston her country place, situated on Meadow Lane, at Lawrence, Long Island. The property contains two acres, with house and stable. The purchaser is Maurice La Montagne, who will occupy the place as his Summer home.

Fast Construction Work.

The steel work on the new twelve-story and basement office and loft building now being erected by the Thompson-Starrett Company at the corner of Broadway and Fourth Street was completed yesterday and the masonry finished to the eighth floor. The steel tonnage exceeds 2,200 tons and the first column was set Aug. 20, so that the time consumed in the erection of the steel shell is a little less than seven weeks. The boilers are in, the stone work is finished, and the concrete arches are set up to the twelfth floor. An unusual feature of this building is that it has 275 feet of north light to 15,500 square feet of area. This is due to the fact that the structure is oblong in shape, fronting an entire block length on Fourth Street, and having at the same time 46 feet of frontage on Broadway.

Suburban Sales.

The McKnight Realty Company has sold at the Great Neck Estates to Mrs. S. Dickson two plots on North Drive, about 300 feet west of Bay View Avenue, and at Kenmore, Whitestone, to Mary A. Mullins, a plot, 60 by 150, on Fourth Street, between Fifth and Seventh Avenues, to M. J. Karley a plot, 40 by 150, on Fifth Street, between Seventh and Eighth Avenues, and to Sam Hanway a plot, 20 by 83, on Fourth Street, near Seventh Avenue.

The Cedar Inn property in Brookhaven, L. I., has been sold to David Wiener, a Brooklyn merchant.

Private Dwellings Leased.

Van Vliet & Place have leased the three-story dwelling, 279 West Fourth Street, to Ann J. Mayor; the three-story dwelling, 245 West 133d Street, to Emma A. Johnson; the dwelling, 280 West Tenth Street, to A. Starkely, and the dwelling, 130 Perry Street, to Kate Holey.

Recent Buyers.

The S. and F. Realty Company are the buyers of the Windsor Apartments, at 308 and 310 West Fifty-eighth Street, reported sold Wednesday.

Fort Washington Apartment.

Plans have been filed for a six-story brick apartment house to be erected at the southeast corner of Pinehurst Avenue and 179th Street for the Munden Construction Company, of which Charles Flaum is President, at a cost of $125,000. The building will have a frontage of 100 feet on the avenue by 90.11 feet on the street, with accommodations for fifty families and equipped with one elevator. The building will have a façade of brick with limestone and terra cotta trimmings.

Cafe de l'Opera Changes.

Plans have been filed for making alterations and remodeling the interior of the eight-story restaurant building formerly the Café de l'Opera by removing all escalators and conveyors, installing new dumbwaiters, and building new partitions and stairs and generally remodeling the interior of the main restaurant at 586 to 595 Seventh Avenue and 1,457 to 1,461 Broadway, of which Rich's Corporation is the lessee. The property is owned by the Henry Phipps Estate Corporation. Henry C. Pelton, architect, estimates the cost of making the changes at $6,000.

REFEREES' NOTICES.

NEW YORK SUPREME COURT, COUNTY OF New York.—MARY F. WHITTEN, Plaintiff, against ELIZABETH E. BOUTON et al., Defendants.

In pursuance of an interlocutory judgment of partition and sale bearing date the 28th day of June, 1910, and entered in the above-entitled action on August 4, 1910, I, the undersigned, the Referee in said judgment named, will sell at public auction, at the Exchange Salesroom, now located at Numbers 14 and 16 Vesey Street, in the Borough of Manhattan, in the City of New York, on the 27th day of October, 1910, at twelve o'clock noon on that day, by Joseph P. Day, Auctioneer, the premises directed by said judgment to be sold and therein described as

"All that portion of a certain lot, piece, or parcel of land, situate at Fordham, Town of West Farms, County of Westchester, State of New York, known and distinguished as Lot Number Twenty (20) on a map on file in the office of the Register of the County of Westchester, entitled 'Map of lands in partition, belonging to the heirs of Rebecca Bassford, situate at Fordham, in the Town of West Farms, dated January 5th, 1864,' that part of said lot hereby conveyed being bounded and described as follows: Beginning at a point where the northerly line of Lot Number Twenty-one (21) intersects with Thomas Avenue, thence northerly along the easterly line of said Thomas Avenue fifty (50) feet; thence easterly on a line parallel with the northerly line of said lot Number Twenty-one (21) to lot Number Nineteen (19); thence southerly along the westerly line of said lot Number Nineteen (19) fifty (50) feet to lot Number Twenty-one (21;) thence westerly along the northerly line of said lot Number Twenty-one (21) to Thomas Avenue, the point and place of beginning: Being the same premises conveyed by John Berrian and wife to said William Whitten by deed dated January 2, 1869, and recorded in the office of the Register of Westchester County in Liber 695 of Deeds, Page 427;" and all the right, title, and interest of each and every party to this action therein.

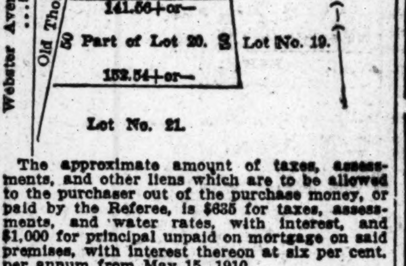
JAMES OLIVER, Referee.
VAN WYCK & MYGATT, Attorneys for Defendants, 40 Wall Street, Borough of Manhattan, N. Y.

The following is a diagram of the property to be sold. It is known and designated as and by the Street Number 2,468 Webster Avenue, Borough of the Bronx, City of New York, but same will be sold and conveyed subject to outstanding rights, if any, in, to, over, or upon the land in old Thomas Avenue in front of and adjoining said premises:



The approximate amount of taxes, assessments, and other liens which are to be allowed to the purchaser out of the purchase money, or paid by the Referee, is $635 for taxes, assessments, and water rates, with interest, and $1,000 for principal unpaid on mortgage on said premises, with interest thereon at six per cent. per annum from May 15, 1910.

Dated New York, Oct. 3d, 1910.
JAMES OLIVER, Referee.

BEET SUGAR BOUNTY ROOTED IN BRIBES

$100,000 a Year to Up-State Factories and "Appreciation Money" to Bill Rushers.

RAINES AND BURNETT NAMED

Former Manufacturer Also Says He Paid Chief Clerk Betts a Little—They All Said, "Thank You."

In the eleven years perceding 1908 the State Legislature appropriated about $545,000 for sugar bounties, practically all of which went to the three beet sugar factories at Lyons, Binghamton, and Rome, none of which was a very large factory. The Legislative Graft Investigating Committee now in session at the City Hall brought out yesterday perhaps the reason why the money was appropriated.

In one year, 1905, the committee was informed, Senator John Raines received $3,000 "appreciation money" from one of the companies, Assemblyman Jean L. Burnett $3,000, of which $1,500 was for himself and the rest for use as he saw fit, and $300 was supposed to have gone to Charle H. Betts, then Chief Clerk of the Assembly Revision Room, now a Republican State Committeeman. Senator Raines and Assemblyman Burnett are both dead.

Betts came to New York in the recent Roosevelt-Sherman fight and voted for Sherman, but when he got to Saratoga he turned over to Roosevelt, declaring that he had been deceived. He is now an active Roosevelt supporter.

Something of the beet sugar graft was heard during the Allds investigation Last Spring the Lyons Beet Sugar Refining Company of Lyons, N. Y., went into bankruptcy, the Legislature, in 1908 under Governor Hughes's leadership having abolished sugar bounties, and H. F. Zimmerlin then testified in the bankruptcy proceedings that he had paid something more than $6,000 in "appreciation money" to Senator Raines and other members of the Legislature in 1905.

Ran Two Months in the Year.

While the sugar bounties and the sugar factories were thriving there were three factories in the State. The one at Lyons produced about forty-eight tons a day, the one at Binghamton about the same amount, and the one at Rome about twent-five tons, that is, while they were running. They ran about two months continuously in the busy Autumn season after the beets were harvested. The three companies were not connectd, it was stated yesterday. The plant at Lyons was at first owned by the Empire State Beet Sugar Company, being bought over by the Lyons Beet Sugar Refining Company in 1904.

From 1907 to 1910 H. F. Zimmerlin was Vice President and then President of the Lyons Company, holding the latter position when it went into bankruptcy. Before that Frederick Steigerwald was President and active Manager. From 1901 up to 1910 Mr. Zimmerlin, however, went to Albany to look after legislation, and was known as the legislative agent for both the companies that held in succession the Lyons plant. H. F. Multer was Treasurer of the Lyons Beet Sugar Refining Company when it went into bankruptcy.

Graft Began in 1905.

Mr. Multer said on the stand yesterday that the Lyons company paid to Zimmerlin in 1905, 1906, and 1907 an aggregate of $17,409 with which to carry on his work as legislative agent at Albany. Mr. Multer said he didn't know just exactly what Mr. Zimmerlin had done with the money.

"Would it be putting it correctly to state that Mr. Zimmerlin was in Albany to look after the Bounty bills" asked M. Linn Bruce, counsel for the committee.

"I think so," answered Mr. Multer.

Then Mr. Zimmerlin was called. He had only told what men had received something more than $6,000 of the $17,000 "appreciation money" when the inquiry was adjourned for the day. The Special Appropriation bills, he said, ranged from $31,000 to $100,000 a year. Up to 1905, he said, he never paid "appreciation money" to any member or employe of the Legislature.

In that year, however, Mr. Zimmerlin began to meet difficulties. Assemblyman A. P. Smith of Wayne County, in which Lyons is situated, introduced the usual Bounty bill, but it slept in the committee room. Mr. Zimmerlin went to see Senator Raines, who said he would do what he could. He thought that a change would have to be made in the bill, so that the bounty would go, or appear to go, to the beet farmer, instead of to the beet sugar manufacturer.

A bill that was introduced in the Senate shortly before the close of the Legislature in May, provided that a bounty of $1 a ton should be paid to the grower or his assignees, provided that the grower received not less than $5 a ton for his beets. The "assignee" clause let the manufacturers into the bounty, and Mr. Zimmerlin said he thought that practically all the beet growers around Lyons assigned their bounties to the manufacturers.

Thanked Him for the Bribes.

During the closing days of the Legislature it was in the hands of the Rules Committee, the Chairman of the Senate Rules Committee being Senator Raines. The bill was championed in the Assembly by Assemblyman Jean L. Burnett of Ontario County, in which Lyons is not situated. The bill got through the day before the closing.

Previous to this, however, according to Mr. Zimmerlin, he had told President Steigerwald that if the bill did get through the company ought to show its appreciation, that Mr. Steigerwald had agreed that this was "all right," and that on a day just a little removed from the closing day—he could not remember whether it was before or after the bill was actually put through—he went down to Albany with $3,000 in his pocket meant for Senator Raines.

Q.—Tell us how you gave it to him? A.—I walked up to him in his committee room. He was alone. I handed him the money, saying: "Senator, here is a small contribution from the company in appreciation of your services."

Q.—What did he do then? A.—He took the money.

Q.—What did he say? A.—He said, "Thank you."

A little while after that Mr. Zimmerlin armed again with $3,000 from Mr. Steigerwald, he said, which had either been sent to him or which he had gone after, approached Assemblyman Burnett in the Assembly parlor.

Q.—What did you do? A.—I handed him $3,000.

Q.—What did you say? A.—I said, "Assemblyman, here is a small donation from the company as a slight token of its appreciation of the services you have rendered."

Q.—What did he say? A.—He said, "Thank you."

A little while after that Mr. Zimmerlin said he saw C. H. Betts, Chief Clerk of the Assembly Revision Room, in his office at Lyons and handed him $300 with another speech about appreciation. Mr. Betts also said, "Thank you."

The books of the company had shown that Mr. Zimmerlin had received also in 1905 considerably more than $1,000 in excess of the $6,300 accounted for by the appreciation gifts. He had said that his yearly expenses previously had been between $150 and $200, and so Mr. Bruce wanted to know what he had done with the more than $1,000 still unaccounted for that year.

"My expenses were very heavy that year," answered Mr. Zimmerlin. "I attended the State Grange, for instance, and there were expenses there. The traveling and hotel bills, too, were more numerous and bigger."

Mr. Zimmerlin denied that he had paid any money, directly or indirectly, to any member or employe of the Legislature other than the three named. The hearing was adjourned at 4 o'clock until this [illegible]

KILL COBBLER FOR GOLD.

One Man Caught by Kearny Policeman Running from Dead Man's Home.

Lying in a heap in the rear of his little cobbling shop at Dukes Street and Davis Avenue, Kearny, N. J., yesterday, the body of Louis Puglisi, an Italian shoemaker, 30 years old, was found shot to death. In an effort to conceal the crime an attempt was made to burn the body. The police are of the opinion that robbery was the motive.

A short time after the murder was supposed to have been committed Antonio Miceli, 21 years old, of 78 Rivington Street, New York, with his hands and face bespattered with blood, was captured by Patrolman George A. Holt, hurrying through Kearny Avenue, between Rose Street and Woodland Avenue. Another man who was with Miceli made his escape. They were acting suspiciously, and when Holt began questioning them one of the pair darted off. Holt held on to Miceli, who resisted arrest.

Puglisi came to Kearny about six months ago, buying the one-story house in which he lived and worked. He was thrifty and is said to have saved considerable money, which he kept about the house, not believing in banks. There are three rooms in the house, one being used for a cobbler's shop, another as a living room, and the third as a bedroom.

Mrs. George Earle, who lives across the street from the shoe shop, told the police that she was awakened early yesterday morning by moans coming from the direction of the little shop. Her husband is a night watchman, and she was alone with her 12-year-old son George. She says she heard a commotion, but was too frightened to give any alarm. A short time after she heard the moans, she said, two revolver shots were fired, and then a man ran out of the gate alongside of the cobbler's shop. Then two more shots were fired, she declared, and a moment later two more men emerged from the shop.

It was while patroling his post that Holt came upon two men who were running toward him. As soon as they saw him they slowed down and started to cross the street to avoid him. Holt's suspicion of the men led him to go after them to ascertain why they were hurrying away. The man under arrest stopped, but his companion kept right on.

SHE MARKED DR. CRIPPEN.

Mrs. Nash, Who Helped Bring Him to Trial, is Here.

Among those who arrived yesterday on the White Star liner Majestic were Mr. and Mrs. John E. Nash. Mrs. Nash is known on the stage as Lillian Hawthorne and her husband is her manager. It was she who was largely instrumental in having Dr. Crippen brought to trial for the murder of his wife, Belle Elmore, the actress.

Mrs. Nash comes here to fill a vaudeville engagement. Before leaving England she made arrangements so that she can cut short her engagement and return to London if the police authorities want her in the case against Crippen.

"The evidence against Crippen is so strong that there is no probability that he will escape conviction," said Mrs. Nash. "The prosecution is sure of five points against Crippen. The sex of the body has been determined, the doctor bought poison and some grains of that poison were found in the body and the coat of a pair of pajamas buried with the body was the same as the lower part found in Crippen's room."

When Mrs. Nash first went to Scotland Yard she said that not much attention was paid to her story. Mrs. Nash believes that Ethel Le Neve is as guilty as the doctor and she expects to see the charge against her, accessory after the fact.

WARRANT FOR A WOMAN.

Montefiore Home Acts After a Long Dispute with Former Collector.

Detectives of the District Attorney's office were seeking Anna Volinsky, a former collector for the Montefiore Home for Chronic Invalids, last night after Magistrate Appleton had issued a warrant for her on the application of Isidor J. Kresel, law partner of ex-District Attorney Jerome. Mr. Kresel, it was understood, appeared for the Montefiore Home, of which Jacob H. Schiff, the banker, is President. The purpose in getting the woman to court is said to be to determine her mental responsibility.

Miss Volinsky, according to her lawyer, Miss Mary Coleman, made charges some months ago to Mr. Schiff against another person connected with the home, with whom she had been thrown in contact. She maintains that Mr. Schiff, instead of ordering an official investigation of her allegations, dispensed with her services. Miss Volinsky has since visited many influential persons, calling once even at the Mayor's office, with a view apparently of forcing Mr. Schiff to do as she wishes.

After the issuance of the warrant a report spread that the woman had threatened harm to Mr. Schiff. Both Mr. Jerome and Miss Coleman said that this was not so.

KORNIT PROMOTERS ON TRIAL

Ellis & Graves Accused of Swindling Scores of Credulous Investors.

Charles E. Ellis and Edwin R. Graves, who were indicted some time ago for conspiracy to defraud by the use of the mails, through the exploitation of a corporation called the Kornit Manufacturing Company, were placed on trial yesterday before Judge Hand in the Criminal Branch of the United States Circuit Court. The defendants, who were the active officials of the Kornit Company, advertised extensively through the country districts that in the product called Kornit, made from the hoofs and horns of cattle, they had a substitute for hard rubber, which was sure to be a commercial success.

Ellis and Graves conducted an extensive publishing house on the west side, and through their publications boomed not only Kornit but other schemes which they sought to commend to the investors of the country. Bankruptcy, however, eventually overtook them, and the disclosures which followed gave the Government its chance to institute prosecution. It is alleged that in the Kornit scheme the two defendants got $250,000 out of credulous investors.

A large part of the day was taken up with drawing a jury to try the case, after which Assistant United States District Attorney Pitken told how Ellis, Graves and a man named Jones had organized a Kornit manufacturing company in 1894 and sold much stock on the basis of flaming prospectuses. Mr. Pitken said that the total amount that Ellis and Graves received from the sale of stock was $371,000, whereas the books of the concern showed that the sale of Kornit never brought in more than $104.

Miss Viola Mortimer was the only witness examined yesterday. She said that she read an advertisement in a magazine of the wonderful future in store for Kornit and at different times between 1905 and 1908 had made purchases of the stock or loaned money to Ellis and Graves. Her stock holdings are still minus dividends, and her loans have never been repaid. The trial will continue to-day.

PUFFS SAVE GIRL'S HEAD.

Protected Her from Injury When She Fell in the Subway.

The heavy puffs in the coiffure of Miss Julia Stein of 54 St. Marks Place, Brooklyn, saved her from serious injury in the Fourteenth Street Station of the Subway yesterday morning, while she was going to her place of work as bookkeeper in a Sixth Avenue department store.

As she was about to change from an express train to a local some one shoved her violently aside. The girl pitched forward and fell, striking her head upon the platform. Several persons picked her up, dazed, but still conscious, and the special policeman at the station sent a call for an ambulance from Bellevue Hospital. The ambulance surgeon said the girl had been saved from a fracture of the skull by the abundance of her puffs. She had only an abrasion of the knee.

The Home of Hart, Schaffner & Marx Clothes

Begins Our New Year

THIS is our Anniversary—today begins our Fourth Year at 1195 Broadway.

That the year past has been most successful,—that New York men have appreciated our efforts to give them Values a bit Unordinary is fully evinced by the fact that our host of friends has grown so that we have had to enlarge our Broadway store and also to make a New Home for Ourselves and for Hart, Schaffner & Marx Clothes at 246 and 248 West 125th St.

Of course we feel like patting ourselves on the back—Hard,—but we know that to YOU our Merchandise is what really counts,—not our Success, though we hope that you will congratulate us on that.

As to the merchandise,—First of all there is our Hart, Schaffner & Marx clothing stock,—never has it been so complete, so replete, with value as today.

Suits at $40, $45 and $50 that the best custom tailors will find hard to equal at $75.

Suits at $20, $25 and $30 that others charge much more for and justly too,—for Hart, Schaffner & Marx are the only tailors in America that can make such garments at such altogether modest prices.

As for the rest,—Wallach Furnishings and Wallach Hats have for years been favorably known to New York men for prices always lower than their Quality really warrants.

If you are a Man,—come and see what we have to offer.

If you are a Woman,—here's the place to shop for your men folk.

At any rate,—Come and see.
